STRONG AS PORT ARTHUR.

RECENT VISITOR TELLS OF FORTIFICATIONS AT VLADIVOSTOK.

Harbor Thoroughly Mined and It Is Believed It Is Defended by Submarine Boats. City Has Plenty of Provisions. Mails Arrive There Daily.

Chefoo, Nov. 7.—As the result of months of preparation, Vladivostok is now strongly protected, according to Capt. Halvorsen, of the Norwegian steamer Tungus, which arrived here last evening. Capt. Halvorsen says that the Vladivostok system of fortification begins many miles outside the city proper, and grows stronger as the city is approached.

Ships laden with food, cannon, ammunition, and all sorts of military supplies frequently arrive at Vladivostok, according to Capt. Halvorsen, who says that five ships engaged in unloading their cargoes were in port when the Tungus sailed.

The captain is unable to estimate the strength of the garrison, but he says that everybody at Vladivostok seems to be either an officer or an ordinary soldier. The European residents show their confidence in the security of city by evidencing an unwillingness to leave it. If the Japanese make an attempt to capture Vladivostok, it is the belief of Capt. Halvorsen that they will find it to be a second Port Arthur.

Capt. Halvorsen says he believes that submarine boats have arrived at Vladivostok, but that he is not positive in this belief, for the reason that at the present the Russian naval secrets are being closely guarded. The harbor, he says, has been mined for a distance of some seven miles. In four miles of this area contact mines have been laid, while in the remaining three miles electric mines have been planted.

Mail trains arrive at and depart from Vladivostok every day, and there is now stored there an immense supply of coal taken from the mines in the neighborhood of the city.

AIRSHIP ADRIFT.

The Arrow Goes Soaring On Its Own Account. Its Whereabouts Unknown.

St. Louis, Nov. 2.—The airship Arrow, which made its fourth flight to-day, escaped from its crew while being towed back to the aerodrome this evening, and is now floating around in space, but no one knows where.

Shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon an ascension was successfully made with aeronaut Knabenshue aboard. Shortly after the ship arose he signalled that his motor was broken. The airship went in a northerly direction and finally settled within twenty-five feet of the ground just north of Olive street road. Knabenshue threw out a rope and the machine was pulled to the ground. The aeronaut then landed safely.

By means of an automobile the Arrow was towed back to the fair grounds. Here, in some manner, the airship became released and soared skyward. While daylight lasted the Arrow was observable, but when the night fell it was lost to view.

UP FOR CONTEMPT.

JUDGE PEEBLES ISSUES RULE FOR EDITOR POWELL.

The Tarboro Southerner Had Reflected Upon Judge R. B. Peebles as a Gentleman and the Editor Made a Retraction.

Tarboro, N. C., Nov. 1.—Judge Peebles issued writ for contempt for Frank Powell, editor of the Tarboro Southerner, returnable this morning. The editor was discharged upon retraction.

WHAT EDITOR POWELL SAID.

The following is the article in the Tarboro Southerner on Saturday for which Judge Peebles issued the rule:

"Clerk Pennington gave out some news this morning when he announced that instead of Judge Justice holding court next week Judge Peebles would preside. The announcement was provocative of considerable talk.

"This change is done to enable the judges to be near home on election day. The change does not give unalloyed satisfaction here.

"At the same time no one wants Bob Peebles with his unsavory reputation of unfairness, his disregard of the amenities that go between gentlemen. In the gentleman class the Southerner makes bold to say it does not include Judge Peebles."

Danville, Va., Nov. 2.—Mrs. E. W. Barrett, wife of the editor of the Birmingham Age-Herald, died here to-night at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. W. T. Sutherland. She leaves an infant daughter six days old.

"OPEN IT OR DIE."

"I DON'T KNOW THE COMBINATION," REPLIED THE AGENT.

Two Desperadoes Feiled By D. E. Penland. They Get His Purse But Nothing Else in the Office. They Made Good Their Escape.

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 8.—Another desperate hold up and robbery occurred in the heart of the city this morning at 6:30 o'clock, when two men walked into the office of Wm. Johnson, Jr., at 23 Temple Court, and placing a revolver under the nose of D. E. Penland, Mr. Johnson's agent, demanded that he open the office safe under penalty of death. Mr. Penland calmly informed the highwaymen that he did not know the combination.

"Then open the other one," said the man, as he jammed the muzzle of the revolver closer to Mr. Penland's face and at the same time indicated with his left hand a smaller safe that stood in another portion of the room.

"I don't know the combination to that one, either," replied the agent, as he counted the bullets in the desperado's pistol. The robber hesitated for a minute, and then spying Mr. Penland's pocketbook that lay on the desk and containing $8, picked it up, and backing to the doorway, warned the agent not to follow, fired a shot at the occupant of the room and disappeared. The bullet whistled past Mr. Penland's head and buried itself in the corner of the room.

It is believed that the two men were white with blackened faces. The police are working on the affair, but so far have obtained no clue.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 4.—Miss Mabel Esther Lowry, a pretty young school girl of seventeen, died yesterday at the University hospital from the effects of injuries received on the Southern railway, near Amherst court house. ## GOVERNOR AYCOCK

SPEAKS TO THE PEOPLE OF MARTIN COUNTY.

A Great Gathering of People to Hear a Magnificent Speech—Other Speakers and a Good Dinner Which Was Enjoyed by all Present.

Williamston, N. C., Nov. 3.—About eight miles from here in Griffin's district this has been a gala day—one that will long be remembered, for it brought together friends from all parts of the county, who talked of what had happened since last they met; but the feature of the day was the presence of North Carolina's beloved governor, Charles B. Aycock. The people had planned an event that is characteristic of their intelligence and thrift, and in selecting the governor to be the speaker they acted wisely, for not only being governor of North Carolina, he is an orator who would interest one on any subject.

His excellency was introduced by Hon. Harry W. Stubbs, who presented him in a way that is exclusively his own and one which is much admired by all who hear him talk.

The governor was in the best of spirits. He spoke an hour and a half in a delightful manner. He interestingly told of the expenditure of money during his administration, telling how he had spent it for the cause of education, the uplifting of the fallen, the care of the soldiers who fought so bravely for our south, and for the care of those noble women, widows of those soldiers, who were as brave during the struggle as the men. He told also how he had, with the aid of the heads of the institutions of the deaf, dumb and blind, almost compelled the parents to give them their afflicted children that the state might make them happy and intelligent despite their affliction. The governor said that if men approved of this method then let them vote the Democratic ticket, for this was that for which Democracy stood.

His speech was a strong one and delivered in a manner that held the listeners so closely that no interruption occurred. The people of this county appreciate his visit among them and are glad to meet personally the man who has done so much for them and whom they have learned to love during the past four years.

The ladies of the district had prepared a dinner that was enjoyed by all. Eight hundred were accommodated at a sitting and the tables were filled several times. The crowd is estimated at about three thousand. After all had participated of this nicely prepared dinner the county candidates announced themselves.

The day's program was concluded by a finely delivered speech by our most excellent representative, Hon. J. H. Small, who spoke for an hour on the national issues of the day.

The committee, Messrs. William R. Daniel, Pleny Peel and Simon D. Griffin, are to be congratulated upon the success of the day and upon their excellent management.

The governor spoke in the court house to-night and a large number of the town's representative people were present.

A fire Wednesday morning destroyed the Central Hotel and a number of stores adjoining the hotel at Tazewell, Va. The total loss is about $15,000.

Several people were hurt by being hit with trunks thrown from windows, glass, etc.

WAS MISS BESSIE MILLER.

A Delightful Occasion in Her Honor at Her New Home.

From the Danville, (Va.) Register, the home of Miss Bessie Miller since her marriage to Mr. W. B. Hill, we copy the following:

"Tuesday afternoon marked another of the many delightful functions of the season, when Miss Ramey Hamlin entertained a host of her friends in honor of Mrs. W. B. Hill, one of the most charming of brides who has come into our midst to make her future home. The home on Paxton street was most artistically decorated for the occasion, the drawing room being in pink and white roses, ferns and other evergreens; sitting rooms and hall in fall flowers and autumn leaves, while the dining room was especially beautiful in the uniqueness of its decorations, autumn leaves, and all the fruits and vegetables of fall ripeness, banked on buffets, mantles, etc., making a most attractive picture. "Funch" was enjoyed for several hours by the guests, and delightful refreshments, consisting of fruit, punch, chicken salad, wafers, olives, fried oysters, coffee and bonbons were served. Miss Hamlin and Mrs. Hill were assisted in receiving their guests by Mrs. Mal Hamlin."

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR CATARRH.

Just Breathe Hyomei Four Times a Day and Be Cured.

If a few years ago some one had said you can cure catarrh by breathing air charged with healing balsams, the idea would have been ridiculed and it remained for that eminent investigator, R. T. Booth, to discover in Hyomei this method of cure.

Breathe Hyomei through the Inhaler for a few minutes four times a day and it will cure the worst case of catarrh. It soothes and heals the mucous membrane of the air passages, prevents irritation, and effects a complete and lasting cure.

In Goldsboro there are scores of well known people who have been cured of catarrh by Hyomei. If it does not help you J. H. Hill & Son will return the money you paid for Hyomei.
