

IT'S UP TO THE SOUTH.

A well known trade journal which has done much towards encouraging Southern business men to depend more largely upon their own pluck and energies to develop the vast resources in this section suggests that the newspapers from Maryland to Texas for the next year or two "cease political and sociological discussions and bend their energies to the full awakening of the whole people to the necessity of untiring work." And continuing our contemporary says:

"Let us turn from profitless political discussions; let us cease to bemoan, as so many Southern papers and Southern people do, the lack of power on the part of the South in the political world, and let us give our thought and energy to the improvement of agricultural conditions, to efforts to turn the tide of immigration to this section, to the utilization of our vast timber supply in the thousand and one woodworking interests for which it affords an opening and in which we now so largely depend upon other sections; let us utilize to the fullest the limitless stores of coal and ore and copper and granite and almost every known variety of minerals. In short, let us do as Job was commanded to do, gird up our loins and be men; let us, for the creation of industrial activities and development of wealth and power take a fresh start and hustle as we have never done before; let us for immigration, for agricultural and industrial advancement, for the material upbuilding of the entire South, that we may create in this section a wealth which shall rival that of the North and of the West."

That is good advice. Business pays, politics does not. And furthermore the best way to acquire a political influence, if we must have it, is to first develop our resources to such extent as to force the rest of the country, whether it wants to or not, to recognize our importance as the most productive part of the nation. The conditions by which New England in the past surpassed the wealth and development of the South no longer exist. The South is now standing on its own feet, and it does not take advantage of its opportunities the Southern people alone are to blame.

The land and industrial department of the Southern Railway is authority for the statement that during the past three years $40,000,000 has been invested in the territory tributary to the 8,600 miles of the Southern Railway and the Mobile and Ohio Railroad. It is further stated as an indication of the general development in the South that of the amount mentioned above $140,000,000 was expended in the construction and equipment of traffic-producing industrial plants, while the remainder was expended in public and semi-public utilities in the nature of conservative forces, a very large sum finding its mission in the capitalization of banks, insurance and trust companies, and a still larger sum in the great municipal improvements which are becoming such a marked feature in the cities and towns reached by this system. The strictly industrial investments in new plants during the period under review numbered 674 in 1902, 908 in 1903 and 675 in the year ended on June 30, 1904.

How to Cure Corns and Bunions.

First, soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn a few days to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequalled. For sale by Higgins Drug Co.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by Higgins Drug Co.

WHERE DO YOU BUY YOUR FURNITURE?

Some people buy their furniture regardless of which store it comes from, simply because it is called furniture. There are various grades of furniture same as in flour, sugar and coffee of whom you buy of your grocer. Eighteen years of handling furniture exclusively, has taught us the different grades, the best and most popular styles. We have three floors packed with furniture, from the very cheapest to the very best that can be had, and our prices are lower than others considering the quality of our goods.
