A $4,000,000 diamond has been discovered at Johannesburg, South Africa. That young man who wishes to prove that he is the most devoted lover in all the world should buy it for an engagement ring.

John L. Sullivan attributes his success and greatness to the fact that he never smoked a cigarette. Now, will the ambitious small boy who has formed this pernicious habit consider the consequences?

The Southern Cotton Association has fixed ten cents a pound as the minimum price of the present cotton crop. Now you know what your cotton is worth, and you will be all right if only the other fellow, the man who buys, can be made to know it.

New York doctors have struck because the price of an autopsy has been reduced from $25 to $10. But the coroners are claiming in defense that a charge of $25 a cut by the doctors is almost as high as the charges which the beef trust makes for some of its cuts.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Alonzo J. Whitman, known to the police of many cities as an expert forger, and who made a sensational escape last September from detectives by jumping through the window of a moving train, was captured today at the home of his mother, in Danville. He has been with his mother ever since his escape. When the police entered the house Whitman ran upstairs and out on the roof entering a cupola. Officers stationed outside, however, detected the move and he was captured.

GUARANTEED BY J. H. HILL & SON.

Hyomei the Only Cure for Catarrh Which Returns Your Money If Not Satisfactory.

It is seldom that a druggist has enough faith in the medicine he sells even when prepared by himself to be willing to refund the money if it does not cure; but Hyomei has cured so many cases of catarrh among the customers of J. H. Hill & Son that they offer to refund the money to all who use it and report that they are not satisfied.

Hyomei is the simplest and most convenient remedy for catarrh ever offered to the public. Breathed through an inhaler so small that it can be carried in the vest pocket, for a few minutes four times a day, it will absolutely kill all the germs of catarrh and cure the disease. Catarrh cannot exist where Hyomei is used. It has a two-fold action, killing all the germs in the air passages and lungs and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane.

Some of the most prominent men and women of the country have gladly given testimonials to Hyomei. After seeking relief in vain for years this wonderful remedy has cured them of catarrh, and it is no wonder that they want others to know of it.

D. O. Groff, Editor of the Nicholasville, Ky., News writes, "Ever since I was a young man I have been troubled with catarrh, and in later years the disease became unbearable. Hyomei has helped me so much that I wish to publicly speak of its merits, so that others afflicted as I have been may be likewise benefited.

If you have catarrh, accept J. H. Hill & Sons proposition and use Hyomei. The complete outfit of Hyomei costs but $1 and consists of an inhaler, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei.

AS TO OSTEOPATHY.

Asheville, N. C., Jan. 27, '05.
An open letter to J. Howell Way,
Secretary of Medical Society of North Carolina:

Dear Doctor:
A copy of your circular letter of January 20th, to the Medical Profession of this State, was handed me at the post-office just now, by a member of the Duncombe County Medical Society, with the remark, "Have you seen that foolishness?"

Your letter in effect condemns the bill proposed by the Osteopaths of this State, and calls on the medical profession to take a united stand in an effort to defeat the bill introduced in the Senate January 19th. The bill is as nearly as possible an exact duplicate of the existing law which creates the State Medical Society, a body politic, and gives it the power to appoint a board of Examiners who shall pass on the qualifications of men who desire to practice medicine in North Carolina. Your letter is too long to quote in full, and such will be used for the purpose of my reply, unless you take up separately some statements you make in this letter.

First, it will be made at this session of the Legislature "to secure some legislation for osteopaths and quack doctors desiring to practice medicine in North Carolina." In this statement you evidently overlooked a decision of the Supreme Court in the case of State vs. McKnight, in which the court declares that osteopathy is not practice of medicine. The bill to which you refer grants osteopaths not the right to practice medicine, but the right to practice osteopathy.

Again, you say they feel "Their inability to pass such an examination in medical science as the men of the regular profession have passed." In this you fail to take into account that the State Board of Medical Examiners refused to examine an osteopath at its regular meeting in May, because the Supreme Court, in the case of State vs. Briggs, in a decision handed down December, 1903, states that said Board of Medical Examiners had no right to examine applicants other than those of the regular medical profession. The osteopaths inability to pass an examination, therefore, is legal and not mental.

You say further, such Legislation is "not only unjust to the profession, but ruinously hurtful to the people, and such a bill is infamous in the extreme, unjust to the citizens of the State and an outrage on the decent respectable medical profession who are striving to elevate and uplift professional standards." To this statement I wish to submit the following facts: The Legislature through a bill introduced at the instigation of your Society in 1903 gives Osteopathy legal recognition in this State. The Supreme Court in the case of State vs. Biggs decided that the State Board of Medical Examiners had no right to examine Osteopaths or any other school of medicine which did not administer drugs as a therapeutic agency. Its decision leaves the State open to those practices "which will prove degrading to the profession of medicine and render our state the haven of refuge for the ignorant and illiterate quacks of other states."—a condition which Osteopaths as well as the regular medical profession deplore. The bill introduced in the present Legislature Jan. 19th, is an attempt on the part of the Osteopaths to prevent the illiterate and incompetent men of the Osteopathic profession from coming into North Carolina. Said bill requires that applicants who appear for an examination shall present credentials showing an attendance in a reputable Osteopathic College of three years or not less than nine months each.

Again, to oppose this bill as you suggest in your circular letter does not keep out incompetent men of any school, but on the other hand, if the bill is defeated, North Carolina remains open to the incompetent as well as the competent Osteopaths.

The bill contains no clause which gives special privileges to our profession. As I have said above, it is modeled after the law now in force regulating the medical profession who use drugs. This move on the part of the North Carolina Osteopathic Society, is an attempt to join the regular profession in raising the standards of those who treat diseases by Osteopathic methods in this state.

I would further call your attention to the fact that twenty-seven States in the Union have legally recognized osteopathy, and by such action have prevented the incompetent from practicing in their bounds. Your proposed bill leaves North Carolina wide open to such incompetent osteopaths as may be forced by the recognition of other States to leave those States and hunt other locations. You say that the bill is an attempt to lower the standards of the medical profession in North Carolina. As I have said above, the proposed law requires three years of nine months each, or twenty-seven months, of every applicant for license to practice in this State. The minimum requirements by your law is four terms of not less than seven months each, or twenty-eight months. Thus you see that the osteopath requires only one month less study of their applicants than you require of yours. I leave it with your common sense to say whether you would not prefer an education in any branch for three terms of nine months to an education of four terms of seven months in four years. We do not ask for the right to examine any applicant who does not hold himself out to the public as an osteopath in order to obtain patronage. We do not ask for the law to interfere with the practice or methods of any school. We ask for no privileges not already given us by the decision of the Supreme Court of this State. We do ask for this bill, for two considerations: That the people of North Carolina may not be imposed on by ignorant and illiterate men of our school and that graduate members of our profession who have established a practice in this State, shall not be imposed upon by imposters, who may pretend to practice a system which they do not understand.

I assure you, Doctor, that no selfish motive prompted the members of the North Carolina Osteopathic Society to prevent the bill which you denounce, and I challenge you to show where in any particular this bill is infamous, or where it is unjust to the citizens of this State. I challenge you to give one proof that the passage of this bill would lower the standards of the medical profession one iota in this State.

I am, respectfully yours,
W. BANKS MEACHAM,
Sec. of the N.C. Osteopathy School.

Thomas Queer is dead at Wooster, Ohio. Queer led a very queer life. He had been mourned as dead for forty years before his actual demise. He quarreled with his wife, Mrs. Queer, fifty years ago and left home. After he had been gone ten years news of his death was received. Ten years ago he returned and tried to come to terms with Mrs. Queer but failed. When Queer went away from home he left Mrs. Queer with two daughters who were also queer. He refused to tell how or where he spent the fifty years of his absence and there was something queer about his life. Mrs. Queer is still living at the age of 91. What has become of the Queer daughters is not stated. This is a queer world and that was a Queer family.

MRS. B. S. JERMAN DEAD.

A Woman Whose Beauty and Goodness Took Hold of a Whole People.

Raleigh News and Observer.
Mrs. B. S. Jerman, after an illness of only a few days duration, died last Monday night at 10:45 o'clock, at the home of her husband, on the corner of North and Wilmington streets.

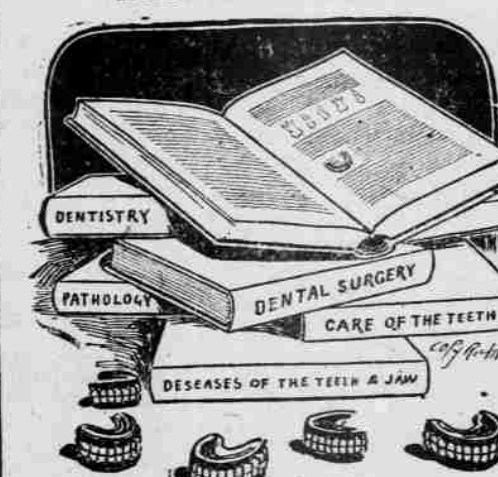

Mrs. Jerman, who was Miss Isabelle Montgomery, the daughter of C. G. Montgomery, Esq., formerly of Concord, now of Anniston, Ala., leaves a husband and two children to mourn her loss. She was married to Mr. Jerman, who is the cashier of the Commercial and Farmers' Bank, on May 16th, 1895. During her ten years residence in Raleigh she has won the hearts of all who knew her. There has been no more sadder, no more pitiable death in Raleigh in many years. It is the privilege that has the value all its own of a place that has not out-grown the personal touch and the all-embracing sympathy to take the death of a sweet woman as a matter of a city's grief. Raleigh will mourn Mrs. Jerman, for her influence permeated the city, and her touch was well-nigh universal.

It is hard to write of the death of such a woman. All people knew her. Her smile, her beauty, was a thing that touched and revived and appealed in places that she knew not of. She was one of those beautiful ones, whose personality, given graciously and openly, was received as a sort of beneficent inspiration. There were those who loved her who had never spoken to her directly. Her charm was of that sort that held hearts because of a sincerity founded on a charity which looked always for good and found it her own clear vision. What good she has done, and she was always active toward those endeavors that make for hope and happiness, will never be reckoned. It was her personality, strong, and simple, unaffected, exquisitely touching and appealing, that held the hearts of the people. Hers was that double and generous quality which gives itself passionately to her own and was prolific in the abundance of its worth to those who had no claim upon her.

The pity of her death is swallowed in the goodness and—recurring word—the beauty of her life.

The death of Mrs. Jerman comes as a personal sorrow to many in this city, where she had often visited and was greatly beloved by all who knew her, as is also Mr. Jerman, to whom in his so sad bereavement the deepest sympathy of his hosts of friends here goes out with abiding sincerity.

WELDON LADY TO WED.

Invitations Issued to the Approaching Marriage of Miss Jessie Edwards and Mr. P. S. Roper of Virginia.

Charlotte Observer.
Weldon, Jan. 27.—Invitations have been issued to the approaching marriage of Miss Jessie Allan Edwards, of Weldon, to Mr. Paul Spotswood Roper, of Petersburg, Va. The wedding will take place in Grace Episcopal church Wednesday, February 8th, at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. J. Taylor Chambers.

Miss Edwards is the youngest and last to wed of three charming daughters of Mrs. Cary Campbell Edwards. Mr. Roper is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett Roper. He is prominently known throughout Virginia and North Carolina in the business world, while socially his family needs no mention here. The marriage and reception will be a brilliant society affair and out-of-town people will come to the city to attend the same.

The three young ladies above referred to are well known and most pleasantly remembered in Goldsboro, where they have many admiring friends, each of them having, at different times, visited Mrs. Judge W. S. O'B. Robinson, on Park Avenue.

Quiet at Moscow.

Moscow, Jan. 25.—A correspondent of the Associated Press who arrived here today from St. Petersburg found no signs of troops at the depot or in the surrounding streets. The street cars are moving, but many of the stores are closed and there is scarcely any of the freight traffic which ordinarily fills the streets. At all corners were posted bulletins signed by Police Chief Volkoff warning the people against public disturbances, and forbidding them to assemble in groups.

WINTER EATING RUINS STOMACHS.

"Now Is the Time You Need Mi-o-na," says J. H. Hill & Son.

Think for a moment of the extra strain you put upon the stomach in the Winter. The hearty food, the late suppers, and the lack of exercise and out door life all weaken and strain the stomach, laying the foundation for poor health and suffering.

Chronic stomach troubles, nervous irritability, and serious bowel and kidney diseases have often dated from a week of extra "good living." Nearly everyone is bothered with more or less headaches and backaches, furred tongue, poor appetite, dry, hacking cough, heartburn, spots before the eyes, dizziness or vertigo, sleeplessness, lack of energy, loss of flesh or a general weak, tired feeling.

Now is the time when Mi-o-na is needed to repair the ravages and wastes the hearty eating of Winter has caused in the stomach and digestive system. This is the only known agent that strengthens the stomach and digestive organs, so they can and will readily digest whatever food is eaten. A Mi-o-na tablet taken before each meal will remove all irritation, inflammation and congestion in the digestive organs, and so strengthen them that they will extract from the food all that goes to make good rich blood, firm muscle, and a sound, healthy body.

This remarkable remedy costs but 50 cents, and if its use does not restore your full vigor, vitality, and health, J. H. Hill & Son, one of the best known drug firms in this section will refund your money. Unbounded faith like this deserves your confidence.

Congress is grappling with the garden seed problem. All other proposed legislation would as well sneak back in the pigeon hole and try to look resigned.

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE.

Visit State Hospital Near This City.

The joint committee of the general assembly—Senate and House—appointed to inspect the State Hospital near this city, for the care of the colored insane, visited that institution Saturday afternoon, arriving on the 12.30 train and leaving on the 9.40 train at night, during which time they gave this splendid piece of State property a thorough inspection, and, as they could not be otherwise, were greatly impressed and gratified at the ability with which it is administered in every department and detail by its efficient superintendent, Dr. J. F. Miller.

The following constituted the committee: Senate: Messrs. W. R. Odell, of Cabarrus, T. V. Long, of Iredell, and C. A. Webb, of Buncombe. House: Messrs. W. G. Cox, of Perquimans, W. M. Henry, of Transylvania, J. S. Hall, of Rowan, J. E. Fowler, of Samson, and Dr. W. O. Rogers, of Lincoln.

Two S. C. Fires.

At Bennettsville, S. C., yesterday afternoon, the Southern Cotton Oil Company's plant at that place was destroyed by fire. Loss of about $100,000, partially covered by insurance. About 2,000 tons of cotton seed meal and a quantity of oil was destroyed.

At Union, S. C., yesterday fire originated in the workshop of the Bailey Lumber and Manufacturing Company destroyed its plant and stables and the store of the Union Supply Company, the Jeffries building and the residence of Miss Emma Brardon. The loss aggregates $38,000, about half insured. The Masonic Lodge lost properties valued at $7,000, insurance $3,500.

The fact that California reports a production of 125,000,000 pounds of prunes during the past year offers food for reflection as well as digestion. One hundred and twenty-five million pounds of prunes! The quantity is appalling. That is one pound of prune for every person in the United States and some 35,000,000 pounds to scatter around in Europe. Furthermore, there were enough prunes produced by California in 1904 to give several prunes to every inhabitant of the globe and still have a few over. Boaring-house frequenters can be excused for shuddering at such a stupendous output of prunes. Cranks have been known to live altogether on prunes, under the delusion that this fruit promotes the simple life and longevity. What goes with California's 125,000,000 pounds of prunes is not hard to answer. They are eaten, and while the prune is not universally popular, it dominates the dinner table to an extent realized by few people.
