

"This ARGUS o'er the people's rights
Doth an eternal vigil keep;

No soothing strains of Maia's son
Can lull its hundred eyes to sleep."

VOL. XV

GOLDSBORO, N. C. THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1905.

NO 77

BLOOD DYES SPINNING ROOM

SUPERINTENDENT R. O. PICKARD KILLED IN WILSON.

Wiley House and a Companion Named Norton Enter the Spinning Room Drunk and are Ordered to Leave. The Murder Follows.

Gloom Cast Over Wilson.

Wilson, Feb. 16.—A whip-like crack, a spurt of flame, a puff of smoke, and as K. O. Pickard, Superintendent of the Wilson Cotton Mills, fell to the floor of the spinning room bathed in his blood, a thrill of horror flashed through our community at the realization that another tragedy had cast its red stain over us.

The deed, as indicated, was committed in the spinning room of the factory. The man who fired the fatal shot was Wiley House, a young man of about twenty-seven. The ball entered the body of the superintendent about two and a half inches from the right nipple and on a line with the left. It penetrated the vitals and death followed within a few minutes. Mr. Pickard managed to stagger from the spinning room into his office. Here he fell and expired.

The events leading up to this grim climax are briefly these:

Wiley House and Charley Norton had been discharged from Hackney Brothers Carriage Works, and were out on a "bender." Loaded up with whiskey they first went to the carriage works and then from there to the mill.

Here, the superintendent, seeing their condition, ordered them out. Instead of obeying they became abusive. "Shoot the——!" exclaimed Norton to his companion, applying a foul epithet to the superintendent. Instantly House's pistol gleamed in his hand and its sharp report sounded in the room.

Another story declares that House was the one who first cried shoot, and that Norton answered: "Shoot the—— yourself!"

However that may be, as Pickard reeled back, shot by his death, Norton and House, taking advantage of the wild confusion into which the mill operatives were thrown by the tragedy, slipped from the room and made their escape.

They had gone but a short distance, however, when the hue and cry was raised and swift runners were at their heels. Final escape was hopeless. Hunters were on all sides of them. Capture could not long be avoided.

It came soon. Eager hands seized them as they fled along the road to the poor house and hurried them back toward the jail. Here the doors closed upon them; and behind those doors they now await their preliminary trial.

The crime has aroused among our people the deepest indignation. Superintendent Pickard was a man of noble qualities and highly esteemed. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church, and his life was an exemplary one. A wife and one son, a boy of sixteen or seventeen, survive him. Pickard came here from Burlington about ten years ago. He was 47 years of age.

The coroner's inquest will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Prohibition vs. Saloons.

January, 1904, under saloons and January, 1905, and prohibition are interestingly compared by the Greensboro and Charlotte papers. Here are the results:

Greensboro: while there were two more arrests for all crimes during January, 1905, than for the same month last year, there were only seventeen arrests for drunkenness this January, against 51 in 1904. This shows that the arrests for drunkenness has been decreased by two-thirds. There were nineteen arrests for running blind tigers. The reason given for this large number being that a raid was made upon those boozing dens last month.

Charlotte: This city makes a better showing under prohibition than does Greensboro. January, 1904, there were committed 166 of all crimes in Charlotte, while during the month of January of this year there were only 73 crimes of all kinds. There was also an increase of blind tigers, but a decrease in drunkenness, as in Greensboro.

TO CURE A COLIC IN ONE DAY Take LAXATIVE BRIMSTONE TABLETS. All druggists return the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c

FARMERS MEETING.

The Cotton Growers Convention Held in this City To-day was Largely Attended and Much Interest Manifested.

From Thursday's Daily.

Gloom Cast Over Wilson.

Wilson, Feb. 16.—A whip-like crack, a spurt of flame, a puff of smoke, and as K. O. Pickard, Superintendent of the Wilson Cotton Mills, fell to the floor of the spinning room bathed in his blood, a thrill of horror flashed through our community at the realization that another tragedy had cast its red stain over us.

The deed, as indicated, was committed in the spinning room of the factory. The man who fired the fatal shot was Wiley House, a young man of about twenty-seven. The ball entered the body of the superintendent about two and a half inches from the right nipple and on a line with the left. It penetrated the vitals and death followed within a few minutes. Mr. Pickard managed to stagger from the spinning room into his office. Here he fell and expired.

The events leading up to this grim climax are briefly these:

Wiley House and Charley Norton had been discharged from Hackney Brothers Carriage Works, and were out on a "bender." Loaded up with whiskey they first went to the carriage works and then from there to the mill.

Here, the superintendent, seeing their condition, ordered them out. Instead of obeying they became abusive. "Shoot the——!" exclaimed Norton to his companion, applying a foul epithet to the superintendent. Instantly House's pistol gleamed in his hand and its sharp report sounded in the room.

Another story declares that House was the one who first cried shoot, and that Norton answered: "Shoot the—— yourself!"

However that may be, as Pickard reeled back, shot by his death, Norton and House, taking advantage of the wild confusion into which the mill operatives were thrown by the tragedy, slipped from the room and made their escape.

They had gone but a short distance, however, when the hue and cry was raised and swift runners were at their heels. Final escape was hopeless. Hunters were on all sides of them. Capture could not long be avoided.

It came soon. Eager hands seized them as they fled along the road to the poor house and hurried them back toward the jail. Here the doors closed upon them; and behind those doors they now await their preliminary trial.

The crime has aroused among our people the deepest indignation. Superintendent Pickard was a man of noble qualities and highly esteemed. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church, and his life was an exemplary one. A wife and one son, a boy of sixteen or seventeen, survive him. Pickard came here from Burlington about ten years ago. He was 47 years of age.

The coroner's inquest will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Prohibition vs. Saloons.

January, 1904, under saloons and January, 1905, and prohibition are interestingly compared by the Greensboro and Charlotte papers. Here are the results:

Greensboro: while there were two more arrests for all crimes during January, 1905, than for the same month last year, there were only seventeen arrests for drunkenness this January, against 51 in 1904. This shows that the arrests for drunkenness has been decreased by two-thirds. There were nineteen arrests for running blind tigers. The reason given for this large number being that a raid was made upon those boozing dens last month.

Charlotte: This city makes a better showing under prohibition than does Greensboro. January, 1904, there were committed 166 of all crimes in Charlotte, while during the month of January of this year there were only 73 crimes of all kinds. There was also an increase of blind tigers, but a decrease in drunkenness, as in Greensboro.

TO CURE A COLIC IN ONE DAY Take LAXATIVE BRIMSTONE TABLETS. All druggists return the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c

THE WARD BILL.

SENATOR SIMMONS HAS ENDORSED IT.

The Duty of the Hour—This He Will Perform, Never Stopping to Inquire as to Its Effects.

Gloom Cast Over Wilson.

Wilson, Feb. 16.—A whip-like crack, a spurt of flame, a puff of smoke, and as K. O. Pickard, Superintendent of the Wilson Cotton Mills, fell to the floor of the spinning room bathed in his blood, a thrill of horror flashed through our community at the realization that another tragedy had cast its red stain over us.

The deed, as indicated, was committed in the spinning room of the factory. The man who fired the fatal shot was Wiley House, a young man of about twenty-seven. The ball entered the body of the superintendent about two and a half inches from the right nipple and on a line with the left. It penetrated the vitals and death followed within a few minutes. Mr. Pickard managed to stagger from the spinning room into his office. Here he fell and expired.

The events leading up to this grim climax are briefly these:

Wiley House and Charley Norton had been discharged from Hackney Brothers Carriage Works, and were out on a "bender." Loaded up with whiskey they first went to the carriage works and then from there to the mill.

Here, the superintendent, seeing their condition, ordered them out. Instead of obeying they became abusive. "Shoot the——!" exclaimed Norton to his companion, applying a foul epithet to the superintendent. Instantly House's pistol gleamed in his hand and its sharp report sounded in the room.

Another story declares that House was the one who first cried shoot, and that Norton answered: "Shoot the—— yourself!"

However that may be, as Pickard reeled back, shot by his death, Norton and House, taking advantage of the wild confusion into which the mill operatives were thrown by the tragedy, slipped from the room and made their escape.

They had gone but a short distance, however, when the hue and cry was raised and swift runners were at their heels. Final escape was hopeless. Hunters were on all sides of them. Capture could not long be avoided.

It came soon. Eager hands seized them as they fled along the road to the poor house and hurried them back toward the jail. Here the doors closed upon them; and behind those doors they now await their preliminary trial.

The crime has aroused among our people the deepest indignation. Superintendent Pickard was a man of noble qualities and highly esteemed. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church, and his life was an exemplary one. A wife and one son, a boy of sixteen or seventeen, survive him. Pickard came here from Burlington about ten years ago. He was 47 years of age.

The coroner's inquest will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Prohibition vs. Saloons.

January, 1904, under saloons and January, 1905, and prohibition are interestingly compared by the Greensboro and Charlotte papers. Here are the results:

Greensboro: while there were two more arrests for all crimes during January, 1905, than for the same month last year, there were only seventeen arrests for drunkenness this January, against 51 in 1904. This shows that the arrests for drunkenness has been decreased by two-thirds. There were nineteen arrests for running blind tigers. The reason given for this large number being that a raid was made upon those boozing dens last month.

Charlotte: This city makes a better showing under prohibition than does Greensboro. January, 1904, there were committed 166 of all crimes in Charlotte, while during the month of January of this year there were only 73 crimes of all kinds. There was also an increase of blind tigers, but a decrease in drunkenness, as in Greensboro.

TO CURE A COLIC IN ONE DAY Take LAXATIVE BRIMSTONE TABLETS. All druggists return the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c

NO EXTENSION OF A. & N. C. CHARTER.

Railroad Committee Reports Bill Unfavorably.

News and Observer.

Gloom Cast Over Wilson.

Wilson, Feb. 16.—A whip-like crack, a spurt of flame, a puff of smoke, and as K. O. Pickard, Superintendent of the Wilson Cotton Mills, fell to the floor of the spinning room bathed in his blood, a thrill of horror flashed through our community at the realization that another tragedy had cast its red stain over us.

The deed, as indicated, was committed in the spinning room of the factory. The man who fired the fatal shot was Wiley House, a young man of about twenty-seven. The ball entered the body of the superintendent about two and a half inches from the right nipple and on a line with the left. It penetrated the vitals and death followed within a few minutes. Mr. Pickard managed to stagger from the spinning room into his office. Here he fell and expired.

The events leading up to this grim climax are briefly these:

Wiley House and Charley Norton had been discharged from Hackney Brothers Carriage Works, and were out on a "bender." Loaded up with whiskey they first went to the carriage works and then from there to the mill.

Here, the superintendent, seeing their condition, ordered them out. Instead of obeying they became abusive. "Shoot the——!" exclaimed Norton to his companion, applying a foul epithet to the superintendent. Instantly House's pistol gleamed in his hand and its sharp report sounded in the room.

Another story declares that House was the one who first cried shoot, and that Norton answered: "Shoot the—— yourself!"

However that may be, as Pickard reeled back, shot by his death, Norton and House, taking advantage of the wild confusion into which the mill operatives were thrown by the tragedy, slipped from the room and made their escape.

They had gone but a short distance, however, when the hue and cry was raised and swift runners were at their heels. Final escape was hopeless. Hunters were on all sides of them. Capture could not long be avoided.

It came soon. Eager hands seized them as they fled along the road to the poor house and hurried them back toward the jail. Here the doors closed upon them; and behind those doors they now await their preliminary trial.

The crime has aroused among our people the deepest indignation. Superintendent Pickard was a man of noble qualities and highly esteemed. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church, and his life was an exemplary one. A wife and one son, a boy of sixteen or seventeen, survive him. Pickard came here from Burlington about ten years ago. He was 47 years of age.

The coroner's inquest will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Prohibition vs. Saloons.

January, 1904, under saloons and January, 1905, and prohibition are interestingly compared by the Greensboro and Charlotte papers. Here are the results:

Greensboro: while there were two more arrests for all crimes during January, 1905, than for the same month last year, there were only seventeen arrests for drunkenness this January, against 51 in 1904. This shows that the arrests for drunkenness has been decreased by two-thirds. There were nineteen arrests for running blind tigers. The reason given for this large number being that a raid was made upon those boozing dens last month.

Charlotte: This city makes a better showing under prohibition than does Greensboro. January, 1904, there were committed 166 of all crimes in Charlotte, while during the month of January of this year there were only 73 crimes of all kinds. There was also an increase of blind tigers, but a decrease in drunkenness, as in Greensboro.

TO CURE A COLIC IN ONE DAY Take LAXATIVE BRIMSTONE TABLETS. All druggists return the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c

ASSASSIN'S BOMB.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY AT MOSCOW.

The Uncle and Brother-in-Law of the Czar Has His Head Blown From His Shoulders By Dynamite.

Gloom Cast Over Wilson.

Wilson, Feb. 16.—A whip-like crack, a spurt of flame, a puff of smoke, and as K. O. Pickard, Superintendent of the Wilson Cotton Mills, fell to the floor of the spinning room bathed in his blood, a thrill of horror flashed through our community at the realization that another tragedy had cast its red stain over us.

The deed, as indicated, was committed in the spinning room of the factory. The man who fired the fatal shot was Wiley House, a young man of about twenty-seven. The ball entered the body of the superintendent about two and a half inches from the right nipple and on a line with the left. It penetrated the vitals and death followed within a few minutes. Mr. Pickard managed to stagger from the spinning room into his office. Here he fell and expired.

The events leading up to this grim climax are briefly these:

Wiley House and Charley Norton had been discharged from Hackney Brothers Carriage Works, and were out on a "bender." Loaded up with whiskey they first went to the carriage works and then from there to the mill.

Here, the superintendent, seeing their condition, ordered them out. Instead of obeying they became abusive. "Shoot the——!" exclaimed Norton to his companion, applying a foul epithet to the superintendent. Instantly House's pistol gleamed in his hand and its sharp report sounded in the room.

Another story declares that House was the one who first cried shoot, and that Norton answered: "Shoot the—— yourself!"

However that may be, as Pickard reeled back, shot by his death, Norton and House, taking advantage of the wild confusion into which the mill operatives were thrown by the tragedy, slipped from the room and made their escape.

They had gone but a short distance, however, when the hue and cry was raised and swift runners were at their heels. Final escape was hopeless. Hunters were on all sides of them. Capture could not long be avoided.

It came soon. Eager hands seized them as they fled along the road to the poor house and hurried them back toward the jail. Here the doors closed upon them; and behind those doors they now await their preliminary trial.

The crime has aroused among our people the deepest indignation. Superintendent Pickard was a man of noble qualities and highly esteemed. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church, and his life was an exemplary one. A wife and one son, a boy of sixteen or seventeen, survive him. Pickard came here from Burlington about ten years ago. He was 47 years of age.

The coroner's inquest will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Prohibition vs. Saloons.

January, 1904, under saloons and January, 1905, and prohibition are interestingly compared by the Greensboro and Charlotte papers. Here are the results:

Greensboro: while there were two more arrests for all crimes during January, 1905, than for the same month last year, there were only seventeen arrests for drunkenness this January, against 51 in 1904. This shows that the arrests for drunkenness has been decreased by two-thirds. There were nineteen arrests for running blind tigers. The reason given for this large number being that a raid was made upon those boozing dens last month.

Charlotte: This city makes a better showing under prohibition than does Greensboro. January, 1904, there were committed 166 of all crimes in Charlotte, while during the month of January of this year there were only 73 crimes of all kinds. There was also an increase of blind tigers, but a decrease in drunkenness, as in Greensboro.

TO CURE A COLIC IN ONE DAY Take LAXATIVE BRIMSTONE TABLETS. All druggists return the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c

CUSTODIAN SERVICE.

Date of Examination March 8th, 1905. Place Goldsboro, North Carolina.

Position: Fireman-Watchman. Salary: $600.00 per annum for a period of seven months in the year. The United States Civil Service Commission announces an examination on the date and at the place named above for the position indicated. As a result of this examination certification will be made to fill the vacancy in the position indicated and the other similar vacancies as they may occur in the Custodian Service in this city.

Gloom Cast Over Wilson.

Wilson, Feb. 16.—A whip-like crack, a spurt of flame, a puff of smoke, and as K. O. Pickard, Superintendent of the Wilson Cotton Mills, fell to the floor of the spinning room bathed in his blood, a thrill of horror flashed through our community at the realization that another tragedy had cast its red stain over us.

The deed, as indicated, was committed in the spinning room of the factory. The man who fired the fatal shot was Wiley House, a young man of about twenty-seven. The ball entered the body of the superintendent about two and a half inches from the right nipple and on a line with the left. It penetrated the vitals and death followed within a few minutes. Mr. Pickard managed to stagger from the spinning room into his office. Here he fell and expired.

The events leading up to this grim climax are briefly these:

Wiley House and Charley Norton had been discharged from Hackney Brothers Carriage Works, and were out on a "bender." Loaded up with whiskey they first went to the carriage works and then from there to the mill.

Here, the superintendent, seeing their condition, ordered them out. Instead of obeying they became abusive. "Shoot the——!" exclaimed Norton to his companion, applying a foul epithet to the superintendent. Instantly House's pistol gleamed in his hand and its sharp report sounded in the room.

Another story declares that House was the one who first cried shoot, and that Norton answered: "Shoot the—— yourself!"

However that may be, as Pickard reeled back, shot by his death, Norton and House, taking advantage of the wild confusion into which the mill operatives were thrown by the tragedy, slipped from the room and made their escape.

They had gone but a short distance, however, when the hue and cry was raised and swift runners were at their heels. Final escape was hopeless. Hunters were on all sides of them. Capture could not long be avoided.

It came soon. Eager hands seized them as they fled along the road to the poor house and hurried them back toward the jail. Here the doors closed upon them; and behind those doors they now await their preliminary trial.

The crime has aroused among our people the deepest indignation. Superintendent Pickard was a man of noble qualities and highly esteemed. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church, and his life was an exemplary one. A wife and one son, a boy of sixteen or seventeen, survive him. Pickard came here from Burlington about ten years ago. He was 47 years of age.

The coroner's inquest will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Prohibition vs. Saloons.

January, 1904, under saloons and January, 1905, and prohibition are interestingly compared by the Greensboro and Charlotte papers. Here are the results:

Greensboro: while there were two more arrests for all crimes during January, 1905, than for the same month last year, there were only seventeen arrests for drunkenness this January, against 51 in 1904. This shows that the arrests for drunkenness has been decreased by two-thirds. There were nineteen arrests for running blind tigers. The reason given for this large number being that a raid was made upon those boozing dens last month.

Charlotte: This city makes a better showing under prohibition than does Greensboro. January, 1904, there were committed 166 of all crimes in Charlotte, while during the month of January of this year there were only 73 crimes of all kinds. There was also an increase of blind tigers, but a decrease in drunkenness, as in Greensboro.

TO CURE A COLIC IN ONE DAY Take LAXATIVE BRIMSTONE TABLETS. All druggists return the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c

SUSPENSION OF BANK.

SENSATION IN FAYETTEVILLE CAUSED BY FAILURE OF THE BANK.

Shortage of $28,000 in Accounts of Cashier and Teller Disclosed by Expert Accountant and State Examiner. R. T. Gray Receiver.

Gloom Cast Over Wilson.

Wilson, Feb. 16.—A whip-like crack, a spurt of flame, a puff of smoke, and as K. O. Pickard, Superintendent of the Wilson Cotton Mills, fell to the floor of the spinning room bathed in his blood, a thrill of horror flashed through our community at the realization that another tragedy had cast its red stain over us.

The deed, as indicated, was committed in the spinning room of the factory. The man who fired the fatal shot was Wiley House, a young man of about twenty-seven. The ball entered the body of the superintendent about two and a half inches from the right nipple and on a line with the left. It penetrated the vitals and death followed within a few minutes. Mr. Pickard managed to stagger from the spinning room into his office. Here he fell and expired.

The events leading up to this grim climax are briefly these:

Wiley House and Charley Norton had been discharged from Hackney Brothers Carriage Works, and were out on a "bender." Loaded up with whiskey they first went to the carriage works and then from there to the mill.

Here, the superintendent, seeing their condition, ordered them out. Instead of obeying they became abusive. "Shoot the——!" exclaimed Norton to his companion, applying a foul epithet to the superintendent. Instantly House's pistol gleamed in his hand and its sharp report sounded in the room.

Another story declares that House was the one who first cried shoot, and that Norton answered: "Shoot the—— yourself!"

However that may be, as Pickard reeled back, shot by his death, Norton and House, taking advantage of the wild confusion into which the mill operatives were thrown by the tragedy, slipped from the room and made their escape.

They had gone but a short distance, however, when the hue and cry was raised and swift runners were at their heels. Final escape was hopeless. Hunters were on all sides of them. Capture could not long be avoided.

It came soon. Eager hands seized them as they fled along the road to the poor house and hurried them back toward the jail. Here the doors closed upon them; and behind those doors they now await their preliminary trial.

The crime has aroused among our people the deepest indignation. Superintendent Pickard was a man of noble qualities and highly esteemed. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church, and his life was an exemplary one. A wife and one son, a boy of sixteen or seventeen, survive him. Pickard came here from Burlington about ten years ago. He was 47 years of age.

The coroner's inquest will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Prohibition vs. Saloons.

January, 1904, under saloons and January, 1905, and prohibition are interestingly compared by the Greensboro and Charlotte papers. Here are the results:

Greensboro: while there were two more arrests for all crimes during January, 1905, than for the same month last year, there were only seventeen arrests for drunkenness this January, against 51 in 1904. This shows that the arrests for drunkenness has been decreased by two-thirds. There were nineteen arrests for running blind tigers. The reason given for this large number being that a raid was made upon those boozing dens last month.

Charlotte: This city makes a better showing under prohibition than does Greensboro. January, 1904, there were committed 166 of all crimes in Charlotte, while during the month of January of this year there were only 73 crimes of all kinds. There was also an increase of blind tigers, but a decrease in drunkenness, as in Greensboro.

TO CURE A COLIC IN ONE DAY Take LAXATIVE BRIMSTONE TABLETS. All druggists return the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the best step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Gloom Cast Over Wilson.

Wilson, Feb. 16.—A whip-like crack, a spurt of flame, a puff of smoke, and as K. O. Pickard, Superintendent of the Wilson Cotton Mills, fell to the floor of the spinning room bathed in his blood, a thrill of horror flashed through our community at the realization that another tragedy had cast its red stain over us.

The deed, as indicated, was committed in the spinning room of the factory. The man who fired the fatal shot was Wiley House, a young man of about twenty-seven. The ball entered the body of the superintendent about two and a half inches from the right nipple and on a line with the left. It penetrated the vitals and death followed within a few minutes. Mr. Pickard managed to stagger from the spinning room into his office. Here he fell and expired.

The events leading up to this grim climax are briefly these:

Wiley House and Charley Norton had been discharged from Hackney Brothers Carriage Works, and were out on a "bender." Loaded up with whiskey they first went to the carriage works and then from there to the mill.

Here, the superintendent, seeing their condition, ordered them out. Instead of obeying they became abusive. "Shoot the——!" exclaimed Norton to his companion, applying a foul epithet to the superintendent. Instantly House's pistol gleamed in his hand and its sharp report sounded in the room.

Another story declares that House was the one who first cried shoot, and that Norton answered: "Shoot the—— yourself!"

However that may be, as Pickard reeled back, shot by his death, Norton and House, taking advantage of the wild confusion into which the mill operatives were thrown by the tragedy, slipped from the room and made their escape.

They had gone but a short distance, however, when the hue and cry was raised and swift runners were at their heels. Final escape was hopeless. Hunters were on all sides of them. Capture could not long be avoided.

It came soon. Eager hands seized them as they fled along the road to the poor house and hurried them back toward the jail. Here the doors closed upon them; and behind those doors they now await their preliminary trial.

The crime has aroused among our people the deepest indignation. Superintendent Pickard was a man of noble qualities and highly esteemed. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church, and his life was an exemplary one. A wife and one son, a boy of sixteen or seventeen, survive him. Pickard came here from Burlington about ten years ago. He was 47 years of age.

The coroner's inquest will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning.