The bomb was thrown from the balcony of of a house in Alexandrov street. A Russian clergyman named Fedroff, was among those killed by the explosion

Immediately after the explosion Jews began to fire with revolvers from the windows of the house into the crowd. Soldiers surrounded the house and fired two volleys into the windows. Meanwhile the enraged Christians attacked the Jewish stores in Alexandrov and Suraz streets, demolishing the fixtures and windows ly in view of the fact that the con- able portion of the bank. disturbance still continues.

St. Petersburg, June 15-2:15-The latest despatches from Blalystok which were received about midnight. report a situation of the utmost gravity. The anti-Jewish outbreak there was still raging. The fighting was in progress in the streets; the firing was -continuous; the best stores in the city had been sacked, and many were dead or wounded. Figures, however, were not given, and probably the casualties are not known in Bialystok, owing to the continuance of the disorders.

The signal for the outbreak, which apparently was deliberately planned, perhaps, as a c unter stroke for the murder of Chief of Police Derkatchoff on June 10, which was attri buted to Jewish Buddists, is given as the explesion of a bomb during : religious pro ession. This was fol lowed by revolver fusilades in seve ral quarters of the city. The police are said not to have at tempted to interfere in the early stages of the riot. The Jews, who number three-fourths of the population of the city, offered the best resistance possible, many of them being armed, but were unable to prevent the pillaging of their homes and places of business. Finally the military interfered, but according to advices received here, without being able to restore order. Reinforcements have been rushed to Bialystok from Grodno.

Several members of parliament tonight received messages from Jewish correspondents at Bialystok declaring that police apparently had given over the Hebrew population to slaughter and pillage.

EBaltimore, June 13.—The greatest fire since the conflagration of 1904, involving a property loss of about $1,000,000 and the sacrifice of three lives, occurred at an early hour this morning on the water front.

For a time the entire harbor front was threatened with destruction on the north side, the flames being with difficulty kept within the confines of the wharf of the Merchants and Miners Transportation Company and on the south side a stubborn battle being fought to prevent a wholesome destruction of property by fire spreading from the steamship Essex and six barges, which were burned.

Three member of the crew of the Essex perished and two are missing. It is believed that the missing men 3 20 overboard and were drowned,

Stevenson wrote a gentle satire, containing much shrewd wisdom, titled "An Apology for Idlers," which he says, among other qually good things:

"Perpetual devotion to what a m in calls his business is only to be enstained by perpetual neglect of many other things. And it is not by any means certain that a man's busines is the most important thing he culture for all such products which has to do. To an impartial estimate will seem clear that many of the wisest, most virtuous and beneficial parts that are to be played upon the theatre of life are filled by gratuitous "rformers, and pass among the world as phases of idleness."

It is refreshing to listen now and hen to so dignified an apologist and xamplar of idleness.
