A DESPERATE DEED.

Three Men Slain By Exploding Dynamite—Three More Will Die.

Chicago, July 13.—Three men were blown to pieces, three others fatally injured, and several others badly hurt, by an explosion which early today wrecked a shanty in the McLaughlin stone quarries at Bellwood, a short distance northwest of Chicago.

There was evidence that the explosion was the result of a plot on the part of people who are at present unknown to the police. The dynamite shed of the quarry, which is at a considerable distance from the shanty which was blown up, was broken open, and the dynamite carried to the building in which a number of laborers were sleeping, and exploded beneath the structure. The survivors all declare that there was no dynamite around the shanty when they retired for the night.

The explosion aroused the residents for several miles around, and shattered many panes of glass a mile away from the quarries. A larger part of the body of one of the men killed was taken from a tree a hundred feet from the place where the shanty had stood. Parts of the corpse were found lying all around the tree. All of the men killed and injured were Greek and Italian laborers.

The officials of the McLaughlin Company denounced the blowing up of the shanty as deliberate murder, and said that in their opinion the crime had been actuated by a desire to rob the sleeping men. Several of them were known to have considerable money. Louis Pappilo was said to have carried $1,000 in a belt he wore around one leg. Pappilo and his brother were killed and when the bodies were found both had been completely stripped of clothing. This was not the case with any other man who was in the shanty at the time of the explosion, and according to the officials of the McLaughlin Company bears out their theory that robbery was the motive of the crime.

Late in the day the police received information that led them to believe that the dynamite might have been placed under the building at the instance of a woman who was jealous of one of the men who was killed. It is known that they quarreled the day before the explosion, and that she threatened him.

Typhoid and Filtration.

In previous years Washington has been sadly afflicted with typhoid fever, but last fall a large, expensive and modern filtration plant was put into operation. The hope was expressed at the time that the Potomac water would be rendered wholesome by the sand or mechanical process, and that it would no longer be necessary to boil it in order to secure immunity from bacteriological diseases in its use and consumption.

This hope has, however, proven delusive, for the typhoid scourge is as prevalent in Washington today as it was last summer or at any previous time.

If sand filtration will not rob water of harmful germ life, the fact should be made known, for the very use of approved filtration induces many to be careless in the boiling of water. Washington is investigating the subject. An expert commission has been put at work, and every case of typhoid in Washington is to be investigated with view of ascertaining whether the infection is of a local nature or is due to Potomac water brought in by the District and distributed to householders. Physicians and people are urged to aid the investigators, and the hope is entertained that their final report will make plain the source of typhoid contamination in the national capital.

The case in question is full of interest, for the findings, facts and conclusions of the commission at Washington may fit other towns and other water supplies. At present sand filtration stands approved by the best engineers and scientists, and the Washington investigation will necessarily go over the entire problem.

TWO MAGNIFICENT PIERS.

Uncle Sam Will Build a Colonial City and an Unrivalled Approach at the Jamestown Exposition Next Year.

Norfolk, Va., July 14.—Of the sums appropriated by the United States Government in aid of the Jamestown Celebration to be held next year near Norfolk, Va., five hundred and fifty thousand dollars are specifically set aside for the construction of buildings and the collection of exhibits. Of this amount the larger part is the building fund.

It has been the purpose of the Jamestown Exposition from its very inception to create a Colonial city on the shores of Hampton Roads, and the policy of the United States Government is to further this end by the erection of buildings all of which will belong to that distinct type of architecture. Dotted here and there along the six miles of roadway connecting the Exposition with Norfolk are several fine examples of Colonial architecture, and in the city of Norfolk there are some houses which are perfect specimens of that type.

It might be said that the American adaptation of the Georgian style, called the Colonial, reached its zenith in Virginia, as is attested by the splendid James river mansions, the Colonial houses of Middle Virginia, and that marvelous example of the purest type, the University of Virginia.

None of the Exposition buildings will be reproductions of Greek or Roman temples; nothing bizarre will be shown in the outdoor decorations or interior adornments. The lines of the buildings will be chaste, and the gardens reminiscent of the seventeenth century.

The whole picture will be a composite of green foliage native flowers hard shell or dirt roads, and houses, large and small, built of brick, white columned, or of shingles interest with tiles. The bill appropriating the government money sets forth that "said buildings shall be erected as far as possible in the Colonial style of architecture, from plans prepared by the Supervising Architect of the treasury." This provision of Congress is in line with the Architect's predilections, and as a result, the government will have, for the first time at any Exposition, a set of buildings between which there is no discord of style.

To enable free and ready communication between the ships of the fleets that will assemble in Hampton Roads and the Exposition shores, and in order to furnish a safe and ample harbor for small boats and launches, the government has appropriated four hundred thousand dollars for two mammoth piers.

PARDONED A BOY.

Seventeen Year Old Lad Got Executive Clemency.

Governor Glenn yesterday granted a conditional pardon to Wesley Tilton, a white boy of Goldsboro, aged 17 years, who was convicted of larceny and sentenced to two years on Wayne county's roads.

The pardon was obtained by Superintendent W. B. Streeter, of the North Carolina Children's Home Society, who has secured a good home for the boy, where he will receive proper training and encouragement to be industrious and honest. Wesley is the son of a widow with six children, he being the only one who has brought sorrow to her home.

The work of the society is growing larger every month. The total number of children received from the beginning is 155; of these 148 have been placed, and 7 are now in the care of the society. Eight children have been received since June 1st, when 11 were on hand, and of these 10 were placed in homes, leaving 1 in the society's care.

TERRIBLE ECZEMA ON LITTLE BOY

Mouth and Eyes Covered With Crusts—Face Itched Most Fearfully—Hands Pinned Down to Prevent Scratching

MIRACULOUS CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"When my little boy was six months old, he had eczema. The sores extended so quickly over the whole body that we at once called in the doctor. We then went to another doctor, but he could not help him, and in our despair we went to a third one. Matters became so bad that he had regular holes in his chest, large enough to put a finger into. The food had to be given with a spoon, for his mouth was covered with crusts as thick as a finger, and whenever he opened the mouth they began to bleed and suppurate, as otherwise he would scratch his face, and back, in short the whole body, was covered over and over. We had no rest by day or night. Whenever he was laid in his bed, we had to pin his hands down; otherwise he would scratch his face, and make an open sore. I think his face must have itched most fearfully."

"We finally thought nothing could help, and I had made up my mind to send my wife with the child to Europe, hoping that the sea air might cure him, otherwise he was to be put under good medical care there. But, Lord be blessed, matters came differently, and we soon saw a miracle. A friend of ours spoke about Cuticura. We made a trial with Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent, and within ten days or two weeks we noticed a decided improvement. Just as quickly as the sickness had appeared it also began to disappear, and within ten weeks the child was absolutely well, and his skin was smooth and white as never before." F. Duel over Dreyfus.

Paris, July 13.—The scene of tumultuous disorder which marked the enactment today of the law restoring Alfred Dreyfus to the army was followed by a bloody duel tonight in which Under-Secretary of State Sarraut was dangerously wounded by the sword of M. Pugliesi-Conti.

The duel assumed the aspect of a veritable combat between the government and the opposition, as M. Sarraut's seconds were Ministers Clemenceau and Thomson, while M. Pugliesi Conti's were M. Millevoye and General Saquet, who were drawn from the elements which bitterly resist the government's rehabilitation of Dreyfus.
