IN SAN FRANCISCO BAY.

The Greatest Naval Review Ever Seen in American Waters.

The Center of Attraction was the Sixteen Great Battleships of the Atlantic Squadron. Behind These Were Ranged the Armored Cruisers, Gunboats, Torpedo Boat Destroyers and Fleet Auxiliaries.

(Special to the ARGUS.)

San Francisco, Cal., May 8.—The greatest naval review ever seen in American waters took place today in San Francisco bay. As Secretary of the Navy Metcalf steamed down the long columns of flag-draped fighters and was saluted by each vessel in turn, the sight was one never to be forgotten by the thousands and thousands of spectators who lined the shores and filled the countless excursion boats that dotted the waters of the bay.

As a naval pageant, the review was the most notable in American history. There have been several great naval parades on the Atlantic coast during the past two years, but in no instance was the number of vessels anywhere near so large as was the case today. Forty-six vessels of war participated in the demonstration. Of course the center of attraction was the sixteen great battleships of the Atlantic squadron. Behind these were ranged the armored cruisers, gunboats, torpedo boat destroyers and fleet auxiliaries. From the city front there was an excellent view of the mighty fleet as it lay at anchor, stretching in a formidable line from the foot of East street to Hunter's Point.

Battleships and cruisers, gunboats and destroyers, all were "dressed" in the fluttering flags and the brilliant hued pennants and bits of bunting which form the International Signal Code. During the salutes to the Secretary of the Navy, the white puffs of powder smoke floated away like tiny flecks of summer clouds among the fluttering flags of the decorated ships, the effect being one of unexpected beauty.

In the fleet was represented almost every type of vessel known to the American navy of the present day. The stalwart 16,000-tonners of the Connecticut class shared honors with the tiny destroyers that likewise made the 14,000-mile journey from Hampton Roads. Five stages of American battleship construction were represented in the line and as an object lesson in the growth of the American navy the spectacle found one of its most striking features. The same guns that uttered a good-by tribute to President Roosevelt at Hampton Roads last December today voiced a welcome to his Secretary of the Navy.

The great ships tugged at their anchor chains as the reviewing yacht passed up and down their lines. Each vessel manned the rails as the Secretary of the Navy passed, and the crews stood at attention as the yacht skirted each line. The vessels of both the Atlantic and the Pacific fleets looked almost as spick and span in their coats of white paint as though they had but recently left the dry dock. From the shore there appeared a dazzling background of warships, whose glistening white sides sparkled in the light rays reflected from the water, and whose light buff superstructure and stacks lent a harmonious setting to the many-hued flags floating from masts and peaks, from fighting tops and flying trucks.

In every part of the world where they have been seen American vessels have always attracted attention because of their graceful lines and clean-cut appearance. Today, assembled into the greatest fleet that ever flew the Stars and Stripes, riding at anchor in one of the most beautiful harbors on the American continent, these ships that constitute the backbone of the American navy and have been a subject of lively discussion in naval circles the world over, made an impression that will live long in the memory of the hundreds of thousands who looked on, while the Secretary of the Navy, surrounded by a brilliant staff of officers, doffed his hat in acknowledgement of each thunderous salute which marked the progress of the review.

SILVER SERVICE FOR THE NEBRASKA.

The Service is Said To Be One of the Most Beautiful Ever Presented To An American Battleship.

(By special wire to THE ARGUS.)

San Francisco, Cal., May 8.—A handsome solid silver service of a dozen pieces was presented to the battleship Nebraska, at anchor in San Francisco bay, today by a committee of a hundred prominent citizens of that State, headed by Governor Sheldon and his staff.

The service is said to be one of the most beautiful ever presented to an American battleship, and cost several thousand dollars. The mammoth trays, bowls and other large pieces of the service are handsomely decorated with designs emblematical of the State of Nebraska and the United States Navy.

FLEES FROM HER SUITORS.

Her Large Fortune a Magnet to Many Aspiring Gallants, She Flees to the Country to Escape Unwelcome Attentions.

(Special to the ARGUS.)

New York, May 8.—Miss Jane Boland Southerland, of Gainesville, Fla., who inherited a large fortune from her father there is today planning flight to the country to get away from suitors who seek her everywhere, on land and sea, for her money. She is stopping at Prince George Hotel and planning her disappearance.

She is the daughter of George H. Southerland, a prominent real estate operator, and a niece of Col. Michael Boland, widely known in Louisville, Ky., and all over the South.

In Europe a year ago, the young woman was greatly annoyed by foreigners with plenty of titles and no money.

RAGING FIRE IN ATLANTA.

More Than One Million Dollars Already Gone Up in Smoke.

(Special to the ARGUS.)

Atlanta, May 8.—A vicious which started at 4 o'clock this morning had done damage to the amount of $1,000,000 by 7:30 o'clock.

The burned district is bounded by Mitchell, Forsythe and Peters streets. By 7 o'clock two blocks of big manufacturing buildings had been destroyed, including Robinson Neckwear Company, the Goodrum Tobacco Company's offices, Central Bank and Trust Company's branch office in the Childs' Hotel annex, the Marion Cafe, the Keystone Type Foundry branch office, West Distincting Company, Samuel Gans Merchandise Company, and fifty smaller concerns.

The telegraph, telephone and electric wires are down and the work of the firemen is impeded and their lives are imperiled thereby.

Atlanta, May 8.—At 9 o'clock the Chief of the fire department says the fire is under control, and the city engineer fixes the damages at not less than a million and a half.

The reports of firemen being injured by falling walls is without foundation, although there were many close calls, but no accidents to firemen.

WORSE THAN BLUEBEARD.

The Startling and Incredible Developments Deepen.

(Special to the ARGUS.)

La Porte, Ind., May 8.—No more bodies were dug up today on the farm of Mrs. Belle Guinness, but Sheriff Smutzer, in an interview, says he has no doubt that at least 38 persons were killed by this woman, as he is getting telegrams and letters from all parts of the country asking him to look for bodies of men missing from home.

It is the reiterated belief that the woman did not perish in the flames, but that she put the body of another woman amid the farmhouse ruins and that she herself is in hiding, waiting for a chance to sail for Norway in disguise.

State's Attorney Smith still disagrees with the sheriff. He is certain that Ray Lamphere set fire to the house for revenge, and that Guinness was burned up with the house.

FIFTY THOUSAND CRATES.

Shipments From Mount Olive Will Doubtless Reach This Figure Before Close of the Season --Good Prices Prevail.

Mount Olive Tribune.

Up to Tuesday night of this week, including shipments by refrigerator car and express, there had been 31,392 crates of strawberries shipped from Mount Olive this season. Yesterday about eight hundred crates went toward, making a total of something over 32,000 crates for the season to date, Wednesday night.

From what can be learned there will be close to fifty thousand crates from Mount Olive this season, or at least this is the estimate of some of our most prominent commission men and truck growers. Last year the shipments from this point was about forty thousand crates.

The berries so far have averaged about $3.00 per crate, though at times the prices have been much higher than $3.00. It will be seen from this that the season has been a very profitable one for our truckers. By the close of the season, a week hence, the sum total paid out for the luscious fruit to the truckers here will reach the large sum of $140,000.

In Memory of Maine Heroes.

(Special to the ARGUS.)

Salisbury, May 8.—The monument erected by the State of Maine to the memory of her soldiers who are buried in the National cemetery here was unveiled today, with interesting exercises. A large and distinguished delegation from Maine was headed by Governor Cobb, of that State, while Governor Glenn was present as the representative of North Carolina.

The monument is a handsome affair, out from Maine granite. The front bears the inscription, "One Country, One Flag." On the front of the die is the State flag, in shield form, in bronze below, cut in raised letters, "Maine's tribute to her soldiers, who died while prisoners of war at Salisbury, N. C., 1864-1865." On the other side of the die are the mottoes:

"Neither hunger, thirst, nor offered bribe affected their loyalty."

"To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die."

"They fought for peace, for peace they fell; they sleep in peace, and all is well."

ANOTHER CANAL.

Proposed to Dig From New Orleans to Jacksonville.

(Special to the ARGUS.)

Mobile, May 7.—The Gulf Canal Association, which aims to dig an inland waterway from the Mississippi River at New Orleans to Jacksonville, Fla., to connect with the proposed Atlantic inland waterway, met here at noon today in the club.

Hon. John Craft, the club president, Mayor Lyons, of Mobile, and Warren B. Reed, of New Orleans, were speakers.

Chas. J. Swift, of Columbus, Ga., father of the Tennessee and Chatahochee canal, speaks tonight.

ARMY AND NAVY PAGEANT.

The Spectacle Most Notable Ever Seen in San Francisco.

Notwithstanding Its Immense Length and the Great Number of Organizations Taking Part, the Parade Was Started Almost Exactly On Schedule Time.

(Special to THE ARGUS.)

San Francisco, Cal., May 7.—People of San Francisco and the Pacific coast States today saw and cheered more than 5,000 of Admiral Evans' sailor boys as they marched through the downtown business streets of the city over a line of march that extended for several miles. The spectacle was the most notable of its kind that has ever been seen in San Francisco. In addition to the blue-jackets the marches included detachments of the regular army of the Presidio, National Guard, State and city officials and members of the orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters and a number of other patriotic and civic organizations.

The jockies came ashore early in the forenoon. Prior to the start of the parade they were assembled for formation in the streets south of Market street. The sailors from the battleship Connecticut were given the position of honor. Next in line came the boys from the Vermont, the Missouri, Maine, Alabama and other of the big ships of the battleship fleet. Sixteen naval bands were among the participants.

The military contingent, under the command of General Funston, was drawn up in line along Battery and other streets on the north side of Market street. Every branch of the service of the United States army was represented. There were one company of engineers, fourteen companies of coast artillery, a company of signal corps men, a corps from the hospital and the Third Artillery Corps Band. These made a total of more than 2,500 troops in line.

Notwithstanding its immense length and the great number of organizations taking part, the parade was started almost exactly on schedule time, 10 o'clock. All along the line of march the business blocks, office buildings and residences were ablaze with flags and bunting, gathered in festoons or stretched in long folds from roof to ground while from numberless flagpoles and windows the national colors fluttered in the fresh breeze, with here and there the dark blue of the rear admiral's flag. Everywhere the marching sailors and marines were greeted enthusiastically by the densely packed throngs of people along the route.

Rear Admiral Evans was the central figure of the occasion. Surrounded by the admirals and captains of his fleet, the popular naval commander reviewed the pageant from a raised and beautifully decorated dais in the grand stand, erected at a conspicuous downtown corner. Another notable figure in the reviewing party was Secretary of the Navy Metcalf. Secretary Metcalf was attended by Rear Admiral Henry Glass, retired; Lieutenant W. R. Miller and Ensign Metcalf. Other parties were formed by the State officials headed by Governor Gillett and the city officials with Mayor Taylor at their head.

Women Enter Politics in Ohio.

(Special to the ARGUS.)

Findlay, O., May 7.—Congressman Ralph D. Cole, youngest member from Ohio, now a candidate for a third term, and bitterly opposed by the Socialists, has had assurance from Congressman Nicholas Longworth that he and Alice Roosevelt-Longworth will make several speeches in Cole's district. The Countess of Warwick is understood to be backing the Socialist candidate with money and will speak for him against Cole at Bellefontaine, Canton and other cities. This is the first time women have actively entered the congressional fight in this State, but Mrs. Longworth did some personal work with her husband to assist Cole two years ago.

Today's Passing Events Boiled Down For Busy Readers.

(Special to the ARGUS.)

Raleigh, May 7.—Secretary of State Grimes is today sending out the regulation ticket to be voted for and against State Prohibition.

Memphis, Tenn., May 9.—Fairlyland Park, a summer theatre, one of the finest in the South, was totally destroyed by fire this forenoon. Loss $20,000.

Washington, May 7.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by John Burroughs, left the city at 11:30, today, for Pine Knot, Albemarle county, Va., for a short stay.

Raleigh, May 9.—Luncheon was served to the Confederate soldiers here this afternoon. Since last May 23 have died and seven were added to the rolls today. This afternoon the soldiers are being entertained by the citizens.

Washington, May 7.—Cardinal Logue, primate of the Catholic church in Ireland, in an interview today condemned divorce as undermining society, and said that horse racing and high tariff are abuses that threaten the country.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 9.—Mrs. Cora Bell Herron, arrested on suspicion of being Mrs. Belle Guinness, the Laporte, Ind., murderess, established her residence at Franklin, Pa., and was immediately released by the police. She alleges outrageous treatment at the hands of the detectives.

Raleigh, May 7.—On the ground that it was against the weight of evidence and excessive, Judge Biggs today set aside the verdict of $3,000 awarded to Mrs. Virginia G. Eatman for the death of her husband. His death was alleged to be due to negligence on the part of the Southern and North Carolina Railroads.

Laporte, Ind., May 7.—It is rumored today that Ray Lamphere, accomplice of Belle Guinness in the "murder clearing house" horror, has confessed to State Attorney Smith, who says he needs no more information, that Lamphere has given enough to hang him. Bessie Wallace is still held as the principal witness.

New York, May 7.—In a fire which broke out shortly after 2 o'clock this morning in the thickly crowded tenement house on Orchard street, four persons lost their lives. The dead are: Mrs. Eva Berg, Mrs. Hattie Koppelman, Samuel Sachs, and one unidentified man. It is thought to be another incendiary fire.

Trenton, N. J., May 9.—The delegates from this State appointed by Gov. Fort to represent the State at the Wilmington peace conference, got to North Carolina greatly ahead of time, as the convention is to meet in May, 1909. Gov. Fort claims that Gov. Glenn sent the wrong date for the conference by mistake.

Baltimore, May 9.—The executive committee of the National Prohibition party met today to perfect plans for a national convention at Columbus, Ohio, on July 15th. Among the presidential candidates mentioned are Fred Wheeler, of California; Joseph Tracy, of Michigan; Alfred Monier, of New York, and Seaborn Wright, of Georgia.

My Hair is Scraggly

Do you like it? Then why be contented with it? Have to be? Oh, no! Just put on Ayer's Hair Vigor and have long, thick hair; soft, even hair. But first of all, stop your hair from coming out. Save what you have. Ayer's Hair Vigor will not disappoint you. It feeds the hair-bulbs; makes weak hair strong.

THE CONQUERED BANNER.

By the Rev. J. A. RYAN, Catholic Priest, of Knoxville, Tenn.
Music by A. E. BLACKMAR.

Furl that banner, for 'tis weary;
Round its staff 'tis drooping dreary;
Furl it, fold it, for it is best;
For there's not a man to wave it,
And there's not a sword to save it,
And there's not one left to lave it
In the blood which heroes gave it;
And its foes now scorn and brave it—
Furl it, hide it, let it rest.

Take that banner down—'tis tattered,
Broken in its staff and shattered,
And the valiant hosts are scattered
Over whom it floated high.
Oh! 'tis hard for us to fold it,
Hard to think there's none to hold it,
Hard that those who once enrolled it,
Now must furl it with a sigh.

Furl that banner, furl it sadly—
Once ten thousands hailed it gladly,
And ten thousands wildly, madly,
Swore it should forever wave;
Swore that foeman's sword should never
Hearts like their entwined dis sever,
Till that flag would float forever
O'er their freedom or their grave.

Furl it! for the hands that grasped it,
And the hearts that fondly clasped it,
Cold and dead are lying low;
And the banner, it is trailing,
While around it sounds the wailing
Of its people in their woe.

For, though conquered, they adore it,
Love the dead, cold hands that bore it,
Weep for those who fell before it,
Pardon those who trailed and tore it,
And oh! wildly they deplore it,
Now to furl and told it so.

Furl that banner! true 'tis gory,
Yet 'tis wreathed around with glory,
And 'twill live in song and story,
Though its folds are in the dust:
For its fame on brightest pages,
Penned by poets and by sages,
Shall go sounding down the ages,
Furl its folds though now we must.

Furl that banner! softly, slowly,
Treat it gently—it is holy—
For it droops above the dead;
Touch it not, unfold it never;
Let it droop there, furled forever,
For its people's hopes are dead.

BABY'S EYESIGHT WAS THREATENED

By Terrible Eczema—Head Became a Mass of Itching Rash and Sores—Would Scratch Till Blood Came—Much Money Wasted in Fruitless Treatments—Disease Was Soon

CURED AT SLIGHT COST BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Our little girl was two months old when she got a rash on her face and within five days her face and head were all one sore. We used different remedies but it got worse instead of better and we thought she would turn blind and that her ears would fall off. She suffered terribly, and would scratch until the blood came. At night we had to pin her hands down. This went on until she was five months old, then I had her under our family doctor's care, but she continued to grow worse. He said it was eczema. When she was seven months old I started to use Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent, and in three weeks—what a change! I kept using the Cuticura Remedies for two months and our baby was a different girl. You could not see a sign of a sore and she was as fair as a new-born baby, and all for the small cost of a dollar and seventy-five cents where we had spent ten times the money for doctoring. She is now two years old and has not had a sign of the eczema since. Mrs. H. F. Budke, R. F. D. 4, LeSueur, Minn., Apr. 15 and May 2, 1907."

SLEEP KILLED

By an Itching Humor. Another Cure by Cuticura Remedies.

"I broke out with a humor which spread almost all over my body. The itching would get worse on retiring, so I could not sleep. I tried several remedies but it grew worse until I got some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Pills, which began to relieve me at once. By the time I had used one vial of the Pills, the humor was entirely gone. I wish every sufferer could secure the Cuticura Remedies. Travis Bates, Hamburg, Ark., April 26, 1907."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to cleanse the skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to heal the skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.) to purify the blood. Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60 to Purify the Blood. Sold throughout the world. Foster Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass. 50c. Mailed Free, Cuticura Book on Skin Diseases.
