ADDRESS THE MESSENGER PUBLISHING CO., Goldsboro, N. C.

MEDLEVAL Oxford hisses Mr. Gladstone and cheers the lordly ruffian, Randolph Churchill.

GLADSTONE and Parnell needed money last week, and the American League sent the latter $85,000 for campaign purposes.

THE giant powder works, situated between McCainsville and Drakesville, N. J., exploded with terrific effect last Friday. More than twenty persons were killed or wounded.

BISMARCK is ever stirring up discontent in Germany for his successors to face and be overwhelmed by. A Berlin dispatch states that the new telegraph rules regulating the tariffs on telegrams within the Empire are causing general dissatisfaction, because of their arbitrary nature and the increased cost of the service.

THE soured Vermonter wants to take away the President's right of removal and give it to the Federal courts. In the same bill he proposes to invest the President with the sole power of appointments, at least certain appointments.

THE Congressional Convention for this District will be held at Clinton on the 11th of August. Apparently, the contest at present seems to be between the Hons. W. J. Green and W. T. Dortch, but Maj. C. M. McClammy and D. H. McLean, Esq., have strong friends. Let the people see to it that the nominee is the choice of the masses.

IOWA and Arkansas Democrats follow those of New Hampshire in endorsing the policy of the Administration. "Nothing succeeds like success," said Talleyrand. If the great Frenchman were here now he would apply his political aphorism to Mr. Cleveland and his way.

ON the pretence that there was no decent accommodation in the Annapolis hotels, the Congressional visiting committee to the Naval Academy bought a lot of liquors and had them charged to Government. The House got shame-faced and voted the item out, but some of the members protested very loudly. It took for this particular high junket only $1,500.

MR. RUTHERFRAUD B. HAYES uttered a lot of gibberish from his tomb the other night. Rutherfordraud is under the mistaken impression that somebody will take notice of his indecency in criticising the acts of Mr. Cleveland. As to this it is only necessary to observe that nobody cares what Mr. Rutherfordraud B. Hayes says or does.

His gibberish pesters Mr. Cleveland about as little as the idliest wind, and affects the pension question as slightly as the individuality of Mr. Hayes ruffles the surface of American politics.

OF course it is a very stupid thing for Mr. Rutherfordraud B. Hayes to do to upbraid the President for his vetoes. But then as the world was accustomed to Mr. Rutherfordraud B. Hayes' stupidity in his so-called lifetime, it can stand a ghastlike echo of it from the graveyard. A great many insane remarks are made to and about the President. We know of none he can bear with such perfect equanimity as that of the late alleged President that "the President's action was contrary to every tradition of the country, and one which would meet with no approval from the patriotic and the just."

IF before we had been in doubt as to the rightfulness and judiciousness of Mr. Cleveland's course in this matter, the condemnation, we have just quoted would cause us to make up a decision instanter.

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF THE COUNTRY.

A comparison of the condition of the Treasury now and last year at this time shows that the debt proper was decreased during the fiscal year by $44,612,236. The cash in the Treasury was increased in the same period $51,485,479. The gold and gold bullion in the Treasury have been increased during the year $36,494,853. The silver dollars, of which under the law over two million and a half have been coined monthly during the year, and the silver bullion on hand has increased during the year $28,308,488. The silver dollars actually in circulation are thirteen millions more now than at this time last year. It may be added that these thirteen million of silver dollars have by that much increased the total amount of circulating medium, because the one and two dollar greenbacks withdrawn have been almost exactly replaced by the issue of $5 notes.

The hopeful outlook for the coming autumn is the burden of dispatches to Bradstreet's, which is the more noteworthy from the fact that that paper has been anything but an enthusiastic "bull" on the situation thus far. The bad prospects for foreign breadstuffs and the correspondingly good prospects for American crops form the basis for a prophecy of happy fortunes in store; while the fact that all kinds of manufactured goods wear out in time, and that stocks must be replenished at any cost, makes it reasonable to suppose that the wheels of American industry will have to begin turning at good speed before very long. It is to be hoped that the lesson of these last few years of depression will be not lost upon our people. An exchange, from which we collate some of these facts, says: "We should all bear in mind the legends on the gates: 'Be bold!' 'Be bold!' 'Be not too bold!' Now that we are settling down to a solid and substantial order of affairs, let us take care not to rush again to extremes. Enterprise is a good thing, but the electric quality in the American character causes the best things to be overdone sometimes; and if we build more lines of railroad than we need to do our carrying, and manufacture more wares than we can dispose of at a profit, somebody has got to suffer for it."

SENATOR PAYNE'S CASE.

It is not material for the present purpose what is thought of the fact that Senator Payne is the Standard Oil man, or one of the Standard Oil men, of the Senate. Leave that out. Leave all monopoly relations to public affairs completely out of the question. Let us consider only the common requirement that any Senator, that all Senators, should be chosen by honest and reputable means and conduct themselves in the Senate as honest and reputable men.

The people of this country, without regard to party, and especially respectable Democrats who desire to preserve the purity of their party, are interested deeply in the truth or falsity of the grave charges made by Republican leaders and believed by some Ohio Democrats against Senator Payne. It is said that he bought his seat in the Senate. The report of the rather unsatisfactory investigation by the Legislature of his State has been before the committee of the Senate, which has exonerated the Senator so far as these particular charges are concerned. But since then the Republican members of the House and Senator Sherman have joined in an adverse statement repeating the necessity for a full investigation. The press also demands it. All through this affair Senator Payne has sat in silence, or at least he has not like an injured man should have done demanded as his right that every fact and insinuation should be sifted to the bottom, and the truth or falsity of the charges proven. Now in the light of everything we know of the associations of the accused Senator, he could not fall back on his dignity and affect to ignore these accusations as harmless calumnies. Few men could afford to do that, even when their lives had been of the highest and all their connections of the purest. Senator Payne is now too late. He has lost his opportunity for successful vindication. In the belief of very many Democrats he is already condemned by his long silence. They look with great indignation upon his course in this matter. He has injured himself not only, but his party as well. It is well that the devious ways of Ohio politicians are so thoroughly understood. But there must be on the part of Democrats no condonation of the offense. Some Senators there are who need to be reminded sharply of their duty in such cases. Already there are several persons whose seats were corruptly obtained, and a knowledge of the facts is not concealed from their associates who profess to be straightforward. We tell Democratic Senators that if Senator Payne is guilty he must not be shielded. We tell them that there must be an investigation to ascertain the fact of guilt or innocence.

THE Italian steamer which kept a case of smallpox not isolated among one hundred and twenty-five passengers, was inefficiently officered. On her arrival in New York Harbor the sick man was sent to the hospital and all the other passengers were left on an island quarantined.

LAW AND ORDER.

Names are often misleading. Knights of Labor are not always found to be true Knights and good citizens. So it may happen that the new opposition organization, the Law and Order League, may prove to be on occasions fomenters of discord and disturbers of the public peace. We are not sanguine of its mission, by any means. We remember very distinctly that the Ku-Klux did not mend matters in the period of Reconstruction.

In order, however, not to misrepresent the intentions at least of gentlemen who think they are doing the best thing possible, the MESSENGER elsewhere prints some account of the plan and progress of the new organization. It will be seen that it is spreading greatly in the West and that already it has a foothold in other portions of the country. In the South, excluding Texas, we have never been bothered with strikes and boycotts. It is hoped it may yet be sometime before we are affected by any of these labor troubles which afflict "the more prosperous sections."

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY.

It is not demagogic to speak the truth for a good purpose as regards reckless extravagance in the use of public funds. The MESSENGER knows that mock propriety would pretend to be shocked at a suggestion that the people ought not to be expected to pay a man a liberal salary while living, give him a magnificent funeral when dead, and then turn over to his widow or family a year's extra compensation with perquisites. But it does not print, either now or ever, a defence of such dishonest sentimentality. The money in the Treasury is there for public purposes. The Government has no civil pension list. It is not an eleemosynary institution. The people expect that adequate salaries shall be paid the public servants. But they do not constitute the Congress an assurance company to pay over a sum after death to the legal representatives of these public servants. The men who perform good service must be faithfully compensated, but death terminates the contract. There is no gratitude. The matter is quid pro quo. This thing of voting costly funerals and extra compensation has become odious to all men of reflection and delicacy of perception. It is dishonest, and we denounce it as we would a more patent case of malversation.

In the deficiency bill reported to the House is a provision for the payment of $8,750 to Mrs. Eliza C. Hendricks, widow of the late Vice President, being a sum equal to one year's salary with allowances for mileage and stationery. The widow of the late W. A. Duncan, of Pennsylvania, who was elected to Congress, but died before the commencement of the session, gets $6,000. The widow of the late Reuben Ellwood, of Illinois, who died last fall, gets $8,429.18, being the amount of salary, mileage and stationery allowance from the date of his death to the expiration of the term for which he was elected. The widow of the late Joseph Rankin, of Wisconsin, gets $5,580.71 on the same account, and the sisters of the late Michael Hahn, of Louisiana, get $4,974.41, to be divided equally between them.

We have purposely selected this distinguished list because we wanted not to be invidious, and we believed that we would be acquitted of more censoriousness when it was seen that it was the popular widow of one of our most popular and prominent statesmen who was the proposed recipient of this benefaction.

AT last the Fitz John Porter bill is a law. We congratulate the gallant and ill-treated Federal General, and we compliment the Congress and the President of the United States on this act of simple justice, long delayed. The malice of Logan & Co. was futile in the end.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

Our little misses returned to the city last Friday morning. Misses Maggie Waddell and Ophelia Northam, of Selma, are visiting the Messes Crawford.

Mrs. B. F. Sugg, of Greenville, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Sasser. Miss Carrie Crawford has gone to the city to spend a few days with the Messes Howell and Borden. The crops have been injured badly by the recent incessant rains. Madam rumor has it that A. B. Sasser, Esq., of Smithfield, has sold his farm to Mr. Wm. H. Whitley, who is a refugee from the Land of Flowers and will shortly move down and go in co-partnership with his brother. We hope 'tis true.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Ransom and the Potomac Flats Title Work of the Delegation—Reid, Bennett and Johnston.

(Staff Correspondence of the Messenger.)

WASHINGTON, July 3.—It is said that when the Ways and Means Committee has not yet given any consideration to Mr. Randall's tariff bill, it is thought that an adverse report will be presented soon after the meeting of the committee on next Tuesday. Our members of the Congress have not been inactive. Mr. Johnston secured the passage of his bill giving damages to Judson Female College, Andersonville ($1,152,239) for injuries inflicted just after the war by Federal troops. Reid got the House to adopt an amendment to the Sundry Civil bill, which, he said in his lucid and business-like speech, would save the Government $55,000 in the matter of binding documents for members authorized under the rules. It is the difference between sheep and calf binding.

Judge Bennett was the means by which undoubtedly the people were saved $100,000 expense in the matter of the illumination of New York Harbor. An amendment to the Sundry Civil bill proposed to appropriate this sum for the construction of platforms, decorations, music, entertainment of guests, &c., at the inauguration of the great statue of Liberty Enlightening the World, Bedloe's Island. In committee of the whole Judge Bennett made the point of "no quorum," and got Mr. Randall to agree to a separate vote in the House. This vote the amendment was "knocked out" by the vernacular of the street, the yeas and nays resulting—yeas, 103; noes, 107. The North Carolina members stood: For, O'Hara; Against, Messrs. Bennett, Cowles, Henderson, Johnston, Reid, Skinner; Mr. Cox and Mr. Green absent, the latter from the city.

On Friday, or the following day, Judge Bennett made a protest against the creation of another office, not absolutely necessary, that of judicial justice of the Supreme Court of Montana Territory. The bill passed. In the Senate on Friday Senator Vance led an attack on the Civil Service law in opposing the adoption of an amendment to the Legislative bill proposing to increase the small clerical force of the Commission. The Senate voted 39 to 11 in favor of the amendment. The two Senators from North Carolina were on opposing sides in the vote which concluded the contest.

On the same day Senator Ransom, from the Committee on Private Lands, reported an amendment intended to be proposed to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, which was referred and ordered to be printed.

This afternoon the North Carolina appropriations, as reported heretofore, passed the Senate as in committee of the whole. When debate arose over the proviso that no land with disputed title should be improved by the present appropriation, Senator Ransom alluded to his bill early in the session to the same purpose, and said that while he would prefer that the bill should go through without the proviso it was wisest in his opinion to attach it to the measure. Edmunds and Conger were of the same mind, but Ingalls and Plumb thought the Kidwell patent such a sham as not to demand any consideration.

On Thursday the House resumed consideration of the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill after it had refused to pass the Des Moines Settlers' bill over the President's veto. Of the North Carolina members on the latter question, Messrs. Bennett, Cox, Henderson, Johnston and Reid voted no, as did the majority of Democrats, and Mr. Skinner voted aye with the majority of Republicans. Mr. Cowles was not present at the vote, and Mr. Green was absent from the city and paired. The vote stood: Ayes, 161; noes, 92; two-thirds not voting, the bill did not pass.

The President signed the Fitz John Porter bill on Thursday. This ends the long fight this ill-treated Democratic officer has made for a vindication. He is restored and retired with the rank of Colonel. The Oleomargarine bill was reported back in the Senate without amendments on Thursday. Only the Republican members of the (Agricultural) Committee signed the report. All the Democrats dissented, but it is understood that many Democratic Senators will support the bill. It will be called up for action after the appropriation bill has been disposed of.

The Senate amended to fifteen days the House's extension of the appropriations beyond the fiscal year, and the House accepted the amendment. Senators of both parties concurred the course of the House—"no new thing"—in holding back appropriation bills for the last days of the session.

The House passed the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill after a sharp partisan debate on Thursday. On the following day, after agreeing to a public hearing on the Sundry Civil Railroad Land Grants Forfeiture bill (which measure had previously passed the House) and non-concurring in Senate amendments to the bill repealing the pre-emption and timber culture acts, the House took up the General Deficiency bill. Only one more appropriation is behind, the Fortifications. That will be reported Tuesday.

On Friday the Senate considered and passed the Legislative appropriation bill, and took up the River and Harbor bill. This was considered today. The Senate got into quite a discussion on Thursday over the offensive matter alleged to be printed in the so-called Rebellion Records. There was an amendment of the Appropriations Committee to strike out the entire paragraph, but the final action did not go so far. A proviso was adopted restricting the publication to contemporaneous events of the war, and another proviso directing the publication of the evidence and report of Judge Advocate General Holt in the Fitz John Porter case.

Mr. Edmunds' bill to vest the President with power to make appointments to office without submitting them to the Senate for confirmation, also provides that every appointment shall be for four years, and the appointee shall not be sooner removed without a trial before a United States Judge to determine whether he should be removed or not. The Republican members of the House from Ohio have sent to the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections a protest against the verdict of the committee in the Payne case and requesting a reconsideration. Senator Sherman endorsed the request with "I heartily agree with every word of it, and have no objection to my position being known."

The President sent the following nominations to the Senate Thursday: John G. Shields, of Michigan, to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Music; the University of Va., the Army School of Languages, and the Cooper Union Art School of New York.

In consequence of the continued increase of patronage, several thousand dollars will be spent during the vacation in enlarging the buildings. The Session of 1886 and 1887 opens September 1, and closes June 2. Catalogues are now ready for distribution. July 5-6 F. P. HOBGOOD, Pres.

In the abuse of privilege of floor exclamation to-day Congressman Zach Taylor, of Tennessee, said he had notified ex-Congressman Ellis, of Louisiana, and ex-Delegate Magninus, of Montana, on the House floor interesting themselves in certain bills. In the Senate to-day a bill was introduced by Mr. Eustis to further amend the Revised Statutes so as to make a distinction in the mode of packing and selling cut tobacco.

Representative Curtin will not be a candidate for renomination. Gov. Curtin has aspirations for the gubernatorial nomination in Pennsylvania. But, in this Chauncey Black may disappoint him. When I left the Capitol this afternoon it was considered probable that the House would observe the 4th by doing legislative work. The Senate will adjourn over.

Next week we shall have suspensions on Monday and the last of the appropriation bills (the Fortifications) on Tuesday. Then the land forfeiture measures, beginning with the Northern Pacific, will come up. The House will insist on its own Northern Pacific bill against the milder Senate measure.
