J. HOWARD BROWN.

Goldsboro, N. C., August 2, 1886.

THE Hon. Thomas D. Johnston has been renominated for Congress in the Ninth district. Mr. Johnston makes an excellent representative.

THE Queen's speech on the reassembling of Parliament was short and without special significance. Gladstone spoke at night in the Commons.

WAYNE county is a Democratic county, and trades with Republicans are not necessary. Fellow Democrats, arouse to a man for the November election, and the victory is yours.

SOME of the Republican conventions divide. In Iowa in the second district ex Gov. Kirkwood and T. J. O'Meara are running as regular nominees. The latter is also candidate of the Knights of Labor.

THE conviction of the eight anarchists in Chicago gives universal satisfaction hereabouts. The verdict was pretty generally approved. Men who will murder in a wholesale way and shamelessly, deserve to die by the halter. There is no sympathy in the South for men like Spies, Sewab, Parsons and Fielden. The use of dynamite is atrocious. The foreign agitators meet with few sympathizers in this country.

THIS seems to be a year of close contests in nominating conventions. The desire to hold office was never at a higher ebb. The middle and eastern districts of North Carolina do not stand alone. There was a fierce conflict, lasting several hundred ballots in Missouri. The Alexandria (Virginia) convention adjourned without a nomination, and the same thing has just been done in the Texas district represented by Gov. Throckmorton, who declines a renomination on the ground of ill health. Virginia sends back Mr. Cabell, an experienced member, and South Carolina returns Mr. Dibble, the best of her old Representatives. Messrs. Tucker and Wise, of Virginia, declined to stand for renomination; Trigg was defeated. Mr. Hammond, of Georgia, was also defeated.

UNITED STATES Consul Dawson, at present stationed at Barranquilla, Colombia, is visiting Philadelphia, and has given the Times of that city some important information concerning our business relations with South America. He says that under the present conditions there is no outlook whatever for extensive commercial intercourse between the United States and Colombia. Our cloth manufacturers will not cut goods to suit the Colombians. Our yard is thirty-six inches and the South American yard is thirty-two. The English pack their goods as the Colombians desire, while the United States exporters will not do so. The English allow much longer credits than we allow. The South American market naturally belongs to this country, however, and in time we can secure it, if proper attention is given to these points.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

The Democratic State convention is in session at Raleigh at the time of this writing, but nothing has as yet been heard that would anticipate its action. There is more interest manifested in this convention than is generally known. The western counties will push M. E. Carter, of Buncombe, for Justice of the Supreme Court, while the Piedmont counties will go for Judges Avery and Graves. In this section of the State George V. Strong will be pushed, and in the extreme eastern counties W. D. Pruden is urged as suitable. These gentlemen are all pushed by people who are opposed to Justices Smith and Ashe of the present court. There is no opposition to Justice Merrimon. There are all sorts of opinions as to the result of the convention, some persons saying the old court will be renominated as it stands; others saying that Merrimon will be nominated for Chief Justice, with two new associate justices. Very earnest efforts are to be made to increase the number of justices from three to five, as it used to be before the adoption of the present Constitution. There are 960 delegates to the convention. Probably half of these will attend in person.

THE REPUBLICAN Muddle.

There seems to be a sort of Kilkenny cat fight in the State camp of our Republican friends, and the chieftains of each faction appear to have their blood hot. Evidently their fight is for faction supremacy. Each of the opposing factions struggles to maintain the recognized leadership of the party in this State, so that should by accident a Republican President succeed President Cleveland in 1888, their patriotism would be sure of reward.

The News-Observer of Sunday is full of their controversy. Dr. J. J. Mott, chairman of the Republican State Executive Committee, has written and is circulating a letter in advance of the regular address of the committee. His letter is full of anger. He attacks the other Republicans who last week issued the call for a convention, and attacked Mott and his methods.

Mott says in his letter: "My purpose in sending out this letter in advance of the regular address of the committee is to prevent the misleading tendencies sought to be made by these opponents of the committee's action. The only purpose of these opponents is to choose a new committee. The old committee has the right to hold over, and has done so. So far as heard from there was but one voice among the signers of the convention call, and that was against putting out a ticket. They only wanted to elect a new committee to preserve the legal organization of the party. The committee was careful to give time and opportunity to the party to express itself as to the call of a convention. It did get a very large expression of such opinion against a convention and very small expression in favor of it. It asked for the will of the party. It was plain, honest and straightforward in all it did, and the members believe they did what the party wished, and they had no doubt the unselfish patriots of the party think so whether they all agree with them or not, and that they will treat these mischief-makers and this rump concern, that can bring nothing but trouble to the party as it deserves. The Greensboro North State attempts to make believe that some members of the executive committee have urged against calling a convention for fear the Keogh faction of the party might capture it. This is the Greensboro paper's own manufacture, to get the attention to Keogh, the man who, in the convention of 1882, by reason of his attempt to disrupt the party, was held in such disfavor that he could not sufficiently command its attention to even make a motion, and is no terror to this committee. The man who since 1879 has lost no opportunity to promote discord in the party ranks, and to secretly stab the party in all its contests, can excite nobody as to the power he would wield in any authoritative convention of the honest Republicans of North Carolina. They know him too well. He can only flourish in the side show, and he can only procure one by deceiving the people with the idea that he wants to have a ticket to vote for. The committee will say in its address that congressional, judicial, senatorial and county executive committees are not interfered with in any way by those who wish about conventions and organizations. Let nobody be deceived."

To this letter of Dr. Mott, Republicans who antagonize him have replied. They denounce him in plain terms as a poor manager of party affairs—as selfish and arrogant. They assure Mott that the convention they have called will be very large; that it will thus rebuke him and those who share in his views and have participated in his acts. They call Mott the leader of the revenue ring, "which has sapped the life-blood of the Republican party in North Carolina."

RECENTLY Santa Anna's widow died and his son, aged sixty-five, committed suicide. On last Saturday a passenger steamer plying on the river Volga, at Saratov, capital of the province of Saratov, in Russia, was burned and 200 lives were lost.

WHY THEY ARE NOT PAID.

We have received another communication (our friend will pardon us for not publishing it) in which the writer seeks information "why the teachers of the Graded School have not yet received their back salaries?" On behalf of the Trustees, we take this occasion to state that the Trustees have not been able to get hold of the money. They are exceedingly anxious that the balance due the teachers, amounting altogether to about $900, shall be paid, and have made every effort to that end, but so far without success.

The interest on the school bonds is also due. This amounts to $700. In the way of credits the Trustees claim something over $1,200 due by Sheriff Grantham and about $350 more due by the county board of education. The last amount will be available as soon as the county treasurer can control the funds to pay it, but there seems to be a hitch over the sum still due the school by the sheriff. The sheriff claims that he has not yet collected all the graded school taxes for last year, and that several parties who have recently settled have refused to pay it, and that he was forced to allow the deduction under the late decision of the Supreme Court. Hence, he declines to pay over the balance now due. On the other hand the Trustees claim that the time when the tax for 1885 should have been paid (January 1, 1886) has passed, and that it is too late in the day for any taxpayer to refuse to pay it now, while most of the taxpayers have cheerfully paid said tax. They hold that all such notice of refusal to pay or protest, ought to have been given prior to January 1, that the decision of the court, therefore, does not release them. Again, they hold that Sheriff Grantham in his settlement with the county commissioners last May, charged himself with the full amount of the school tax, excepting only insolvents, and hence is liable for it, and has no right to release any one only at his own peril.

We fear that the matter may lead to litigations. Suit for the balance due the school has already been instituted. In this connection, it is exceedingly to be regretted that any taxpayer or public spirited citizen of Goldsboro, who by his own delinquency or by the indulgence of the sheriff had failed to pay his taxes for 1885, should at this late day throw obstacles in the way of winding up the affairs of the last school year by refusing to do what the law had required him to do before the Supreme Court had rendered its unfortunate decision. That those who have chosen such a disreputable course are men of family, whose children have had the benefit of the tax, and the education of whose children cost the school more than their tax amounts to, would seem hardly creditable, and yet it is so.

THE GOVERNMENT MAKES RESTITUTION. Certain articles of jewelry, &c., captured by the United States army during the civil war, and deposited in the Treasury Department, are to be delivered to their rightful owners, in accordance with the provisions of the act of Congress, and rules and regulations have been prepared to govern the restoration. The articles are contained in two boxes, and consist of silverware, jewelry, portraits, watches, &c. An inventory has been made, and it is thought the articles can easily be identified by their owners. Everything that has not been restored by April next will be advertised, and such things as shall still remain in the Treasury for one year from that time will be sold at public auction.

ROSS RAYMOND, the confidence operator and prince of swindlers, who was sentenced a few days ago to two years in Sing Sing, was once a writer for the Philadelphia Times and New York Herald. He had never before been brought into court, which circumstance was pleaded in his behalf by one of the district attorneys who was prosecuting him. Such sleek rascals deserve the heaviest and not lightest punishments.

THE spirit of the Irish league at Chicago was seen in one sentence of President Egan's opening address: "We are for Irish liberty—peacefully, if we can; otherwise, if we must." The resolutions are shorter than usual, and are bold without braggadochio. Parnell is endorsed. Finerty tried to stir up bad blood, but Egan, Sullivan and others were ready with eloquence and counsel to put him down. The convention was very enthusiastic. The mother of the great Irish leader was present and received an ovation. The result of the convention is to keep the extremists under.

IT is hard to get them out, indeed it is, when neither party pressure nor writs of mandamus can avail. A Santa Fee special gives us some very interesting facts. Chief Justice Long, of New Mexico, has denied a mandamus in the case of Seligman against Ortiz. Seligman was appointed Treasurer of the Territory by Gov. Ross. The present Treasurer, Ortiz, declined to deliver up the office, claiming that under the law the Governor had not the power to appoint. The Chief Justice held likewise, and Ortiz, who is a Republican, holds over until the session of the Legislature, in January next.

A VERY PLAIN MATTER.

United States Marshal Gross, of Louisville, Ky., having asked the Department of Justice if he would be allowed, under the President's order, to vote at a primary election for a Congressional candidate, Solicitor General Jenks replied as follows: "The circular referred to in yours of the 14th instant is sufficiently clear to be its own interpreter. It does not demand an abridgement of civil rights, nor a renunciation of the duties of the citizen, but the official influence of the officer, it doubtless intends, shall be entirely divorced from party politics. It is not possibly within the purview of my duties to determine what in each case under all the circumstances of life the citizen who holds an office should do and what he should refrain from doing, but an honest purpose, in good faith, to carry out the clear intent of the circular according to the best judgment of the officer will, as a rule, be the best guide in its observance."

Here everything is said that need be said on the subject. AN UNTRUTHFUL PICTURE. An independent paper says: "The singular spectacle is presented of a President at odds with the bulk of his party, and the party nevertheless forced to sustain him because of the fear that any other course on their part would result in jumping from the mugs winged by the Republican fire. So the Democrats have the heat and burden of the day to bear, while all that the Republicans have to do is to sit still and bombard their adversaries with sarcasm and criticisms."

This picture is very much of a caricature. True that many Democrats do disagree with the President, but are the Republicans agreed? Were they harmonious in the days of Hayes, Garfield and Arthur? We do not believe that the President is at odds with the bulk of his party except on one question—that of finance.

A LITTLE episode has just occurred between Murat Halstead and John R. McLean, which looked very much like a duel, but was only arbitration. Some publication was made in a Cincinnati paper which offended Mr. Halstead, and for which he held Mr. McLean responsible. He authorized Col. W. G. Terrell, of Washington, to act for him. A correspondence passed between Col. Terrell and Mr. McLean at Saratoga, couched in very cautious language, but very significant. Col. Terrell asked for a meeting with Mr. McLean, with a view of a settlement. Mr. McLean named Gen. Roger A. Pryor as his "friend." Col. Terrell demanded an explanation, which Gen. Pryor gave by disclaiming all responsibility on the part of Mr. McLean for the objectionable publication. Mr. Halstead accepted this as satisfactory. This may for convenience sake be called the Ohio way. It is not quite so dramatic as the Virginia way, but comes equally near satisfying the old idea of the code of honor.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER. REMARKABLE WEATHER IN THE COUNTRY. The Third Auditor's Success in Improving the Health of the Treasury Clerks. [Staff Correspondence of the Messenger.] WASHINGTON, August 21.—I heard a fat old gentleman, the proprietor of a springs hotel in the mountains of Virginia, who spends a day or two every week in this city, say to-day that this was the most remarkable summer in his recollection. "Why, sir," he said, "it beats all creation. I got up this morning and went out at 7 o'clock and felt the want at once of my light overcoat." I noticed, however, that even as he spoke, he left the sunny side of the street car. It is a singular summer indeed. It has been cooler here in the city than almost anywhere else. Many people have actually come in from the country to enjoy the coolness. Only on two or three days has the thermometer given a fraction above 90 degrees. Most of the time the nights and mornings have been rather too cool for comfort.

This morning something happened which might have easily resulted fatally to a large number of persons. It was on the metropolitan branch of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at the Y. The Chicago express, while going at full speed, ran into the local or Hagerstown accommodation, which was standing on the track. The shock was terrific. The Hagerstown engine and the front cars were smashed badly, and the passengers in all three of the cars in the train were shaken up and frightened. An old lady was badly cut in the forehead, a young lady and several other persons were injured. Some of the wounded persons were taken to a hospital.

Third Auditor Williams is busily engaged in collecting the necessary data for his annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury, giving the operations of his office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1886. He had prepared a statement showing the number of days that clerks in his office were absent during the two last fiscal years—1884-'85 and 1885-'86. During the fiscal year, ending June 30, 1885, the number of days that clerks were absent aggregated 6,916, of which 1,780 days were reported absences on account of sickness, and reduced to working days would give the services of twenty clerks for a whole year at a salary of $1,000 per year, amounting to $20,000. During the last year it aggregated less. Here, the Auditor says, is some evidence that a change of administration has served to improve the health of the clerks—at least in the Third Auditor's office. The report will also show a saving in clerk hire of nearly $20,000 over the last corresponding fiscal year.

Some idea may be formed of the immense money transactions of the government when it is known that the requisitions on the Treasury office for the month of July amounted to $11,917,763.42. The Treasury Department issued another bond call on Thursday—this time $15,000,000, altogether in seven weeks, $37,000,000 bonds have been called in; and yet the Administration opposed the surplus resolution which provided for smaller bond calls. The verdict against the anarchists gave general satisfaction. Mine host of the Metropolitan, called my attention to his bulletin of the fact which was displayed at the clerk's desk of his hotel.

During the month of July the post-office inspectors made sixty-three arrests for violations of the postal law, and of this number thirteen were postmasters, two assistant postmasters, two clerks, one letter carrier and forty-five "Sandy" Herbert, the well known engineer of the White House, died a few days ago, after a long illness of typhoid fever. His was one of the most familiar faces about the White House, having been on duty there, with the exception of a short furlough, since Buchanan's time.

During July 1,988 passes were issued to persons to make the ascent of the Washington monument. It requires a permit. The elevator car will be completed by the 15th of October. It is said so far in August over 1,500 permits to climb the monument have been granted. The carp in the Babcock lake or pond will be removed after December 1, and then the bottom will be filled and the base of the monument levelled off.

A change in the sewerage and other sanitary changes are to be made very soon in the Treasury Department, the most insubstantial of all the government buildings of this city. The Congress appropriated $20,000 to begin the work. The distinguished Japanese party, embracing the commandery of the Mikado's navy and service, left here yesterday for Chester, Penn. NORTH CAROLINA NOTES. Senator Ransom arrived this morning. He reports the cotton crop in Northampton and that region as very much improved since the wet season, and thinks a good average crop will be made if the weather shall remain favorable for several weeks longer. Senator Ransom directs attention to the fact that whereas the surplus resolution would have forced a call of bonds to the extent of about ten millions per month, the Treasury without any forcing is actually calling in the bonds at a much greater rate.

I hear that ex-Congressman Jesse J. Yates is strongly endorsed for the position of Solicitor General by the Treasury Department. Maj. Yeates' many friends would be glad to hear of his appointment to this place, for which he is well qualified. This afternoon Mr. George McCorkle, of Newton, an excellent and popular young Democrat, was appointed to the chieftainship of the pay division of the Second Auditor's office, Treasury Department. It is a new place, created by the last legislative bill. The appointment was secured by Senator Ransom. The salary is $2,000. Mrs. Faison, of Duplin, and her cousin Miss Annie Sprunt, of Wilmington, are here. Mr. Faison was recently appointed under civil service rules to a clerkship in State Department. Another young lady from that section, whose name I do not know, accompanies them. Mr. Murphy, of Sampson, has recently returned from a vacation spent at home. Postoffices discontinued: City, Allegheny county; mail to Whitehead. New postoffices: Endicott, Montgomery Co., C. E. Leach, postmaster; Summerville, Hargett Co., John A. Cameron, postmaster; Prisco, Buncombe Co., R. F. Lee, postmaster. C. W. H.
