

The Fireside.

TIRED.

I am tired. Heart and feet Turn from busy mart and street; I am tired; rest is sweet. I am tired. I have played In the sunshine and the shade; I have seen the flowers fade. I am tired. I have had What has made my spirit glad, What has made my spirit sad. I am tired. Loss and gain! Golden sheaves and scattered grain! Day has not been spent in vain. I am tired. Eventide Bids me to my rest abide, Bids me in my hopes abide. I am tired. God is near, Let me sleep without a fear, Let me die without a tear. I am tired. I would rest As the bird within its nest; I am tired. Home is best.

LOOKING FOR A SEAT.

The London Christian World has the following furnished it by a correspondent. Possibly the incident may serve to set some hearts free on this side of the Atlantic thinking: A workingman came to live in London, having obtained work of a permanent kind. From his youth he had been accustomed to attend a place of worship. Not yet a Christian, he still loved the house of prayer and resolved not to neglect it. Accordingly, on the first Sunday morning he went off in search of a place of worship, and, having seen one with open doors, he went in, and, as no one was about, he took a seat in one of the pews. Just as the service began a pew-opener told him that he could not sit where he was, and did so in such a manner that he left the building in disgust. After a Sunday or two he ventured into another sanctuary, and the same thing happened. An interval of abstinence followed, and then for a third time he went within the sacred precincts, and, alas! a third time he was turned out of his sitting. For twenty years he ceased to attend any place of worship, and then a curious thing came to pass. It was on this wise. His child attended the Sunday-school of a popular preacher, and what she said made him try for a seat once more.

In time we see the crazy drops. The crazy drops made soft. The slowest snail in time we see Both creep and climb aloft. And he, after twenty years, would try again. This was what happened. He entered the beautiful chapel, and there he saw a man, a man of a different order, one of them remarkably so. Well, for a moment he was absent from his post, and the poor man sat down in the end seat—no pew doors on them—and in the seat of a very cantankerous person! The chapel steward glancing along the aisle, saw the poor man had poached on a very strictly reserved seat, but he resolved not to disturb him. No, he watched for the owner of that sitting, arrested his steps in his gentle way, and begged him not to disturb the poor wayfarer, and managed to pilot him into another seat. It was a great feat of Christian diplomacy, and had its reward. That poor wayfaring man is now a member of the church, and I heard the happy chapel steward tell the story.

THE PECULIAR MAN.

The peculiar man is a public nuisance. He obtrudes his peculiarity on all occasions with the same sort of pride that causes a Neapolitan beggar to glory in the display of some ghastly deformity. The peculiar man glories in his peculiarity; he calls it individuality, and avers very truthfully that nothing should make a man sacrifice his individuality. He quotes: "The leopard can not change his spots," and so emphasizes his peculiarities. The peculiar man invariably has the most remarkable set of principles. True, one should have principles, but it remains the province of peculiarity to force its principles down the helpless throat of its neighbor. Our peculiar man accounts for all his unpleasant traits by the stock remark: "Oh, you know I am a peculiar man." And so he is—peculiarly assuredly exempt from the duties owed by the civilized, commonplace man to his fellows. This sketch is not funny, it is intended to be funny—it is moral.—New York Graphic.

DON'T.

Don't snub a boy because he wears shabby clothes. When Edison, the inventor of the telephone, first entered Boston he wore a pair of yellow linen breeches in the depth of winter. Don't snub a boy because his home is plain and unpretending. Abraham Lincoln's early home was a log cabin. Don't snub a boy because of the ignorance of his parents. Shakespeare, the world's poet, was the son of a man who was unable to write his own name. Don't snub a boy because he chooses an humble trade. The author of the "Pilgrim's Progress" was a thinker. Don't snub a boy because of physical disability. Milton was blind. Don't snub a boy because of dullness in his lessons. Hogarth, the celebrated painter and engraver, was a stupid boy at his books. Don't snub a boy because he stutters. Demosthenes, the greatest orator of Greece, overcame a harsh and stammering voice. Don't snub any one. Not alone because some day they may far outstrip you in the race of life, but because it is neither kind, right or Christian.

A great benefit has been secured to the poor by the introduction of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, for it now only takes 25 cents to cure a cough, or cold. Anybody troubled with rheumatism, neuralgia, stiff neck, or any pain or ache should procure a bottle of Serravallo's Oil at once. Price 35 cents.

A TOOTHACHE REMEDY.

I always did have a scientific turn. So does the implement which imparts the circular motion to a grindstone, though I am unable to say which is the greater success as a crank. Among other symptoms of genius which are rapidly developing in me, I occasionally wrap myself in impenetrable gloom and other wearing apparel and wrestle with a redundant and conspicuous toothache. Having deposited so many incisors, biceps and molars with gentlemen of leisure, who make a business of collecting such bric-a-brac, I began to fear that I should soon be compelled to live on codfish balls and mush the remainder of my days. What wonder then, that the following from the London Electrician attracted my attention: "If a thin piece of zinc be placed on one side of the gum and a silver coin on the other side, with the aching tooth between them, and then the edges of the metals brought together, a weak galvanic current will be established, that will cure the pain." I immediately gathered up my wife's washboard, and cut a piece of zinc from it. She made a vigorous protest, but when a man has a tooth in his mouth that is dissatisfied with the management of affairs his other troubles are nought. After obtaining the zinc the next thing was to get the coin. A thorough investigation of my assets failed to reveal even a 10-cent piece, so I went out and borrowed that amount from a friend. In my hurry I laid the piece of zinc where I could not find it again. I cut another piece from the crippled washboard, the tooth rigidly adhering to the ache business, and my wife protesting; but something had to be done and that something I heroically attempted to do. Placing the zinc and coin as directed, I let them touch below the tooth. "Jeminy crickets!" A thousand toothaches at once! It was over in a second, and the tooth no longer ached; but the dime—oh, where was he? Half way down my throat and marching on. I had promised to return the dime in half an hour, but under the circumstances it was impossible, and my friend now regards me as a fraud. Hang those low fangled remedies, anyhow!—Goodall's Sun.

A TRUE KING OF FORESTS.

The tanned skin of a huge African lion, said to be the largest animal of its kind ever killed by a white man, has just been made into a rug for a gentleman of New York. The owner was one of a hunting party that captured the animal last August on a mountain precipice near the Sand river, East Africa, about 180 miles back from the coast line at Delagoa bay. The lion killed a native Zamala, who was trying to beat him out of the bush so that the hunters could get a shot at him, and the owner of the skin brought home the skin of the poor fellow as another souvenir of the exciting chase. From the nostrils to the tip of the tail the skin measures ten feet three inches. It is beautifully colored, and all the claws and teeth are preserved perfectly. Two of the teeth are four inches long. The head measures about two feet eight inches across the forehead, with all the muscles strongly brought out. There is a big hole in the skin from the bullet that pierced the animal's heart. The owner of the skin left Africa with it before the hot season came on. It was packed in lime to preserve it until the traveler reached London, and was covered with arsenic soap. The lion-skin has been surrounded with twenty-one bear-skins, the whole forming a rug twenty-one feet long and thirteen feet wide, enough to carpet a large room. The skin has been the object of a good deal of interest and curiosity to men in the trade.

Scavengers of Importance.

Next to the bowels, or rather in conjunction with them, the kidneys and bladder are the most important scavengers of the system. They purify the blood and carry off its refuse, preventing rheumatism, dropsy, Bright's disease and diabetes by their active cleansing work. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, when the kidneys evince a tendency to relax the activity of their important function, renews it, and thus averts renal maladies, the most difficult to cope with, and which superinduce a frightful loss of bodily tissue, stamina and flesh. When the renal organs exhibit the slightest symptoms of inaction, they should at once receive the needed stimulus from this safest, surest and pleasantest of diuretics. Chills and fever, dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint and debility are also remedied by it.

Home is the one thing sweet on earth. But home is built not of stones, but of hearts.

Their Business Booming.

Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at Kirby & Robinson's Drug Store as their giving away to their customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted.

A Public Benefactor! This title I justly claim, inasmuch as I was the FIRST MAN to bring down the price of goods in this city.

IT IS A FACT!

That if you buy FIVE DOLLARS worth of Goods from me, you will carry away a Larger Bundle of Better Goods, than TEN DOLLARS worth from any other store in the State would make.

THE GOODS MUST GO! It will be very little trouble for you to call and verify this statement.

It is true the crop is short and the worst is that you don't get hardly anything for your produce, but still there are people coming to my store daily saying: "Mr. Edwards, how in the world can Goods be made up at the price you are selling them?" The riddle to this puzzle I will leave for you to solve.

I Will Admit that my advertisement this season is later than usual; in fact my store being daily thronged with customers it was unable for me to do it any sooner.

MY BUSINESS IS BOOMING!

1. Because Goods are Sold Cheaper than other Houses can buy them. 2. Because the Greatest Bargains are bought and the Benefit given to Customers. 3.
