Read this Carefully.

The following letter from a well-known Western lady explains itself and is worthy of careful reading:
"I wish to say to the sick and those that are feeble and weak from any cause whatever that in all the vocabulary of medicines they will find the most virtuous and the greatest benefit from Parker's Tonic. I have been an invalid for five or six years past, and given up to die by the most skillful physicians of Kansas and Colorado, but Parker's Tonic has kept me alive, and raised me up after everything else failed. I have organic heart disease, combined with spinal and great nervous debility, and have cold sinking spells with no pulse, and the only medicine that will bring on a reaction is Parker's Tonic. I have never known it to fail in curing a cold if taken in time, and it will relieve pain quicker than any remedy I have ever tried. I send you this because I could like for others to know how much good it has done me. It is just as good for children. Try it and be convinced."

ANCIENT ROME.

Remarkable Relics Brought to Light by Some Recent Excavations.

The topography of ancient Rome has always been a matter of interest to historians, and also one of extreme difficulty. Such great changes have been made since the long period of the occupation of the ground by many masters, and so much of it has been built over and destroyed so many times that doubts have been entertained as to the exact spots where took place some of the most important events of history. But since Rome became again a capital, such vast schemes of building and change have been adopted that in the necessary excavations a great deal has come to light that has been hidden for many thousand of years. Such progress has been made in determining localities that before long it will be possible to construct a complete topography of the Rome of earliest days.

On the Palatine Hill, known to be the favorite residence of the Caesars, the latest discoveries have been made. These connect it directly with the rude village which Alban shepherds had built eight centuries before Christ, and which was afterward transformed into a fortified city by another shepherd named Romulus. This nucleus of the city had a wall with four gates, one of which was called the Porta Romana, and to it led a street, the earliest in Rome. Part of the street and part of this primitive street have now been laid bare. Under the street is the sewer as originally constructed, cut in the solid tufa and leading down to the little stream at the foot of the hill. This sewer is extremely interesting as exhibiting the system of drainage in primitive Rome, and as showing them in the earliest days this indomitable Latin race began to undertake those well considered public works which have remained the wonder of succeeding generations.

Another discovery relates to a comparatively modern era, though it is as ancient as the earliest of the Christian centuries. The catacomb of St. Sebastian, on the Appian way, is one of the greatest antiquity, going back to Apostolic times. It has always been a place of special veneration, because of the tradition that here the bodies of St. Peter and St. Paul were hidden after their martyrdom. But during the later middle ages it became choked with rubbish and almost lost to all knowledge. Lately, however, it has been opened and many discoveries of Christian tombs and relics made, but most of them had already been visited and robbed of whatever remained of value. But a new gallery was found, completely cut off by accumulated rubbish, which, when opened, presented the rare surprise of a place of early sepulchre intact, with its tombs still closed by tiles and marble slabs. The destroyers of the middle ages, who violated almost all the tombs in the Christian cemeteries, had never touched this gallery, and it was found just as left by the ancient builders.

Most of these tombs are adorned with the glass vases, which is sometimes a sign of martyrdom, but not always so. Sometimes they are believed to have contained portions of the aromas and perfumes with which the body was sprinkled in the act of burial. There are many sacred monograms and Christian inscriptions, and one object of most unusual interest. This is a bust of the Saviour, sculptured in relief, in a sort of rectangular frame. The type of work is that well known one, with pointed beard and hair falling on the shoulders, which is characteristic of fourth century work. The bust, as an isolated work of time, is unique, and is of capital importance in the history of the early Christian art.

THE BASEBALL MEETING.

Important Changes Adopted in the Playing Rules.

CHICAGO, November 16.—The Rules Committee of the National League and American Baseball Association resumed its session this morning. The following changes were made: The high and low ball system of delivery has been abolished, and the ball now being considered fair that passes the player between his shoulder and knee and that passes over the plate. Bunting will in future not be allowed. Any obvious attempt to make a foul hit will be scored as a strike. Clubs will not toss for choice of position in the future, the right of choice invariably resting with the home club. Five balls and four strikes will be allowed, instead of six balls and three strikes as heretofore. When a batsman makes his base on balls he should be credited with a base hit. A batsman shall take his base when struck by a pitched ball. Any motion whatever on the part of the pitcher, made to deceive the batter, shall be considered a balk.

Many of the more important changes incorporated thus far have been at the suggestion of the Advisory Board, composed of Captains Anson, Ward, Comiskey and Smartwood, who, it is believed, are carrying out the views and wishes of a great majority of the players in both of the great organizations.

If in running to a base the runner touches and detaches the base-glove without being touched by the baseman he will be safe. Captains of the clubs only can question any decision of the umpire. The old rule requiring a runner to return to his base on the run when a foul hit is made was rescinded. Hereafter the runner can walk to his base. No runner can have a substitute run for him in case of an injury, but if hurt must retire from the game.
A batter is out on the fourth strike under the new rules, whether the ball is dropped or passed by the catcher. The question of having two umpires and a referee was brought up, but a majority of the committee voted against the scheme and it was dropped. A modification of the umpires' rules of both organizations was adopted. The pitcher's box was shortened to five and a half feet, and the pitcher will be required to keep his forward foot firmly on the ground when about to deliver the ball. His rear foot must be on the back line of the box, and he will be allowed to take but one step when delivering the ball. The ball must be held in plain view of the umpire. The pitcher cannot as heretofore deliver the ball to the batter after taking a hint to throw to first base, but must resume his position in his box. Only two catchers will be permitted, and they shall have the right to talk to base runners only. For talking to a batsman the coacher will be reprimanded for the first offense, and be forced to give up his coaching and another man put in his place on a repetition of the fault. In scoring, when a batter is given his base on called balls a hit is credited to the batter and an error is given to the pitcher in the summary only. All batting errors are charged in the summary, as are earned runs, double plays, base on balls, hit by pitcher, passed balls, wild pitches, time of game, and name of umpire. A pitcher will be given no credit for a strike out. In the places of total bases, the record of stolen bases will be kept. Any attempt by a player to steal a base must be credited, whether an error is made or not, if the runner is successful in reaching a base.

The committee also passed a rule requiring each association to appoint a joint rule committee at each annual meeting, they to act for three years. All clubs under the jurisdiction of the national agreement must abide by the rules adopted, which are known as the "national playing rules of the professional baseball clubs."

Wonderful Cures.

W. D. Hoyt & Co., Wholesale and Retail Druggists of Rome, Ga., say: We have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery, Electric Bitters and Buckler's Arnica Salve for two years. Have never handled remedies that sell as well, or give such universal satisfaction. There have been some wonderful cures effected by these medicines in this city. Several cases of pronounced Consumption have been entirely cured by use of a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, taken in connection with Electric Bitters. We guarantee them always. Sold by Kirby & Robinson.
