Report of the Press Association.

Entered according to act of Congress in the year 1861 by J. S. THOMAS, in the Clerk's office of the District Court of the Confederate States, of the Northern District of Georgia.

OFFICIAL FROM GEN. LEE.

RICHMOND, Dec. 11.

An official dispatch from Gen. Lee, today, says, the expedition to Belfield under Warren returned within the enemy's lines yesterday.

The two divisions of the 9th corps, which went to Warren's relief, proceeded no farther than Belcher's Mill. On meeting the returning column it turned back.

On returning from Belfield the enemy moved easterly to the Jerusalem and Sussex Court House roads.

Our forces only encountered their rear guard, and pursued them no farther than Nottaway river.

They have returned to camp, bringing in a few prisoners.

Our loss very slight.

The Superintendent of the Rail Road reports about six miles of the track torn up.

CONGRESSIONAL.

RICHMOND, Dec. 13.

The Senate has passed the concurrent resolution for a recess from the 24th instant until the 2d of January.

Mr. Orr from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, reported back Henry's resolutions defining treason to the Confederate States, and declaring it to be the determination of Congress and the people to prosecute the war until their independence is acknowledged. The resolutions passed, yeas 16, nays none.

A bill to provide for the remission of the penalty for non-delivery of bacon passed.

In the House, the Sequestration and Currency bills were discussed.

A bill increasing the pay of members of Congress fifty per cent, was passed, yeas 45, nays 41.

Several bills reported were ordered to be printed.

FROM THE NORTH.

RICHMOND, Dec. 13.

The Washington Chronicle of Sunday has been received.

A Nashville telegram of the 10th, says the Federal loss in the battle of Franklin is ascertained by official reports, to be one hundred and ten officers and two thousand and fifteen men killed, wounded and missing.

Prisoners report Hood about to make a movement of some sort.

The rebels can be plainly seen from the front of the fourth corps standing about their camp fires.

Hostilities have ceased on account of the weather.

A furious snow storm prevailed in the Northern cities on Saturday, extending as far as Halifax.

Gold closed in New York on Saturday at 234.

Gen. Dana's expedition from Vicksburg destroyed the Mississippi Central Railroad for thirty miles above Big Lick Creek crossing, and destroyed twenty five hundred bales of cotton.

PETTY MALIGNITY.—James Moore, one of the seamen of the Florida, published in a St. Thomas (W. I.) paper, on the arrival of the Wachusett and Florida at that port, an account of the capture of the Florida and treatment of the prisoners. He says:

"Our Commander and crew always respected private property, and no prisoners taken by us were ever put in irons, although we have had as many as seventy on our decks at one time, which was very far from being the case in this instance. Our money and clothing were taken from us, we were double ironed and packed like sardines in a box, being only allowed twelve by five feet for eighteen of us in a very close atmosphere. The above is a true statement of the case and can be corroborated by any of the Florida's crew now present."

The cowardice and treachery which marked the capture of the Florida were not impossibly followed by such malignant cruelty.

REMEDY FOR CHILLS.—A strong decoction of dogwood bark and berries, with one-third the quantity of whiskey or brandy added, is said by a correspondent of the Charleston Courier to be an excellent remedy for chills.

Dose—a wineglass full three times a day.

Tell Me, Ye Winged Winds.

Tell me, ye winged winds,
That round my pathway roar,
Do you not know some spot
Where mortals weep no more?
Some lone and pleasant dell,
Some valley in the west,
Where free from toil and pain,
The weary soul may rest?
The loud wind soothed to a whisper low.
And sighed for pity as it answered "No!"
Tell me, thou mighty deep,
Whose billows round me play,
Know'et though some favored spot,
Some island far away,
Where weary man may find
The bliss for which he sighs;
Where sorrow never lives
And friendship never dies?
The loud waves rolling in perpetual flow,
Stopped for a while, and sighed to answer
"No!"

And thou, serenest moon,
That with such holy face
Dost look upon the earth,
Asleep in night's embrace,
Tell me in all thy round
Hast thou not seen some spot
Where miserable man
Might find a happier lot?

Behind a cloud the moon withdrew in woe.

And a voice, sweet, but sad, responded "No!"

Tell me, my secret soul,
O, tell me, hope and faith,
Is there no resting place
From sorrow, sin and death?
Is there no happy spot,
Where mortals may be blessed,
Where grief may find a balm,
And weariness a rest?
Faith, Hope and Love—best boon to mortals given.

Waived their bright wings and whispered,

"Yes," in Heaven!"

CHARLES MACKET.

HELLISH CONDUCT.—While in Millidgeville, Ga., the Yankees committed many wanton outrages, but the Augusta Register says that the most hellish deeds that the infernal demons committed remain to be told, and we think the paper should blush that bears the record. The Register is informed that the incarnate devils outraged some of the nicest ladies in the town. We pen the paragraph with horror. Our blood runs cold as we write. We would forbear doing so, but we wish our people to know the destiny that awaits them if the vandals are allowed to continue their invasion of the country. One of their unfortunate victims was consigned to the asylum, on Monday. Her reason tottered beneath the load of wounded honor, and the poor victim is ruined forever. How long! oh how long is our country to be insulted by these savages? in the name of justice and humanity we urge our people to vindicate their honor. We have a heavy score against our foes-men; blood will scarcely blotter the record. There have been deeds committed by these God-forsaken wretches, that should cause the heavens to peal the thunder of vengeance, and the earth to open and swallow them as it did the Kora. But the earth would spew out such wretches; the sea would disgorge them. Hell is scarce fit to dominate them.—Lynch. Repub.

Few things appear so beautiful as a young child in its shroud. The little innocent face looks so sublimely simple, and confiding amidst the cold terrors of death. Fearless, that little mortal has passed alone under the shadow. There is death in its sublime and purest image. No hatred, no hypocrisy, no suspicion nor care for the morrow ever darkened that little face. Death has come lovingly upon it; there is nothing cruel or harsh in its victory. The yearning of love, indeed, can not be stifled; for the prattle and smile—all the little world of thoughts that were so delighted are gone for ever. Awe, too will overcast us in its presence for the lonely voyager; for the child has gone, simple and trusting, into the presence of an all-wise Father, and of such, we know, is the kingdom of Heaven.
