WEEDS.

While the world lasts weeds will grow. The Germantown Telegraph has this to say about the destruction of these ubiquitous foes of the farmer: Every once in a while we read that the way to destroy noxious weeds is to haul loads of earth and cover the places where the weeds grow a half a foot or so deep. Sometimes these instructions are varied as to read rubbish instead of earth and then again rubbish is defined as straw, cornstalks, or even brush. Now we have no doubt in the world that the weeds can be destroyed in that way. We know that weeds feed on air and all that sort of thing, and that if they are smothered they can't breathe, and if they cannot breathe they die. All this is so plain to the thickest skull that one may feel perfectly safe in recommending it as something that will surely do. And yet we would like to know how many who recommend it have ever done so, or seen their plan tried by others. We very much doubt whether it was ever done. Some one may have noticed that under a brush-heap everything was killed, and that after remaining a year the brush-heap's removal would show the spot bare of all vegetation. If the recommendation ever had any good at all it was surely this.

Our remedy for noxious weeds is thorough cultivation. If a piece of ground is full of briars, milkweed, couch-grass, Sodom apples, Canada thistles, sorrel, toad flat, or other miserable stuff that so often tries the mettle of our good farmers, let them put the ground in corn for a couple of years or so, keeping the cultivation going continually, and especially going in the earliest parts of the season, and the toughest character among these weeds will fall to stand the ordeal. If the hand hoe can be spared to go in among the hills of corn occasionally, where the teeth of the harrow cannot reach, or to cut out here and there one which the harrow may miss, a bad case may be cured in a single season. But, if this cannot be done, a couple of successive years with a sharp tooth cultivator among a corn-crop will generally do the business for the worst case that ever was.

Let any one who has a weedy field before him resolve, another season, to put the whole tract in corn and keep clean, and he will soon give up all the common ideas of smothering out with deep layers of earth, cutting up in the full of the moon, putting salt upon their tops, or the many other recommendations started in the interest, it is believed, of laziness, but which really calls for more trouble and hard work than a thorough and systematic cleaning, such as we have indicated does.

CLOVER HAY.

The best time for cutting clover is when about two thirds of the blossoms have become brown; but the grass should be perfectly dry when cut and put into cocks right after the machine, and if the weather looks favorable might be left to stand in the cock next day to wilt; but toward evening, before the dew begins to fall, the cocks should be turned bottom upward; then, the next day, as soon as the hay is perfectly dry, put it in the mow. Some farmers would sprinkle salt over the hay in small quantities while it is being mowed, with the view to preserve it. But I never thought well to do this, and fool away time sprinkling salt on hay while the sun was shining hot and a prospect for a shower of rain, and besides, that salt is a septic in small quantities and has no agency in preserving the hay, which undergoes the sweating process better without salt. Salt in small quantities may impart a flavor to the hay much relished by stock; but it is no very great trouble to keep a barrel of salt water close at hand, with a watering pot to sprinkle over the clover hay just before feeding, to settle the dust.

Making clover hay is not enough in vogue among farmers, owing to the great difficulty in it; but when properly made it is about the best food for stock of all kinds. Sweet clover hay, cut fine, made wet, and sprinkled over with a mixture of equal parts of wheat bran and finely chopped rye or corn, in the best and cheapest food for horses, at only ordinary farm work, and constantly fed upon which they will be healthier and live longer than if fed upon so much whole unground grain. Young store-hogs will live on good clover hay, and will eat it nearly all up, branches, blades and blossoms, but if cut with a machine and wet with will, and mixed sparingly with chopped rye and corn or cake meal, and only so much fed to them as they will eat up clean, they will grow faster.

A Michigan widow who jumped off a log of hay and knocked down a tramp who made fun of her sunbonnet, had three offers of marriage within a week.

When you are planting new ground and run into a stump, don't swear about it. Go hire somebody to swear who can do it with more grace and dignity.

Raise your boys early—in the morning. If they don't "raise" easily, a light dressing of peach tree fertilizer will help them wonderfully.

45 Years Before the Public. THE GENUINE DR. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS,

FOR THE CURE OF Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint, DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequalled.

Beware of Imitations.

The genuine are never sugar coated. Every box has a red wax seal on the lid with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signature of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrapper.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLANE, spelled differently but same pronunciation.
