Blue Jeans Williams, late governor of Indiana, is dead.

One Hancock elector has been chosen in Indiana, which resulted from the Re. publicans voting many tickets with only 14 instead of 15 names upon them.

Congress meets on the first Wednesday in December and the Legislation the first Wednesday in January.

The official count of the presidential vote in North Carolina, foots up 124, 204 for Busbee the candidate who received the highest number of votes on 115,616 for Dockery the highest on the not more than 80,000 are constituents of Republican list. The Greenbacker polled I,134 votes.

As there was nothing done with the vote of New York before the Board of State canvassers, it is not very probable to suppose that Congress will do anything with it either. From the first, the was only a trumpet blast-empty sounding-and looked like something no one cared to meddle with.

The present Legislature is composed very largely of new members. We hope to see them turn out some good work for the welfare of the state. Let them dare to do the right, regardless of fear or affection. The state is in great need of some good legislature. By and by some good friends will advise them what to do.

Now that Gen. Grant has abandoned his home in Galena, and taken up his residence in New York, it is proposed to send him to the Senate to succeed Mr. Kernan. It is said that he is in need of a position, and it seems that the duty of supplying that want is paramount to the necessity of a good Senator to represent the great State of New York. He said in a recent speech, that he would be happy to render any zervice to his country; which means that he would be happy to draw a salary from his country's treasury, for the consideration of ornamenting an official station in this Amer ican Union.

The Atlantic and North Carolina Lease

The stockholders of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad met in Newbern on Tuesday, according to the previous adjournment, for the purpose of again considering the perplexing lease question but nothing was done in the matter because of the withdrawal of the State's proxy from the meeting. There was a pretty full attendance, and two propositions were made for a lease-one by Hon, R R Bridgers and another by W J.Best, Esqr. Mesers. R R Bridgers and John F Devine were present at the meeting and so was Mr. Best. The latter gentleman offered for himself and associates $34,000 per year. Owing to the withdrawal of the State's proxy from the meeting no action was taken on either of the propositions, but we learn that the feeling among the private stockholders was decidedly in favor of leasing to the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad. An informal meeting of the priwate stockholders was afterward held, at at which a resolution offered by Mr. Julius A Gray, declaring in favor of leasing the road, was adopted by an almost unauimous vote, and subsequently a resolution offered by Major John Hughes, that the lease be made to the Wilmington Railroad received 1061 votes to 381 against, but we learn that about 850 of the latter declared in favor of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad provided no better proposition was offered. We learn that the failure to dispose of this lease matter, and the withdrawal of state's proxy, caused a good deal of inindignation.-Goldsboro Mcssenger.

We are told that "active movements' are being made in New York to "reconstruct the democratic party." Anybody can see, when it is too late, how A FATAL FEAST-WEDDING SITUATION WANTED, a disaster might have been prevented. But it is hard to see how at this time all possible future disasters may be prevented by a movement that is born of chagrin and penitence after death. The New York demograts have tried the penitence of the party elsewhere to such an extent that it is altogether probable that the party will have constructed itself four years hence in such a way as not to depend on the New York democrats as a sine qua non. They have forfeited their claim to dependence upon them and to respect for their methods and trustworthiness. The democracy will not again out implicit confidence in them, nor depend on them for national success .- Goldsboro Messen-

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 21.-In an intervew with a correspondent of a Northern newspaper, Governor Marks, of Tennessee, uses the following language: "I was in the Confederate service as Confederate service as colonel, and I accept the results of the war without reserve. I believe an overwhelming ma-jornty of the people down here feel as I The Northern people do not understand us. They think we are ripe for secession still. What possible interest could we have in seceding now. We went out of the Union because wewanted the worth of our slaves in our own way. We believed then that slavery could not flourish unless we seceded. Let us be frank. We did secede and got the worst of it by a large majority. What, in od's name, have we to make us think of secersion under altered circumstances? We have nothing to secode for since slavery was abolished, which I am heartglad of, and we are much better off within the Union, where we belong, than we would be outside of it, where we do not belong. YANKEE MUSHRCOMS.-Grant makes his home with his son Ulysses, who seems in turn to have made his home with his wealthy father in law, ex-Senator Chaffee, of Colorado. Chaffee is a millionaire, has a handsome residence on Madison avenue, and has married his only daughter to a Grant, though it is whispered that the young lady had several suitors who she preferred, but at la t suffered her father's reasons of state to preval with her heart. Grant had an interest in his son's mining and broker-age business, and the latter has increased 'old man's' original investment of $25,000 to $100,000. Grant himself did not return with very much money, but his living costs him nothing. The rail-roads and hotels deadhead him, and the men who have great expectations from the 'coming empire' are only too glad to contribute cigars and wines or anything else that may be acceptable. The Grant family have certainly done well in their matrimonial alliances. Fred, Jesse and Ulysses have married becaps of money,' out to the field and set it.
