FARM-FIELD AND GARDEN

CULTIVATING CORN.

The Great Majority Favor Shallow Cultivation and Avoid Root Pruning. At the Illinois station field experiments in 1892, in several previous years, showed that shallow cultivation is better than deep and that more frequent cultivation than is necessary to keep the soil free from weeds and the surface fairly loose is not profitable.

A recent bulletin from the Indiana station on its experiments for several years with corn reports that shallow cultivation has given better results than either medium or deep cultivation. Shallow running corn cultivators have produced higher average yields than those which deeply stir the soil.

The ground should not be stirred at all after the corn has well tasseled, but one should be careful to keep the weeds out with a sharp hoe. To neglect the cornfield after cultivation stops is a serious error.

Mr. Stahl further says that the smoothing harrow is a splendid implement for early cultivation. The disk harrow is the best implement to use while the corn is quite small on land so smooth that its use is permitted.

Scout for Clover. A South Carolinian, in a letter to the American Agriculturist, sums up scarlet clover as follows: This plant is an annual, and if sown in the spring it can be fed off in the fall, or if in the late summer, so that growth may begin in the fall, before the winter, it is ready for cutting in the next spring.

A Bay Rake. To draw hay to a stack a correspondent in Farm Journal says: "Make a rake as follows: Take 10 scuttles 3 by 4 inches and 10 feet long, lay them down on their edges about 15 inches apart on the barn floor and spike or bolt across their centers a wide 3-inch plank. Let the plank extend over at the ends about a foot, and on each end fasten a hook to attach a whiffletree.

A Convenient Feeder. A cheap and very convenient feeder for half grown chickens can be made in a few minutes by stretching wires over the top of a box of suitable size.

It is reported that in New Hampshire Vermont and Maine the honey bee is scarce and likely to become so about 1902. The reason is that about 1892 some one was paid last year.

Varying Cost of Feed.

That the farmer needs to be an all-around practical business man is seen in nothing more clearly than in the management and especially the feeding of his stock. He cannot set out with one unvarying ration if he would produce milk, butter, beef or mutton at the cheapest rate.

Two years ago oats were extremely dear. A farmer of our acquaintance, who had used oats to mix with corn for feeding sheep, substituted a feed of strained and broken beans for both the oats and corn and put with it twice or three the bulk of the bean ration of bran, in order that the sheep might digest it better.

To Keep Butter Cool.

We have tried with satisfactory success the following simple device for keeping a plate of butter cool and firm in the hottest of weather with the mercury among the nineties, says the Jersey Bulletin.

The evaporation of water from the pot will keep the butter hard and gold. It is a very simple thing to try. We have used the same principle effectively in milk cans by fitting over them blanket jackets and pouring cold water on the jackets until they were thoroughly wet.

Cows in Poor Condition.

Indigestion is one of the most serious disorders affecting all animals, and it gives rise to many diseased conditions that have no apparent cause to one who does not understand how a disturbed digestion affects every function of the system.

The first result of disorder of the stomach and liver is decrease of milk, which is often of very inferior quality, not to say really unusable on account of bitterness from excess of bile in the blood.

There is little difference in the fertilizing value of hard wool or soft wool wools. One has about as much phosphorus as the other, but the phosphorus is sold in the soft wool wools.

FARODY OF THE HEAVEN.

Once upon a midnight dreary as I powdered weak and weary, in a state of sleep stupor on a quilted seat on floor, while I nodded, slumber seeking, suddenly there came a squeaking as of some one always speaking in the senate floor.

"Cockrell," said I, quite emphatically, "poultice or demagogue, whether fat or some worse evil sent thee to this senate floor, cannot you but come in quiet from this evanescent diet, from this weary, wait-on riot of just talk, and talk so poor?"

"But the times are dull and dreary, all the land is tired and weary, and depression rules in every factory, mill and retail store.

The Negro Congress. We see it stated among our exchanges that a congress of negroes has been called to meet in Cincinnati some time soon, to consider the wrongs of that race in the South.

What a Young Man Did.

A college graduate had hardly received his diploma before he was compelled to face poverty and family disgrace. His father, who had been reputed to be wealthy, was an embezzler and a fugitive from justice.

A Home Threat.

A story is told of an old Fijian chief and an English sailor on 1881—who visited the Islands. The Englishman said to the chief: "You are a great chief, and it is really a pity that you have been so foolish as to listen to the missionaries, who only want to get rich among you."

Secrets.

Canon Willibrodus says: "One day while walking in the Isle of Skye, I saw a magnificent specimen of the golden eagle, soaring upwards, I halted and watched its flight. Soon I observed by its movements that something was wrong. Presently it began to fall and soon lay dead at my feet."

Let the Young Ladies Read This.

Girls, let me give you a little piece of advice. It is this: Never marry, unless you can reform a man by marrying him. If you will, you will check out of ten, you will pay the penalty with a broken heart.

Atlanta Journal.

There is considerable discussion just now about the prospects of gold mining in the South.

It is known that in a vast quantity of gold-bearing rock in Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia and Alabama.

The official figures show that up to 1891 Georgia had produced $15,902,200 worth of gold, North Carolina $21,555,844 and Virginia $3,189,610.

Professor Stone after a visit to California in 1873 said that he was satisfied that the gold ores in the South are the richest and the easiest to work in this country.

"Jenny," called out Mrs. Wilson to her beautiful daughter upstairs. "I've got the washing ready for you to hang out."

Atlanta Journal.

Then Miss Jenny put on the novel she was reading, rolled up the sleeves from her lovely white arms, and, gazing down stairs, filled her pretty mouth with chocolate, and hung out the clothes just as young Marterson went by to his dinner.

WORTH OBSERVING ON WEEK-DAYS.

Some people never find out the real worth of their religion until they lose all their money.

When a man is praying for a corn crop, he is not anxious about the result of the people who expect to go to Heaven on their own merits.

Find a man that the devil is fighting with both hands and you will find one who is praising God.

If you hate your next dear neighbor, it is all the evidence they need to believe that you do not love the Lord.

The man who is truly trusting in God never has to look into his flour barrel to see whether he ought to be a saint.

There is something wrong with our faith if we stop rejoicing in the Lord whenever our sky begins to cloud up.

The lowliest act of daily life becomes sublime when wrought by Christ.

Happy is the man who has faith to leave all with God. He is at peace.

Some of the organ's sweetest notes come from pipes that are out of sight. Many of us would be more silent in prayer as well as more earnest, if we had a truer sense of our great need.

No airplane has been invented which is powerful enough to arrest the progress of the influence of a human deed.

John preached his disciples away from him, if to Jesus. Every minister of the Gospel should imitate John the Baptist.

It is one thing to have mud thrown on us; it is another to lie down and wallow in it. In this respect mud and sin are alike.

Afflictions are not a solid wall between the soul and its God; they are only a colored glass, which transmits a softened light.

It is better to suffer than to sin.

If we hinder God's work in our hearts we hinder it in the church.

When Christ fills us the first thing He does is to empty us of self.

Canon Willibrodus says.

"One day while walking in the Isle of Skye, I saw a magnificent specimen of the golden eagle, soaring upwards, I halted and watched its flight. Soon I observed by its movements that something was wrong. Presently it began to fall and soon lay dead at my feet. I eagerly examined it, and found no trace of gunshot wound; but found that it held in its talons a small vial, which, in its flight, was drawn near its body, and had sucked the life blood from the eagle's breast."
