Republicans and Populists, are in semi-conclave in Raleigh this week, the first part, engaged upon the uncertain task of coalition or co-operation.

The latest news from Washington says that signs are more hopeful for an agreement upon a better and more suitable tariff bill than that passed by the Senate.

If a tariff bill is agreed upon at all, and there is no doubt one will be agreed upon, we think it will be such that will afford the relief asked for by the people who elected the present Congress.

The Democratic convention last Saturday was a quiet and harmonious one. No instruction, no dictation, no wrangling, the delegates all go "fancy free" and untrammelled.

That they go thus free is no sign that they will not voice the sentiment of the county Democracy in the different conventions—we believe they will.

It is only a month hence till the county convention meets and we would like to see the Democrats turn out in mass to name the candidates to be voted for in November; and when the time comes, if the Democracy is in as good shape as it is now a very large Democratic majority will be polled.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent. WASHINGTON, D. C., July 27, 1894. The Democrats who place the interests of the party and the country above that of individuals, whether those individuals be U. S. Senators or private citizens, have been working manfully since the smoke of the Senatorial explosion, which for a time threatened to make tariff legislation impossible at this session of Congress, cleared away, to bring about a better state of feeling among Democrats who differ in their opinions as to the extent to which tariff reform ought to go at this time.

While it cannot be said that their work has yet been entirely successful, it has certainly had a good effect, and the belief is now general that the renewal of the tariff conference will result in an agreement that can be accepted by the Democrats of both the House and the Senate and by President Cleveland without loss of dignity or prestige on the part of either.

Now that the events of the past week can be calmly considered there seems to be reason for the opinion held by many able Democrats, that personal prejudice was allowed to enter into much of the talk that has been indulged in, and that some people have been far more intent upon "getting even" than upon the good of the country or the welfare of the Democratic party.

However, as the policy of the Democrats who are now trying to bring about harmonious action by the party in Congress is to let bygones be bygones the least said about recent party happenings the better. Too much, much too much, has already been said, both in Congress and in Democratic newspapers. The principle object of every Democrat should now be to "get together," pass the tariff bill and elect a majority of the next House.

For certain it is that if the first two things be not soon accomplished the third, already made difficult by party dissensions, will soon become an impossibility. Mr. Franklin MacVeagh, who enjoys the distinction of having been nominated by the Democrats of Illinois to the U. S. Senate, is in Washington. Mr. MacVeagh says the Republicans are making a great mistake concerning the attitude of the people towards tariff reform, and the people are at this time more anxious for radical tariff legislation than they were either in the campaigns of '90 or '92.

He states his own opinion thusly: "As between the Senate and House bills, my preference is for the latter, because I am a thorough believer in free raw materials. On this question I feel sure the popular verdict sustains the President and the House, and I think we will speedily get a tariff law along the lines of the Wilson bill. Yet I should not feel unhappy in the event that the other view prevails, because to enact a measure like the Senate bill is a great achievement for the Democracy. It is a complete reversal of thirty-years standing. It is like a short turning of an army to the west that has been marching due east. It is the beginning of a new and better order, and even if only a beginning is not to be condemned."

Senator Jarvis' Motion

Carries the Tariff Bill Back to the House—North Carolina Provisionals—Bill on Cleveland—Other Points of Interest.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—When the tariff bill was at its height Senator Jarvis moved that the bill be referred back to the conference without instructions. The motion was accepted by the Democratic caucus, and yesterday afternoon the Senate officially returned it to the House. The Secretary of the Senate, Gen. W. R. Cox, was so much interested in the outcome that he took the bill over in person.

There is much anxiety on the part of members to adjourn and go home to attend to their re-nominations and elections. I hear with great pleasure that Mr. Brewer was re-nominated. He is a hard working, affable and efficient Congressman with too much brains to have a swollen head.

Mr. Crawford, from the Asheville district, is another man who has stayed here and worked faithfully and efficiently. I hear with pleasure that he will be re-nominated. He deserves it on his record alone.

There is a great deal of gossip here about the fight between Ransom and Jarvis. It seems to me that the Democratic masses ought to settle this thing soon at the primaries, and be sure that the cast has one Senator and the west one. This theory of suggesting two from the east is an injustice as far as the Wilson bill is concerned.

Monday morning Senator Gorman came in from his country home in Maryland and found an invitation to call at the White House awaiting him. He promptly responded and when the Senate met, he made the most virulent and unjust attack on the President, presumably because Mr. Cleveland acted in accordance with his long record as a genuine tariff reformer.

Should the House adopt a resolution offered by Representative Talbot, of South Carolina, directing the Coinage committee to report a 16 to 1 free coinage bill, and the Banking and Currency committee to report one or all of the bills proposing a change in the monetary system of the country, a financial debate that might be indefinitely extended would at once begin in the House.

Intelligent people, who realize the important part the blood holds in keeping the body in a normal condition, find nothing strange in the number of diseases Hood's Sarsaparilla is able to cure. So many troubles result from impure blood, the best way to treat them is through the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla vitalizes the blood.

be so far as it applies to the bill in its present shape. The Democratic masses are against it. The Democratic press is against it. The Democratic House of Representatives is against it.

Mr. Hill then touched upon that part Mr. Gorman's speech, referring to the promises made in the last campaign, to protect the interests of the sugar planters of Louisiana and said that if that was a proper ground for arguing the adoption of the sugar schedule in the Senate bill it would make the people desire more than ever the provisions of the House bill placing sugar on the freelist.
