ATLANTA EXPOSITION

THE "CHICAGO OF THE SOUTH"

The Great Show Opens Sept. 18—Government Exhibit to Excel That at Chicago—Building and Exhibit of the Southern Railway.

The most important event of the current year to this country, and especially to the South, and still more especially to the city of Atlanta and the State of Georgia, is the Cotton States and International Exposition which is to be formally opened at Atlanta, Ga., on the 18 day of September, and closed on the 31st day of December.

That a Southern city of about 110,000 population should have the enterprise and public spirit, not to say the tenacity, to undertake, almost single handed, an enterprise so wide in its scope, so mammoth in its proportions and requiring such a vast outlay of money as to richly entitle it to the designation of "International," in the face of the universal commercial depression and financial panic, and that Atlanta, Ga., which was left but little more than a heap of ashes and smoldering ruins, with its population of 10,000 scattered and homeless by Sherman's army, when it took up its famous "March to the Sea," should be that city, it is not surprising that the first suggestions of such an enterprise were received with general misgiving that even the Southern States and cities counselled against it, and were slow to come to the assistance of a sister city in an undertaking which at such a time was regarded as hazardous in the extreme and too mammoth to promise even a measurable degree of accomplishment.

A visit to Piedmont Park, however, about two miles north of the center of Atlanta, will dispel every doubt of the realization of a degree of success surpassing the most sanguine expectations of the projectors of the Cotton States and International Exposition.

From the roof garden of the new and modern "Aragon Hotel," which occupies the highest hill in this hill city, a magnificent panoramic view of the city and its surroundings is afforded. All around you, spread over hills and villages, just sufficiently pruned to afford pleasing variety to the topography, is the compact, well built, hustling Chicago of the South, Gate City of the South, Atlanta, with its wealth of well-paved streets and avenues, laid out apparently regardless of rule or plan, which join the macadamized roads that lead through the picturesque suburbs to the rich farming lands beyond.

There is an appearance of solidity, grandeur and beauty in her public buildings, her hundred churches, her seminaries, colleges, numerous public school houses, her Henry Grady Hospital, her stores and private houses, suggestive of abundant material near by, and looking away to the east fourteen miles across the foothills, the famous Stone Mountain looms up, a solid mountain of granite, where immense quarries are operated now, but where, thirty one years ago, grim-visaged war held sway, and thousands were slain, and their blood trickled over the rugged, granite sides of Stone Mountain.

Opening Ceremonies

Of the International Exposition at Atlanta.

ATLANTA, GA., Sept. 18.—With the auspicious accompaniment of military pomp and civic dignity, leading an immense crowd of people, and honored by the presence of the dignitaries of the Church and the representatives of foreign countries, the Cotton States and International Exposition was formally opened to the world this afternoon.

The parade was a brilliant one, lacking the tedious excitement of a great miscellaneous throng. It was composed entirely of military bodies and bands of music, headed by the United States Fifth Infantry and the Washington Artillery by New Orleans, followed by several regiments of Georgia State troops.

The parade started promptly from the starting point at the center of the city and was about an hour in traversing the distance of three miles to the exposition grounds, reaching there about 3:30 o'clock.

The exercises at the auditorium were imposing and impressive. It was a gratifying surprise that the auditorium, though crowded, was comparatively cool and the acoustic properties were almost perfect, so that the speakers could be distinctly heard in all parts of the building.

The next speaker was Booker T. Washington, representative of the negro race who in a timely speech evoked greater applause than all the others put together. He seemed to have the ear of the audience and pleased both whites and blacks.

The exhibition is much near completion, but the public had supposed. From sensational reports sent out, the impression had been conveyed that things were in a chaotic state, but the actual progress revealed a series of displays nearer completeness than any ever shown by an exposition at its opening.

The exhibit of fine arts is also entirely completed. Every picture in its place and the building is in perfect order. There is a magnificent display of sculpture and the exhibit of oil paintings is pronounced a collection of masterpieces.
