GOOD FOR EVERYBODY

and everyone needs it at all times of the year. Malaria is always about, and the only preventive and relief is to keep the liver active. You must help the liver, a bit, and the best helper is the Old Friend, SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR, the RED Z.

Mr. C. H. Hiram, of Lancaster, Ohio, says: "SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR broke a case of Malarial Fever of three years' standing for me, and less than one bottle did the business. I shall use it when in need, and recommend it."

Be sure that you get it. Always look for the RED Z on the package. And don't forget the word REGULATOR. It is SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR, and there is only one, and every one who takes it is sure to be benefited. THE BENEFIT IS ALL IN THE REMEDY. Take it also for Biliousness and Sick Headache; both are caused by a sluggish liver.

The Best of Mediums.

You may talk about your posters and your ads upon the fence, but they ain't the kind of mediums that appeal to common sense. You may talk about your doggers and your circulars and such, but I calculate they don't assist an advertiser much; and especially in winter, when the snow is on the ground, I wonder where your posters and your doggers can be found? But within the cozy homestead, when the parlor stove's aglow, the newspaper is read aloud to every one we know. The farmer sees the painted sign upon his barn and grins; five dollars yearly for the space he usually wins. And there his interest in his ad begins and there it ends. And the same is true of nearly all his neighbors and his friends; but they read the local paper every day or every week, and in its welcome columns all their information seek, and you may be quite certain that the ads therein displayed are also read with interest and are sure to make some trade. It's a matter of reason, anyhow, that what a fellow buys. He's going to read and get his money's worth, if he be wise. The father, mother, uncle, aunt, the daughter and the son, are going to read the newspaper, and so is every one. So it all stands to reason that a local merchant's ad. Will there attract attention, be it either good or bad, and the newspaper as medium leads all other kinds with ease. For that is where the multitude the advertisement sees.

The State Hospital.

Dr. Winston writes to the Charlotte Observer a pleasant letter about the Morganton Asylum. Everywhere, he says, was the stupor of wise and skillful management. Grounds, buildings, wards, barns and gardens all told. Had I never seen an insane person or an insane asylum I would not have known that I was visiting a hospital for the treatment of the insane. Some of the patients were sitting in groups on the grounds, others were working with wheelbarrows, shovels, hoes or picks, while others were busy in the wards either at work or in self amusements. Not a shriek or cry was made during the morning of my visit; not an improper act or word marked any of the hundred patients that I saw. I did not go into the most violent wards, for I did not wish to. In the laundry were insane patients working by the side of sane employees, and scarcely distinguishable. Everywhere that work was going on the insane seemed to have an equal hand in it and an equal interest in it. They were treated as far as possible as if they were not insane, but sane. Employment, employment, employment, that is the great secret of health, both mental and physical. Maximum of employment, minimum of drugs, and pleasant environment is the wonderful wise rule of the State Hospital. I visited the parlor and sitting room in a female ward. They were as tasteful, refined and genteel as the best hotels. The patients were reading, sewing, knitting, playing the piano. The decorum was perfect. I saw a squad of patients coming from field labor, all clad in laboring clothes. They had something to live for, something to do, something to take an interest in, something to prevent introspection, that baleful basis of misery. It was a great pleasure to see applied in an asylum for the insane the great common sense principles that regulate humanity in its daily life: to see the insane treated, as far as possible, like the sane; their physical energies employed in physical labor; their thoughts diverted from unhappy channels by constant and even laborious occupations; their surroundings refined, comfortable, even beautiful. Knowing somewhat of the almost endless difficulties that beset an executive officer in charge of a large institution, and also somewhat of the exceedingly difficult problem of treating the insane, I was amazed to find united in one man such rare talents in both directions.

Original Observations.

Continual fretting is the oolomargarine of trouble. In selecting a wife be sure to select one that will wash. The fall crop of Republicans is reported to be unusually large. You cannot run down a person unless you follow at his heels. A wise answer turneth away wrath," but it takes a big stick to keep it turned away. Man receives more curses for what he does not accomplish than praises for what he actually does. There are hosts of people who never lead except in their own funeral procession. Referred to Democratic leaders. To hug a lamp-post or a fence, shows awful tight or want of sense; to hug a girl and give offense, shows want of tact or want of sense. There are a good many pious people who are as careful of their best service of china, only using it on holiday occasions for fear it should get chipped or flawed in working-day wear.—Orange (Va.) Observer.

THE BEST FAMILY MEDICINE

Do Not Ever Know. Words of Praise from a New York Lady for AYER'S PILLS

"I would like to add my testimony to that of others who have used Ayer's Pills, and to say that I have taken them for many years, and always derived the best results from their use. For stomach and liver troubles, and for the cure of headache caused by these derangements, Ayer's Pills cannot be equaled.

When my friends ask me what is the best remedy for disorders of the stomach, liver, or bowels, my invariable answer is, Ayer's Pills. Taken in season, they will break up a cold, prevent a gripe, check fever, and regulate the digestive organs. They are easy to take, and are, indeed, the best all-around family medicine I have ever known.
