WEEKLY WASHINGTON LETTER

From Our Regular Correspondent. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 6, '99. That Mr. McKinley is getting afraid of the Philippine question, and of imperialism generally, was shown by an announcement, practically official, made this week, that the administration had no further Philippine policy than to whip the Filipinos into submission and then turn the whole matter over to Congress.

The Boers of the Transvaal sent their ultimatum to the British government Tuesday and immediate and affirmative compliance demanded. In reply England flatly refused the demands and it was expected that war would begin by 3 o'clock yesterday.

Senator Marion Butler has been heard from once more. He talks to a Washington Post reporter about politics and says he has "but little faith" in the constitutional amendment to be voted on in this state next August.

Aginaldo sees no hope for himself and his followers under Republican rule and expresses the hope that this country may go Democratic next year, that he and his people may be given their independence.

When President McKinley presented Admiral Dewey with the sword voted by Congress, he, in a remark, sounded a note of the campaign of 1900. He said with some zeal: "There was no flaw in your victory; there will be no filtering in maintaining it."

There is an old adage which, translated from the Latin, runs thus: About tastes there should be no controversy. But concerning the matter of Dewey accepting a home as a gift there is some "controversy," when it is taken into consideration that he, a widower, gets $13,000 a year and will continue to receive this amount, perhaps, as long as he lives.

News from the Philippines shows that the Filipinos are by no means idle while this government is preparing to crush them. They have been attacking our troops at several points this week with great vigor, with the same old results.

Either Mr. McKinley must suppose that John Sherman has no friends left in Ohio or his enmity towards the old man has made him reckless of the consequences of putting a new indignity upon him, Sherman, was in Washington, but no provision was made for him to participate in the ceremonies attending the welcome to Dewey, and he was not invited to the State dinner given at the White House in honor of Dewey.

For the past seven years Supt. Fleming has been untiring in his efforts to improve the Public Schools in the county and we all realize that his labor has not been in vain. None can appreciate his efforts more than the teachers who have labored under his supervision.

Not alone, while in office, but since his resignation has he helped many a teacher to a position. The teacher of Alamance ever remember with pleasure, Mr. Fleming as County Supt. and their best wishes go with him in his work to save souls.

Under the title of "Christian Science and the Book of Mrs. Eddy," Mark Twain contributes to the October "Cosmopolitan" what is the most remarkable magazine article of the month, if not of the year. Twain discloses two phases of himself—the humorist and the keen, far-sighted philosopher.

At daybreak Tuesday a week Rufus Eller, aged 18 years, was found dead in the road near his home, about 16 miles from North Wilkesboro. There were no indications of foul play and the supposition is that the young man, who had been drinking heavily, was overcome on his way home and died of cold and exhaustion.

No Kissing for Dewey.

New York World, Sept. 20. Dewey declined to be Hobsonized yesterday. He was willing to kiss children and the women of his own immediate family, but he wouldn't let a strange woman kiss him right in full view of the thousands who besieged the Olympia.

It was early in the day, but the ship was swarming with visitors. Among them was a pretty girl, smartly dressed and fine of face and figure. She was among the few who made their way to the deck that is kept sacred for the admiral. She got close enough to shake his hand and say a few words of congratulation, and the admiral responded pleasantly, with the remark that he hoped that his guest would see the ship and enjoy herself.

Suddenly the girl drew her hand close to her and pursed up her lips. They were pretty lips and the face was winsome and sweet. Dewey looked nonplussed. First he started to help out the kiss, then he hesitated. There were a lot of people looking. Would he be another Hobson? Doubt and indecision chased themselves across the hero's face.

But Dewey recovered himself. "I am glad to have met you," said he, passing on to the next caller. "If he refused, what? If he gave in, what? But the ubiquitous Brumby, his flag officer, was equal to the occasion. He pushed the woman back. It was a gentle push. There was nothing rude about it, but the admiral's eyes saved. The red lips lost their would-be kiss and the face fell.

There are a number of cases of smallpox in Rowan and the commissioners of that county have appointed a committee empowered to make vaccination compulsory in any locality of the county they may deem necessary.

Major Singleton, of Beaufort county, was thrown from his buggy by a runaway horse last week and received injuries which resulted in his death.

One Minute Cough Cure quickly cures obstinate summer coughs and colds. "I consider it a most wonderful medicine—quick and safe."—W. M. Merton, Mayhew, Wis. Simmons, the druggist.

Julia Hobby, colored, died in Raleigh Sunday a week under suspicious circumstances. Her husband, Green Hobby, and her brother, Geo. Lee, were arrested charged with poisoning her. The husband was discharged and the coroner's jury rendered a verdict charging Geo. Lee with administering the poison which caused the woman's death. The evidence is circumstantial.

"It is an Ill Wind That Blows Nobody Good." That small ache or pain or weakness is the "ill wind" that directs your attention to the necessity of purifying your blood by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Then your whole body receives good, for the purified blood goes tingling to every organ. It is the great remedy for all ages and both sexes.

A Shocking Tragedy in Georgia.

Mr. W. R. Hayes, a merchant of Thomson, Ga., residing about one-half mile from town, was killed by his son, Willie, Sunday night a week about 9 o'clock. Mr. Hayes was drinking, and left his home soon after supper, coming in the direction of Thomson. About 9 o'clock at night one of his sons, returning home, heard a peculiar noise coming from the woods near the house. He called his brother, Willie, telling him to bring the gun with him, which he did. When they came near the woods they saw something on the ground, which they thought to be a dog or some wild animal, and Willie fired upon it with the gun. It proved to be their father, who cried, "Oh, Lord, you have killed me!" An inquest was held over the body Monday morning, and the jury returned the following verdict: "We, the jury, find that the deceased came to his death from a gunshot wound, the gun being in the hands of his son, Willie, and the evidence fails to disclose a crime."

Annie Belle Hornaday.

Dear Annie Belle, we give you up; Though not without a tear; We little knew, when last we met, The parting was so near. "Dearest Annie," she has left us, And the loss we deeply feel, We know 'twas God that hath bereft us, And we know our sorrows He will heal.

She faded like a gentle flower, Friends saw that she must die; Her youthful form returns to dust, But her home is in the sky. The Angels gave our schoolmate wings, And bore her far away; Where pain and sickness never come, Where pleasures ne'er decay.

Her earthly trials all are over, No more shall she suffer here; But, oh, how sad it is to part, With Annie Belle so dear! Her brothers and sisters we know will be sad, When they see the vacant chair— When they meet around the fireside, And Annie is not there.

But if you live for Christ alone, He will all your sorrows share; And some day he will call you home, And your sister will be there. Her father and mother, too, will weep, When they hear her voice no more; But God will restore the missing link, When they meet on the other shore.

The gentle smile of your daughter Has from your household flown; And you are left in sadness, For Annie Belle is gone. But when the last night's solemn shadows Settles down on you all and I, May the one that called her home, Call us above no more to say "good bye." HERMIE C. FOSTER. Oakdale, N. C.
