Is it to be wondered that so many boys and girls leave their country homes and go to the city as soon as they become old enough to break away from home ties?

Our bad roads prevent the women and our young people from driving out and mingling together as they should in order to develop the social side of rounded life. If the women who live in bands to take them calling, their calls would be few and far between. The long winter evenings should be the most pleasant time of the year upon

It has been wisely said "that the imaster and good roads are the two most essential features of civili-sation." We should instill in the minds of our young people that each of us has a duty to perform; that we owe a duty to ourselves and to each other in that we should always endeavor to de-

The Hog Pasture For a permanent pasture blue grass is first. Clover is excellent, although t has to be renewed every few years. A good pasture can be made by breaking up a winter feed lot after the stock has been turned on grass. It might b well to spread a coat of manure over it, and then a good seed bed should be prepared and six pounds of Dwarf Essex rape seed sowed on it, or you can sow rape and add some oats, clover and sorghum. A spiendid fall pasture can be he by sowing rye at the rate of two bushels per acre in August or September. Líke the spring pasture, let the rye grow about aix weeks before turnin, the bogs in J bars the hogs in. I have tried the above plans with success.-Frank G. Hughes in Northwestern Agriculturist.

Age to Breed Gilts. It is generally conceded among the most practical and successful breeders that to obtain the best results a gilt should not be bred until at least eight should not be bred until at least eight months old; says Farmers Advocate. Many of the most noted breeders will under no circumstances breed a gilt under fweive months where they in-tend keeping her for their own use. To any thinking man it is perfectly clear and reasonable that a half grown, undergived young any that was bred indeveloped young sow that was bred when a mere pig herself cannot pos-ibly raise a fair sized litter of thrifty. growing pigs as satisfactorily as large, matured sow.
