THE ALAMANCE GLEANER.

VOL. XXXIII.

cause the food to assimilate and nour-ish the body, give Keen appetite, and solid muscle. Elegantly sugar

C. A. HALL,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR-AT-LAW.

Office in the Bank of Alamance

Bulding. up stairs.

J. S. COOK

Attorney-at-Law,

GRAHAM, - - - - N. C.

GRAHAM, N. C.

SICK HEADACHE,

DEVELOP FLESH

Take No Substitute.

GRAHAM, N. C., THURSDAY, MAY 30, 1907.

The two men were sitting in a room

utt's Pills will save the dyspeptic from many whatever he wishes. They prevent Whatever he wishes. They prevent ing the thoughts of both of them. impossible of classification. It might "I tell you what seems to me t be Plan For Testing the Quality of Seed have been a study, smoking room or gun room. The walls were adorned the most extraordinary part of the Corn. with stags' heads and various trophles whole business," Duncombe said. of the chase. There were guns and ri-"First, the brother disappears. Then, fles in plenty in a rack by the chimneywithout a word to any one, the sister piece, a row of bookcases along the also rushes off to Paris and vanishes north wall, golf clubs, cricket bats and from the face of the earth after a sefoils everywhere. A pile of logs ready ries of extraordinary proceedings. One for burning stood in the open grate, supposes naturally that if they have and magnificent rugs were spread come to harm anywhere-if there has Author of "The Master Mummer," "A Prince of Sinners," "Mysterious Mr. about the floor. Nowhere was there been a crime-there must have been a the slightest trace of a woman's presmotive. What is it? You say that their ence, for Duncombe had no sisters, and banking account has been undishis was entirely a bachelor household. turbed? . Duncombe himself and Andrew Pel-"It was last week. I should hear in ham were seated in great easy chairs any checks were presented." The train de luxe to Calais is more in front of the open window. It was "And the boy's letter of credit even comfortable than a wet bench in the his first fine evening at home, and he has never been drawn upon!" was drinking in great drafts of the "No; not since he left Vienna." "Who has decided this?" Duncomb fresh, pure air, fragrant with the perasked. "What emperor has signed the "Then the motive cannot be robbery bed, sowing the seed early in August. fume of, roses and great clusters of Thank heaven," Duncombe added, with wallflowers. Paris had seemed to him a little shudder. "that it was the boy "There have been worse served emlike a great oven. All the time he had perors." the vicomte remarked, "than who went first." been half stifled, and yet he knew very "Don't!" the, shall we'say, person who bids you well that at a word from Spencer he A great winged insect came buzzing would have returned there at an hour's into the room. Duncombe struck vic-"What is my offense?" Duncombe notice. He knew, too, that the home

the one subject which was monopolizlously at it with the palm of his hand. which he had loved all his days could "Lord," he muttered, "what a fool I never be quite the same place to him am! I've never been away from home before, Andrew, without longing to get back, and here I am just back from Paris in August, from turning night into day, from living just the sort of life I hate, and I'd give anything to be going back there tomorrow. I'm a haunted man, Andrew. I got up last night simply because I couldn't sleep and walked down as far as the padlock. I seemed to see her face in all the shadowy corners, to see her moving toward me from among the trees And I'm not an imaginative person, Andrew, and I've got no nerves, Look!"

He held out his hand, strong and firm and brown. It was as steady as a rock. "I can't sleep," he continued.

can't rest. Is there witchcraft in this thing, Andrew?" Andrew Pelham laughed shortly. It was a laugh which had no kinship to mirth. "And I," he said, "have seen her grow up. We were boy and girl to-gether. I stole apples for her. I have watched her grow from girlhood into womanhood. I have known flesh and blood, and you a cardboard image. I. too, am a strong man, and I am helpless. I lie gwake at night and I think. It is as though the red flames of hell were curling up around me. George, if she has come to any evil, whether I am blind or whether I can see, I'll grope my way from country to country till my hand is upon the throat of the beast who has harmed has' The man's voice shook with Fission. Duncombe was awed into silence. He had known Andrew Pelham always as a good natured, good hearted glant, beloved of children and animals, deeply religious, a man whose temper, if he possessed such a thing, was always strictly under control. Such an outburst as this was a revelation. Duncombe understood then how slight a thing his own suffering was.

"You shall not go alone, Andrew," must wait. If any one can help us, ncer will

EXPERT METHODS.

that no one ever notices; at business, Professor Holden, the western corn expert, has been making the rounds of the New England farm and New York state meetings, as reported in American Cultivator. Besides describing his tiethod of selecting seed corn, the professor advances other ideas with regard to New England farm methods He advocates growing the cattle feeds on the farm and insists that eastern farmers will grow more dent corn and that alfalfa will soon be considerably grown here if farmers will thoroughly drain the soil to a sufficient depth to make the soll sweet, thoroughly pulverize it and make a firm, solid seed

Foes to the Corn Field. Professor Holden told of his own work among the farmers of the west by taking them right into their fields and by personal inspection showing them how they were farming at a sacrifice, in that their fields were pro ducing but a fractional part of what they might be producing if every hill were filled and every stalk were productive. He showed the difference in the acreage with one, two and three good ears to a hill and thereby led up to the conclusion that the great source of loss in corn production is the poor seed which so many farmers use, either through carelessness or false economy.

except in the very warmest weather, usually dark. No one ever notices clean linen, while linen solled ever so slightly is very conspicuous. No one ever notices a hat unless it is of ultra shape, dirty or shabby. No one ever notices shoes unless they are loud or need blacking or are run down at the heels or shabby. No one ever notices clean finger nalls, while those needing attention are always conspicuous. The man should not be lost sight of by the conspicuousness of his clothes, either from being overdressed or shabbily dressed.-Batten's Wedge.

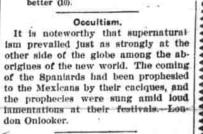

Man and His Dress.

The One and the Naught. Oliver Wendell Holmes once sent two poetical letters to the "postoffice" of an Episcopal fair at Pittsfield, Mass. In one of them the first stanza was:

And hush, oh, hush, thy beating heart. The one thou lovest will be there.

On turning the "poor leaf" there was found a dollar bill, with some verses

If this is not a truthful letter. This is the one (1) thou loveth well. And naught (6) can make thee love it better (10).

The Hot Wind From the Desert. "Khamsin" is the hot wind from the desert which blows out of the Sahara upon Egypt. The word means fifty, from the idea that it lasts for fifty days. 'The "khamsin" is terribly ho and dry, and sometimes brings pes filence with it.

Her "No." Tom-Bess said "No" to me last night, but I don't think she really could tell why she did it. Nell-Oh, yes, she could. She told me. Tom-Did she? Nell-Yes; she said she didn't think you'd take "No" for an answer.-Philadelphia Press.

Where T

Tuberenland

About the Only Place. A company of settlers in naming their new town called it Dictionary, because, as they sold, "that's the only place where peace, prosperity and hap-plness are flways found."

Fair lady, whoreever thou art, Turn this poor leaf with tenderest care beginning: Fair lady, lift thine eyes and tell

Testing the Corn.

soon determined, the bottom of the box being filled with moist sawdust, a layer of thin muslin placed thereon and all oacked down, the kernels then placed with another thin plece of muslin, with more sawdust on top, and again packed down. In due time examination shows the real germinating value of the samples from the different ears, and it is easy to decide which ears to use for seed and which to reject.

Favorable Conditions.

Thousand headed kale (Brassica oler plants are much taller, and the leaves

Coming down to the point in hand, he presented a plan for testing the quality of seed corn by determining its germinating power, showing those present the manner in which he was enabled to select the good ears and reject the bad by use of a germinating box, in which, in separate compartments, sample kernels from different ears, were placed and their germinating power in the different compartments, covered

A SOILING CROP.

Heavy Yields of Green Feed Under

acea) has been grown in the Willamette valley for twenty-seven years. It attracted little attention among Ore gon dairymen until recent years, but is now rapidly becoming a very popular fall and winter solling crop. It stands the mild winters west of the Cascade mountains admirably and is hauled from the field and fed as needed. It does not head up like cabbage, and the name "thousand headed" is given it on account of the numerous branches the he said softly, "but for the present we plants have when given plenty of room. It is very much like rape, but the delightful bit of sentiment, George, but with nothing behind it it can't last." "Perhaps not," Duncombe answered "All that I know is that it has shown no signs of wearing off up to now. It was in Paris exactly as it is And I know very well that if I thought it would do her the least bit of good I would start back to Paris or to the end of the world tonight." "I must readjust my views of you George," his friend said, with mild satire. "I always looked upon you as fair game for the Norfolk dowagers with their broods of daughters, but I never contemplated your fixing your affections upon a little piece of pasteboard."

"Rot! It is the girl herself," Dun combe declared.

Duncombe shrugged his shoulders. He said nothing. What was the use?

Poynton anything of an artist?"

ering twilight.

at all?"

mured.

brush or pencil since she left school."

Duncombe looked out into the gath-

"It is a devil's riddle, this!" he said

slowly. "Why did she go to that place

"God only knows!" Andrew mur

Duncombe's teeth were hard set. A paper knife which he had caught up from the table snapped in his fingers.

There was something in his threat

"Phyllis Poynton," Andrew contin-

ned. "was as sweet and pure a woman

as ever breathed. She must have loathed that place. She could only

"For those who knew where he was."

"Let me look at her photograph

Andrew drew it from his pocket and passed it over. Duncombe studied it for several moments under the lamp-slowly. "For her the other things would not be possible. I wonder"-

His fingers clung to the photograph

He looked across at his friend. There was a slight flush in his face. He spok another. Duncombe spoke first.

"If she comes back, shall you ever

"Andrew!"

"Well,"

"You are right, Andrew," he said

Duncombe turned his head,

have gone there to seek for her brother

which nearly choked him.

"Or for whom?"

"Yes, old chap!"

"Andrew?"

sgain."

light

ornee Patterson Building showed their interest in him. The sus-Second Floor. . . . . manager called him on the fourth WALTER E. WALKER, M.D. morning into his private office. GRAHAM, N. C. he said, "if I take the liberty of asking Office over Bank of Alamance Up Stairs. Office hours 8 to 10 A. M. PHONE 80-b (and 197-a).

DR. WILL S. LONG, JR.

... DENTIST ...

George," he said, "and we make no Graham - - - North Carolina pretense at ultra exclusiveness, but we do not care to see the police on the OFFICE IN SUMMONS BUILDING premises." "Can you suggest how we may get rid IOHN GRATTINUM. W. P. BYNUM, JR. of them?" BINUM & BYNUM, Attorneys and Counselors at Law U.A.ENSBORO, N U. Practice regularly in the courts of stance county. Aug. 2, 94 1v

JACOB A. LONG. J. ELMER LONG.

LONG & LONG, Attomeys and Counselors at Law GRAHAM, N. 7.

stay. ROB'T C. STRUDWICK Attorney-at-Law, GREENSBORO N. C. Practices in the courts of Ala mance and Guilford counties.

you here?" "Yes."

said. "I believe that you are giving me what you think to be good advice. "Monsieur does not quite under-Whether I can follow it or not is a difstand," the manager said smoothly. "Clearly he has done something to bring him under the suspicion of the Under these circumstances it would be more agreeable to the manngement of the hotel if monsieur would depart." Duncombe did not wish to depart. The hotel at which Phyllis Poynton's trunks were still awaiting her return was the hotel at which he wished to "Look here, M. Huber," he said. "I give you my word of honor that I have broken no law or engaged in any criminal action whatever since I came to Paris. This game of having me watched is simply a piece of bluff. I have done nothing except make inquiries in different quarters respecting those two

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM,

Sabin," "Anna the Adventuress," Etc.

Copyright, 1905, 1906, by LITTLE, BROWN, and COMPANY.

go."

asked.

wonder.

some absinth.

lowed to execute it?"

morgue or a French prison."

"I know nothing," the vicomte an-

"Who are my judges, then? What secret authorities have I incensed? I am an honest man, engaged in an honest mission. Why should I not be al-

The vicomte half closed his eyes.

Duncombe was a little angry. The vi-

"You ask me so many questions," he murmured, "and I tell you that I know nothing. I have asked you to come here with me because I had just this to say. I can answer no questions, offer no explanations. I have no particular liking for you, but I am afflicted with a cursedly sensitive disposition, and-there are things which I find it hard to watch with equanimity. There is a train for England at 9 o'clock this

"I am very much obliged to you," he evening, Sir George. Take it."

Duncombe rose from his seat.

comte regarded him with reproachful

again.

swered slowly, pouring himself out

decree of my banishment?"

CHAPTER XII.

uninteresting. On the fourth the only change in the situation was scarcely a reassuring one. He became aware that There was no particular secrecy about it. Even in the hotel itself some one was always on his heels. The absence of any attempt at concealment

convinced him that it was the authorized police who had thus suddenly picion was soon to be confirmed. The

"Monsieur will pardon me, I trust,"

"Certainly!" Duncombe answered.

"Monsieur is aware that he has been placed under the surveillance of the

"The fact," Duncombe said, "has

"This is a cosmopolitan hotel, Sir

"Neither do I," Duncombe answered.

been borne in upon me during the last few hours. What of it?"

The manager coughed,

he was being watched.

him a question."

"Go ahead!"

police?"

law.

desk.

me five minutes?"

have something."

dering for you?"

"To leave the hotel ?"

moment."

OR three days Duncombe saw nothing of Second nothing of Spencer, Three long days devoid of incident, hopelessly dull, nimless and

Andrew roused himself from rather a prolonged silence. "You were a brick to go, George," he said. "It is more than any one else in the world would have done for me." Duncombe laughed a little uneasily. He knocked the ashes from his pipe and refilled it slowly. "Andrew," he said, "I don't want to seem a fraud. I daresay that I might have gone for you alone, but I didn't."

His friend smiled faintly. "Ahl" he remarked, "I had forgotten your little infatuation. It hasn't worn off yet, then?"

"No, nor any signs of it," Duncombe answered bluntly. "It's an odd position for a matter of fact person like myself, isn't it? I tell you, Andrew, I've really tried to care for some of the girls about here. The place wants a mistress, and I'm the tenth baronet in the direct line. One's got to think about these things, you know. I've tried hard, and I've never even come near it." "It will wear off," Andrew said. "It is a very charming little fancy, a most

"But you have never seen her."

Never seen her! Had she not found

When the The well dressed man wears clothes Hair Falls

NO. 15

Then it's time to act! No time to study, to read, to experiment! You want to save your hair, and save it quickly, too! So make up your mind this very minute that if your hair ever comes out you will use Ayer's Hair Vigor. It makes the scalp healthy. The hair stays in. It cannot do anything else. It's nature's way. The best kind of a testimonial-"Sold for over sixty years." by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Ma

yer's SARSAPARILLA.

******************

This time of the year are signals of warning, Take Taraxacum Compound now. It may ave you a spell of fever. It will regulate your bowels, set your liver right, and cure your indigestion.

A good Tonic. An honest medicine araxacum MEBANE,

Need a North Carolina Farm Paper.

One adapted to North Carolina climate, soils and conditions, made by Tar Heels and for Tar Heels -- and at the same time as wide awake as any in Kentucky or Kamchatka. Such a paper in

The Progressive Farmer RALEIGH, N. C.

Edited by CLARENCE H. POE, with Dr. W. C. Burkett, ector B. A. & M. College, and Director B. W. Kilgore, of the Agricutlural Experiment Station (you know them), as assistant editors ($1 a year). If you are already taking the paper, we can make no reduction, but if you are not taking it YOU CAN SAVE SOC By sending your order to us That is to say, new Progressive Farmer subscribers we will send that paper with THE GLEANER, both one year for $1.50, regular price $2.00. Addrsesa THE GLEANER.

Graham, N. C.

Graham Underwriters Agency

SCOTT & ALBRICHT. Craham, N. C

-Office of-SCOTT-MEBANE M'F'G CO. OVERALLS. GRAHAM, N. C., Apr. 12, 1907. GIAS. A. SCOTT, Agent Southern Live Stock Ins. Co. Grabam, N. C. BRARHIE:

The favor of the lith, enclosing check No. For favor of the lith, enclosing check No. If the tim, the same being in full payment of our tim, the same being in full payment four time, the same being in full payment is an analytic the same being who do on the shift of the Sah Inst. We fill on the shift of the Sah Inst. We fill on the shift of the Sah Inst. If while the thank you for the prempiness and will my, it passing, that a company of his discreter has bound be much premium and on one should be without insurance we that It a should be without insurance footsteps in the daytime." are being watched?"

Tours very stuly were co.

Carrespondence Solicited.

"Yes. I was on my way to the Rits to secure rooms when I met you." The vicomte sipped his absinth OFFCE AT THE BANK OF ALAMANCE * gravely. "I should not take those rooms," he said. "You will in all probability not New Type, Presses, occupy them." and the Know How. are producing the best results in Job Work at

THE GLEANER OFFICE *****************

tracks of those young people." The manager looked down at his "We hotel keepers," he said, "are very much in the hands of the police. We cannot judge between them and the people whom they treat as suspected persons. I know very well, Sir George, that you are a person of respectability and character, but if the police choose to think otherwise I must adapt my views to theirs. I am sorry, but we must really ask you to leave." Sir George turned on his heel. "Very good," he said. "I will go and take rooms elsewhere."

He left the botel and walked toward the Ritz. At the corner of the Place Vendome an automobile was pulled up with a jerk within a few feet of him. A tired looking boy leaned over wearlly toward him from the front seat. "Sir George," he said, "can you give low, became a whisper.

"With pleasure," he answered, "I was going into the Ritz. Come and to be improved than made worse by

"To Maxim's, if you don't mind," the vicomte sai/l. "It will take us only a body any good here, and you risk-

Sir George stepped in. The vicomte go, then!" in whose fingers the wheel seemed scarcely to rest, so light and apparently careless was his touch, touched a entered. Duncombe strolled back to ner at a speed which made Duncombe clutch the sides. At a pace which ing for him.

dashed into the Rue de Rivoli and Spencer. We can talk there." with another sharp turn pulled up before Maxim's. The vicomte rose with a yawn as though he had just awoke from a refreshing dream. His servant slipped off his fur coat, and he descended to the pavement faultlessly dressed and quite unruffied. The commissionaire preceded them, hat in hand, noom he locked the door. to the door. A couple of waiters ushered them to the table which the 4 o'clock. You must catch it-if you

"I myself," he remarked, drawing off his gloves, "take nothing but absinth. What may I have the pleasure of or-Duncombe ordered a whisky and "I think," he said, "there is one thing which I ought to tell you at once. I am being shadowed by the police. The man who has just arrived and who seems a little breathless is, I believe the person whose duty it is to dog my Pack your clothes, man, or ring for the

"What a pity!" the vicomte murmured. "I would at least have taken Dunco

you a mile or so round the boulevards "Are you serious, Spencer?" he asked. if I had known. But wait! You are "that unless you obey me I will not like to feel it in my pocket, and it will move another finger in this matter. be the first thing I shall look at when sure-that it is the police by whom you "Quite," Duncombe answered. "The manager of the hotel has spoken to me about it. He has asked me, in fact, to lose your life or at any rate your liberty if you stay." Duncombe bowed his head to fate.

"Yery well," he said, "I will go?"

POU have heard now." Dun-

"It has been decided," the vicents said, "that you are to be driven out of Paris. In the end you will have to go. I think if I were you I would not walt.

life had knowledge of?

was always fascinating, always delightful to watch." Duncombe looked out upon the gardens which he loved and sighed. "If only Spencer would send for me to go back to Paris," he said, with a sigh. Andrew turned his head. "You can imagine now," he said, "what I have been suffering. The desire for action sometimes is almost

"You Englishmen," to said. "are so obstinate ' the man whom Duncombe had pointed out to him. He had edged nearer and nearer till he was almost within earshot. 'The vicomte's voice, always

"I can tell you this much, at any rate," he said. "Whatever their present condition may be it is more likely your departure. You are a well meaning person, monsleur, but you do no-more than I dare tell you. If you must The vicomte turned away to greet a little party of friends who had just lever by his side, released the clutch the hotel and found Spencer walking and swung the great car round the correstlessly up and down the hall wait-

"At last!" he exclaimed, with a sigh seemed to him most ridiculous they of relief. "Come up into my room, He rang for the lift, and as they as cended he watched the other anxiously. Spencer was looking pale and disturbed. His eyes showed signs of sleeplessness, and he had not the air of a man who has good news to impart. As soon as they were inside the

"Duncombe," he said, "there is a train which leaves Paris for London at vicomte intimated by a gesture. are allowed to. Don't look like that, man. I tell you you've got to do it. If you are in Paris tonight you will be > in prison. "For what offense?" Duncombe ask-

"For the murder of Mile, Flousie. They are training the witnesses now. The whole thing is as easy as A B C. They can prove you so guilty that not even your best friend would doubt it.

valet." nbe hesitated, but he, too, was lend it to me?" "I am so serious," Spencer answered,

You lose nothing by going. All that a the doctor lets me take off these beast-human being can do I will do. But you ly ginssen-if ever he does. Until then combe said finally, "the whole history of my wanderings. I ask her to marry you?" feet like a man who has been "I don't know, Geory beating the air, who has been at war and I'm twelve years older than she har way into every beautiful place his A servant came in with the whisky and glasses and silently arranged them "If you had." Andrew murmured upon the table. Duncombe rose and "Ab, well, the picture is like her! I attended to his duties as host. remember when she was a child. She

CFAPTER XIII.

"Can I get you anything further, sir?" the man asked.

"Nothing, thanks," Duncombe an-"Tell the servants to go to swered. bed. We will lock up. Say when, Andrew."

Andrew took his glass mechanically. Out in the lane the silence of the sum-mer night was suddenly broken by the regular tread of horses' feet and the rumbling of vehicles. Duncombe Hall was built like many of the old fashloned houses in the country, with its They were silent for some time, back to the road, and the window at smoking steadily. Then Duncombe rewhich they were sitting looked out verted once more to his wanderings. upon it. Duncombe leaned forward in "You remember the story they told his chair.

me at the cafe, Andrew," he said. "It "Visitors by the last train going up was a lie, of course, but was Miss to Runton Place," he remarked. "Runton has quite a large party for the "To the best of my belief," Andrew first. Hello! They're stopping. I'd answered, "she has never touched a better go out."

He rose from his chair. The omnibus had stopped in the lane, and they

6 ter la m a) Ditt

"Hello ! They're stopping. I'd better ge nervously. "Andrew," he said, "I'm afraid i sounds a bit brutal, but-this photo ould hear the voices of the occupants graph is no use to you just now, is it, until your eyes get better. Will you clearly through the soft darkness Some one was apparently getting out and stumbled. A girl's soft laugh rang "I couldn't," Andrew answered quietout distinctly above the man's exly. "I can't see it now, of course, but I clamation. Duncombe was already stepping over the window sill, when he feit a clutch like iron upon his shoul-der. He looked round in amazement. the doctor lets me take off these beast-Andrew's face was transformed. He -well, I like to feel I've got it. That's was struggling for words.

"Her voice!" he excisized hoursely. They both smoked foriously for sev-"Am I dreaming, George? It was her eral moments without looking at one voice!"

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

"I don't know, George. I'm poor, The most easily digested meats are are longer and broader. It is claimed that kale will yield thirty to forty tons of green feed per nere when grown under favorable conditions.

Kale is used for table greens, but its chief use on the Pacific coast is for feeding green to dairy cows from October to April, for which it is highly

IN A FIELD OF NALE. prized. If the growth is forced in th early spring, it can be fed much earlier than Oct. 1. Kale would probably be an excellent winter feed also for hogs and poultry. It does best on well manured, deep, rich loams and sandy soils. The only objection to the use of kale is the difficulty of getting it out of the field when the ground is wet and muddy. For this reason well drained land should be selected upon which to plant this crop.

Where the weather is quite cold kale got well of it. What has that got to do with a portico?" is not sufficiently hardy to stand out during the winter, and its use as a solling crop would be limited to the Proper Time to Plow Land. The proper time to plow land is when it is just moist enough to break up mellow, neither wet enough to leave slick surface where rubbed by the oldboard nor dry enough to break up in large clods, or, as the southern farmer puts it, when the soil has a good season in it. If continued rain follows wet plowing. little harm follows, but hot, dry winds would soon leave only a mans of unmanageable clods. In spring and midsummer plowing particularly it is of the utmost im portance to run the harrow immediate-

Cost of Concrete Posts.

It is claimed by one investigator that concrete posts can be made for 14 cents each. It is explained, how ever, that this low cost would be possible only when large numbers of posts are ma

Gagged the Rabbit.

Gagged the Rabbit. A sportsman on the Huntsham es-tate, North Devon, had a rabbit brought to him by his spaniel, which had caught it under a bedge. The rab-bit could walk only very feebly, though all its limbs were found to be sound. In its mouth, however, was a thick twig about three inches long, which had become wedged in behind the teeth in the rabbit's rush from some threatened denour, - The animal some threatened danger. - The animal was unable to extract the twig with its paws and was being gr starred to death when it was fo the dog .....London Standard.

the snows and winds of winter sift. It is among the herda whose winter quarters are basement dungeons, where little air and less sunlitht find untrance, and those that are warmly housed and highly fed on rations calcu lated to force the secretion of milk to the utinost limit that the severe losses occur. It is particularly a dis case of pampered animals. The highly bred animal is not essentially more susceptible; the fault is with the man who should be "ahead of the cow" instead of "behind her." There are extremes of the inhuman stables of the Ignorant and the unnatural conditions naintained by the "scientific breeder."

wide, well watered plaures and ar

The latter class will be the first to

The former will need a deal of educa-

An Architectural Eruption.

who had come suddenly into the pos session of a large fortune was consulting with his architect relative to the building of a costly mansion. The gen-eral plan had been decided upon, but the details had not been considered.

"You will want a portico, of course?"

"That would be a good place for you

"Why," said the other, somewhat pumled, "I-er-had that when I was a boy. It broke out all over me, but 1

A worthy but rather illiterate man

sanitation.-Farming.

said the architect.

to have caryatids."

"Any particular design?"

"Well, something oriental."

"Oh, yes,"

need in harns through whene crack

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every ene hundred people who have beart trouble can remember when it was simple indigesone hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indiges-tion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indi-gestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion formeants and eveils the stomach, putting it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased. Mr. D. Kushe, of Neveda, O. syst. Ind stomach toothe of each is the statistic in the other that the too is a state as I had hear too the the state of the state is a fast hear too is an it is on the. Kodol Digests What You Eat realize their mistake and rectify it.

Kodol Digests What You Eat and relieves the stomach of all nervous tion and demonstration in the line of strain and the heart of all press

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 216 times the trial size, which sells for 50c. pared by R. C. DaWITT & CO., OH

J. C. Simmons, Druggist. . sia Cure at you eat.

ertains all of the you to est all fails to Thomast sensitive the food you tra. stomachs can take it. By its use many obtain U. S. and For

TRADE-MARKS

WASHINGTON D.C.

Write Quick Bu Bar

AA-ALA BUZINESS COLLEGE, MACH

thransands of despepting have been intervention of the storage of the storage of the unargualted for the storage. Child-ren with weak storages thrive on it. First describeres. A distuncessary. Of all great cities of the world Palmyra had the shortest period of life. Its prosperity extended only from 117 A. D. to 273 A. D.

DV

This

Dig

food. It

Wet

fields Per Acces

gro is by pi oy lay at the of pe r bes. T -

To better advertise the Ber Beatness College, just a few a Gered in such section at less ( DON'T DELAT. WRITE TO y after the plow. This prevents the formation of clods.-W. J. Spillman.