FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE
Relieves Stomach and Bladder Slight

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, May 2, 1908.

Senator Culberson, Democratic leader of the Senate, is making an earnest effort in the closing hours of the session to secure action by the Republican majority on some measure which he regards as of vital importance to the welfare of the people and, if he can secure the hearty cooperation of his party colleagues, the next weeks of Congress may witness filibusters at both ends of the Capitol with, possibly a postponement of the final date of adjournment. The four measures on which the Senator from Texas will take his stand, provided always he finds he can rely on the cooperation of his colleagues, are the Overman anti-injunction bill, which has already passed the Senate, the Fulton bill, which is a Republican measure, and which provides that the Interstate Commerce Commission shall pass on the reasonableness of all proposed increases of railway freight rates; the campaign publicity bill, and the Culberson bill which provides that railways must furnish a sufficient number of cars to supply the needs of shippers. Unfortunately there is some question as to how far Mr. Culberson's colleagues will stand by him in the proposed programme. Many of them are anxious to get away from Washington and two, at least, have indicated that they will do nothing which would materially prolong the session.

In the House, John Sharpe Williams, the Democratic leader, is putting the Republicans in a worse hole than ever and there is reason to believe that as a result of his tactics some of them will find there re-election a most difficult proposition. Recently the Democratic leader caused to be brought into the House a small table, provided with pens and ink, and placed it before the Speaker's desk. On the table he placed the petition signed by all the Democratic members praying the Speaker to permit the bill removing the duty on wood pulp to come to a vote. Mr. Williams, in an eloquent speech, besought the Republicans, at least thirty of them, to sign the petition so that the Speaker would be compelled at least to submit the question to a caucus of the House. He reminded them that this legislation had been recommended by President Roosevelt in the most earnest terms, that it was approved of by their prospective presidential candidate, Secretary Taft, and that it had the unanimous support of newspaper publishers in all parts of the country. But the Republicans greeted his eloquence with laughter and jeers and refused to add one signature to the petition.

A peculiar drama is being enacted by Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon with regard to the financial legislation recommended by the President. The House has indicated its great unwillingness to pass the Aldrich bill, but Mr. Cannon has promised that it shall, and he is carefully making his preparations to coerce the majority into doing his bidding. He has caused the Public Building bill, popularly known as the "Pork Bar," to be held up and he will not permit its final passage until the majority votes as he tells them to on the financial bill. The Public Building bill contains provision for postoffices; custom houses and similar buildings which will reach an aggregate cost of $20,000,000. The passage of this bill is of vital importance to some members and its failure would probably defeat certain members when they stand for reelection. They dare not do anything to defeat the measure and consequently it seems probable that Mr. Cannon will be able to drive them ultimately into accepting the Aldrich bill, whether they like it or not. Of course Mr. Cannon has the advantage of standing with the President on the Aldrich bill, for Mr. Roosevelt realizes that it is the only financial measure which can be passed and he thinks it would be criminal to risk another financial stringency with no provision for an emergency currency.

In the opinion of some prominent Democrats the Bryan boom has received something of a setback recently and they are anxiously awaiting the developments of the next few weeks. Frederick B. Lynch, treasurer of the Minnesota Democratic committee, and head of the Johnson boom in Chicago, has been in Washington this week working like a Trojan for his hero. Mr. Lynch has held a number of conference with Southern and Eastern Democrats and he declares that "all of the New England states, New York, Pennsylvania and all of the coast and gulf states with the exception of Alabama, Mississippi and Texas, will send unopposed delegates to Denver. Included in his list will be Michigan, Ohio and the West coast states." Mr. Lynch, replying to a question, said, "I am confident that considerably less than half of the delegates will be instructed for Mr. Bryan and while I am not claiming that all who are unopposed will be for Governor Johnson, I am confident that he will have a majority of the unopposed delegates." Mr. Lynch said he believed there would be nearly 500 delegates against Bryan on the first ballot.

President Roosevelt is trying hard to figure that he won a victory on the battleship vote in the Senate, when his recommendation of four battleships was turned down but the leaders did not commit themselves to a programme of two new battleships a year. The fact is that Senator Beveridge made such a foolish, jingo speech in favor of the four battleships amendment that some Senators voted against it who would like to do otherwise. They felt that after the Beveridge speech a vote for four ships would be taken by foreign nations, and especially by Japan, as an endorsement of Beveridge's absurd and frothy declamation.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.
There is probably no medicine made that is relied upon with more implicit confidence than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. During the third of a century in which it has been in use people have learned that it is the one remedy that never fails. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. For sale by Graham Drug Co.

An Asset.
The financial prospects of Washington Lafayette Johnson were decidedly clouded, but he still preserved a sanguine spirit, which his friends did not always appreciate.
"I'd like to borrow jes' a little money ob you," said Mr. Johnson confidentially to a friend. "I—I wouldn't ax you for it, but I ain't got a single cent left in do war!"
"What sec'ity can you gib me?" asked his friend without any enthusiasm.
"Why, I gib you my note on hand" and Mr. Johnson looked pained and amazed at such a question. "I reckon you don't know what a good, clear hand-writing I got in de ebening school."—Youth's Companion.

Relief for Rheumatic Pains.
"I suffered with rheumatism for over two years," says Mr. Roland Curry, a patrolman, of Key West, Fla. "Some times it settled in my knees and lamed me so I could hardly walk, or at other times it would be in my feet and hand so I was incapacitated for duty. One night when I was in severe pain and lame from it my wife went to the drug store and came back with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I was rubbed with it and found the pain had nearly gone during the night. I kept on using it for a little more than two weeks and found that it drove the rheumatism away. I have not had any trouble from that disease for over three months." For sale by Graham Drug Co.

Tomb of the Builder of Babel's Tower.
In the year 533 A. D., while women were engaged in trenching the salt mines in Prussia, they unearthed a triangular building in which was a column of white marble. At the side of the column was a tomb of freestone and over it a slab of agate inscribed with these words: "Here rest the ashes of Peleg, grand architect of the tower of Babel. The Almighty had pity on him because he became humble."

His Neighbors Endorse Him.
(Charlotte Observer, Mar. 29, 1908.)
To the Editor of The Observer.

This office was created for the benefit of the agricultural interests of the State, and the man that fills the position of Commissioner should be a practical farmer. It is a fact that, while the great majority of our people are engaged in cultivating the soil, intelligent and successful farming is seldom seen. Our soil, climate and natural advantages make it possible for our State to rank with any of her sisters in the production of the great staple products of this country, but for some cause we are not making the progress we should. We should employ every means available to arouse our people in behalf of this vital interest.

The Commissioner of Agriculture can do a great deal in this behalf, and should himself be a practical farmer.
Mr. R. W. Scott, of Alamance county, is a practical farmer. He was reared on a farm and when he grew up to manhood he began on a farm that had run down and had, in many places, washed into gullies. Now it is a large fertile tract of land, with an elegant residence, large barns, modern and well arranged. The farm is well stocked with improved horses, cattle, sheep, etc. This has all been done on this farm by the energy of this man without funds obtained from any other source.

He has a large and interesting family of children and he is educating them in the schools and training them on the farm.

Mr. Scott takes great interest in the public welfare. He is now a member of the Board of Agriculture which position he has held for several years and which he has filled most acceptably. The Agricultural Building at the A. & M. College is a monument to the success of his efforts in the Legislature, where he has represented his county in both branches. He has been a zealous advocate of education in his community and in the State, has stood for advancement in all industrial pursuits, is a man, of irreproachable moral character and deserves recognition by the people of the State.

Good Words For Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

People everywhere takes pleasure in testifying to the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. Edward Phillips of Barclay, Md., writes: "I wish to tell you I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My little girl, Catherine, who is two years old, has been taking this remedy whenever she has had a cold since she was two months old. About a month ago I contracted a dreadful cold myself; but I took Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was soon as well as ever." This remedy is for sale by Graham Drug Co.

Roosevelt Names Five Great Men.

Washington Dispatch to New York American.

Who are the five greatest men in the United States not in public life? According to President Roosevelt they are Grover Cleveland, Andrew Carnegie, John Mitchell, William J. Bryan, and James J. Hill. The President has invited these five to attend the big conference at the White House during the week of May 14 to discuss conservation of the natural resources of the country. Every governor of a State, cabinet officers, members of the United States Supreme Court and members of the Inland Waterways Commission are to attend officially, but these five men are singled out from the whole United States as five individuals to be invited. They are all Democrats.

Jim Smith Not Guilty—Sentenced for Distilling.

Greensboro Dispatch, 18th.
After deliberating for 24 hours the United States Court jury this afternoon returned a verdict of not guilty in the case charging Jim Smith with conspiracy in the murder of Revenue Officer Hendricks, in the Smithtown section of Stokes county, on December 20th, 1907. Previously Smith had pled guilty to the charge of illicit distilling, and for this offense Judge Boyd sentenced the prisoner to serve four years in the Federal prison in Atlanta.

Seven other persons were sentenced at the same time for violating the revenue laws, five being sent to the penitentiary. Of this number three were from the Smithtown settlement. Oscar Smith, whose wife testified that she saw Smith shoot Hendricks, was given three years for illicit distilling.

First Illustrated Postage Stamps.

Philadelphia Record.
It is not generally known that the idea of printing illustrated postage stamps originated in this city. The distinction of having suggested the illustrated stamps is claimed by James C. McCurdy, a mailing clerk of 911 West Susquehanna avenue. Mr. McCurdy outlined his ideas to the post office department as early as 1887. A few years later the Columbian series of illustrated stamps was issued and found such favor that many other series have followed to commemorate important national events. The originator of the idea treasures a letter from President Cleveland's private secretary, who acknowledge the receipt of a copy of the original designs for illustrated postage stamps and informed the designer that his suggestions had been referred to the postmaster general, who later acted on them.

Was Wasting Away.
"I had been troubled with kidney disease for the past five years," writes Robert R. Watts, of Salem, Mo. "I lost flesh and never felt well and doctored with leading physicians and tried all remedies suggested without relief. Finally I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and less than two bottles completely cured me and I am now sound and well." During the summer kidney irregularities are often caused by excessive drinking or being overheated. Attend to the kidneys at once by using Foley's Kidney Cure. Graham Drug Co.

The Best Man.
During the old days of Sweden there were several best men, and the term was applied in its full literal sense. The duty of the best men in those times was to defend the groom and his prospective bride from a rival, who, accompanied by several retainers, was sure to appear while the wedding procession was on its way to church and make a stubborn fight for possession of the woman. The Scandinavian warrior considered it beneath his dignity to court a maiden's favor by gallantry and submission and, therefore, generally preferred to wait until she was on her way to be married to another man, when the attempt was made to carry her off by the best man—if it was then that the best men—if they were the best men—came into good play; hence the custom is still preserved in "best" men of today.

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, putting it up against the heart. This interference with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.
