Tobacco Trust Pockets Tax.

Legislative Favor Granted Under Eyes of James S. Sherman and "Uncle Joe" Cannon Has Netted Millions.

Washington, Nov. 2.—The sub ects of King Nicotine, who still pay Spanish war prices, although congress in 1902 repealed the special war tax of 6 cents a pound on tobacco, have to thank the Republican leaders in the house of representatives who permitted the supposed slip in legislation which has put thousands of dollars mainly into the tobacco trust's pocket. The inde pendent manufacturers, of course may profit by the same device, but their proportion of sales is insignifi-

This is the

Before the war stamps were issued by the government for 2, 4, 8 and 16 ounce of smoking tobacco, selling for 5 or 10 cents, according to quality, This is to be honored by succeeding and the 5 and 10 cents cuts of plug tobacco were the largest sellers. For the 2 ounce package the war revenue legislation provided a reduction in weight to 12 ounces, the 4 ounce package was reduced to 31, the 8 ounce to 6% and the 16 ounce to a 13 ounce package, with revenue stamps provided to suit. This ostensibly made up the extra revenue tax and additional cost of packing in smaller lots. The cuts of plug tobacco were reduced proportionately.

> But when the war tax was repealed the tobacco trust, through its friendly legislation, got the revenue stamps left just as they were, instead of returning to the 2, 4, 8 and 16 ounce stamps and the former full sized packages. Thereby the trust has been enabled since April 12, 1908, the day President President Roosevelt signed the repeal bill, to get just as much as it did for its tobacco during the war, while it pockets the war tax plus the increase which it tacked on when it advanced the price because of the war tax. The tax was 6 cents additional, while the trust pushed up the price at that time 7 to 16 cents a pound. The trust's gain has amounted to millions of dollars.

Since all revenue legislation must Granted this week. Reported by originate in the house, the responsibility for this trust grab must lie there where no bill could pass without the consent of the republican leaders, chief of whom in the house et that time were "Uncle Joe" Cannon and James S. A special from Rosnake, Va., to the Charlotte Observer says that Henry H. Rogers, the Standard Oil magnate, builder and owner of the Virginian railway, now being completed and which connects the coal fields with the sea at Norfolk, is to build a road from Roanoke to Floyd Court House, a distance of 25 miles. There is not at present a railroad in Floyd county.

The new line will tap virgin mineral and timber lands and open new markets. A magnificent route has been located and the mountains are crossed without the necesity of tunceling and devoid of any extensive of the Meat Trust; Duke, head of grades.
