THE CYCLOPEAN EYE

It Exists Today in Rudimentary Form in Man's Brain.

The Greeks were, unwittingly, very near an anatomical truth when they ascribed to certain monsters called cyclopes only one eye apiece, which was placed in the center of the forehead. The cyclopean eye exists today in the brains of men in a rudimentary form, for in the pineal gland we find the last vestiges of that which was once a third eye and which looked out into the world, if not from the center of the forehead, at least from very near that point. There is alive today a little creature which would put to shame the one-eyed arrogance and pride of Polyphemus and Argos and Brontes and Steropes and all the rest of the single-eyed gentry who, in the days of myth and myth makers, inhabited the "fair Sicilian isles."
The animal in question is a small lizard called Calotia. Its well developed third eye is situated in the top of its head and can be easily seen through the modified and transparent scale which serves it as a cornea. Many other lizards have a third eye, though it is not so highly organized as in the species just mentioned.
A tree lizard which is to be found in the mountains of east Tennessee and Kentucky has its third eye well developed. The little animal is called the "singling scorpion" by the mountaineers. On dissection the third eye will be found lying beneath the skin. It has a lens, retina and optic nerve.—New York Herald.

BEAUTIFUL LEAVES.

And the Tiny Cells That Give Them Their Brilliant Hue.

A leaf is one of the most beautiful things in nature, and it is very wonderful to think that it owes its lovely color to minute little living bodies or cells of chlorophyll. This word comes from two Greek words, chloros, green, and phyllon, a leaf, and is used to describe the ordinary coloring matter of vegetation.
The chlorophyll cells or granules absorb the light and heat of the sun's rays and in some marvelous way, which only scientists can understand, manufacture the sugar which is necessary for the life of the tree itself by combining the carbonic acid gas of the atmosphere with the water drawn in by its roots. These tiny cells are so very small that as many as 400,000 have been counted in a square millimeter of the leaf of a castor oil plant, and in order that they may come in contact with as much sunlight as possible the leaf turns slightly on its stalk toward the sun.
If you notice the arrangement of the leaves on a branch you will see that nature has placed them so that they form an almost perfect "light screen" and catch all the sunshine that there is. If it were not for the constant work of these little chlorophyll cells the splendid trees in our forests would wither and die and there would be no green things left in the world.—London Home News.

The Secretary Bird.

The long-legged South African secretary bird travels in pairs, male and female. If disturbed or pursued their pace is about as fast as that of a running horse. They seldom use their wings and if compelled to do so can soar to a considerable height. They build bulky nests, and where trees are to be had they select one fifty to a hundred feet above the ground. Their nests are built of sticks and sods, lined with grass, and measure as much as five feet in diameter and three feet in thickness. As a rule only two eggs are laid. Incubation takes six weeks, which is done by the female. The young have to remain in their nests several months before they can stand on their long, slender legs, which are very weak and brittle. The young easily break their legs if disturbed.—Scientific American.

Old Time Theater Rowdies.

Rowdism in London theaters was a common occurrence in the old days, as is shown by the following from the London Post of Oct. 27, 1795:
"Two men in the pit at Drury Lane theater last night were so turbulent and riotous during the last act of 'Henry V.' that the performance was interrupted upward of a quarter of an hour. The audience at last asserted their power and turned them disgracefully out of the theater. This should always be done to crush the race of disgusting puppets that are a constant nuisance at the playhouse every night."

Gracious and Smartness.

"Which would you rather be—truly great or really smart?"
"Smart, of course."
"Why?"
"Well, you may be truly great and no one ever know it, but if you're smart you can make people think that you're great."—Chicago Post.

INDIAN SENSE OF HUMOR.

Even Keener at Times Than That of Most Caucasians.

The historians who have recorded the achievements of our race on the western hemisphere have, as a rule, done scant justice to the people whom we supplanted. Popular writers generally agree, for example, in representing the Indian as haughty and taciturn. They simply ignore human nature. As a matter of fact, among the friends whom he trusts the Indian is a genial companion and a lively story teller, full of humor himself and appreciating heartily the humor of others.
Indeed, the ability of the Indians to see the funny side of the matter, even when the point is against themselves, sometimes goes to extraordinary lengths. In the Sioux outbreak of 1890 not a few Indians belonging to the usually peaceable element left their homes and went to the arena of hostilities either out of mere curiosity or with a notion that the trouble might spread till all were drawn into it on one side or the other. During the absence of a number of members of one band their local agency issued its annual call for firewood. It was the custom of the government to buy from the Indians all the fuel they would cut, by way of encouraging them in this useful industry. A weak-minded fellow who always had been treated as the clown of the tribe and who had stayed at home in spite of the excitement saw here his golden opportunity. He had never exerted himself before to earn his own living, because the timber expeditions involved too much hard work, but what could be easier than a plan which had just entered his mind?

So to the nearest cabins of the absentees he repaired and deliberately tore them down, saved the logs into cord lengths, piled them into his wagon and hauled them to the agency, where he received the standard price for all he brought, no questions being asked as to where he got it. And how did the owners act on their return? Their first sensation was one of amazement to find their dwellings razed to the ground; possibly the next was indignation, but if they manifested any I never heard of it. All I know is that in telling me the story they have laughed over it as if it were one of the most amusing things imaginable, only a new item added to the clown's long list of comical pranks, while the author of the mischief would stand by, enjoying the recital as much as the rest and evidently taking not a little pride in the novelty of his practical joke. I suspect that this is one of the cases where most of us will admit that the Indian sense of humor is even keener than the Caucasian.
"From 'The Indian and His Problem,'" by Francis E. Leupp, Former United States Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

The Early Worm.

A father had been lecturing his young hopeful upon the evils of staying out late at night and getting up late in the morning. "You will never amount to anything," he continued, "unless you turn over a new leaf. Remember that the early bird catches the worm."
"How about the worm, father?" inquired the young man. "Wasn't he rather foolish to get up so early?"
"My son," said the father solemnly, "that worm hadn't been to bed all night; he was on his way home."—London Ideas.

Miseries of Wealth.

Mr. Pinchenny—I worked and slaved many a long year for my money, only to find at last that wealth does not bring happiness.
Mr. Slinpurne—Doesn't it?
Mr. Pinchenny—No, I can't spend a dollar without putting money into some one else's pocket.
—Success Magazine.

Once Was Enough.

"Did you ever," said one preacher to another, "stand at the door after your sermon and listen to what people said about it as they passed out?" Replied he, "I did once"—a pause and a sigh—"but I'll never do it again."—Modern Eloquence.

Odd Surnames.

The most curious thing about the odd surname is that more often than not it had in its origin no connection whatever with the things with which it is associated. Thus Hogg is only a corruption of Roger, and Cockice has gradually assumed that form from the village of Cockhill. Oddly enough, this is especially true of fish names. Cod is a corruption from Cuthbert, Chubb comes from Job, Salmon from Solomon, and Trout and Turbot were equally unconnected with fish in their derivation.—London Chronicle.

Taken Down a Peg.

While one thing essential to a cultured lawyer is a thorough knowledge of Latin, it is not necessary, said a judge, that he should parade his classical knowledge, for he might be "taken down a peg," as was the young lawyer who displayed his learning before an Arkansas jury. His opponent replied: "Gentlemen of the jury, the young lawyer who just addressed you has never with Romulus, canted with Cantharides, ripped with Euripides, socked with Socrates, but what does he know about the laws of Arkansas?"—Case and Comment.

A Literary Coincidence.

"My father, W. Clark Russell," said Herbert Russell in telling of a literary coincidence, "had finished maturing the plot of his novel 'The Death Ship,' which is a version of the legend of Vanderdecken. I was his amanuensis at the time. He said to me, 'Tomorrow we will begin the story.' On the following morning when I entered his study to take his dictation of the opening lines he showed me a letter he had just received. It was from W. S. Gilbert, the well known dramatist, asking him why he did not write a novel about the Flying Dutchman."

TEARS AND LAUGHTER.

God made both tears and laughter, and both for kind purposes, for as laughter enables mirth and surprise to breathe freely, so tears enable sorrow to vent itself patiently. Tears hinder sorrow from becoming despair and madness.—Leigh Hunt.

Greek Fire.

The so-called Greek fire was some sort of combustible composition, probably naphtha, that was thrown from engines said to have been invented by Callinicus of Heliopolis about the middle of the seventh century to destroy the ships of the Saracens. From all accounts the effects of this combustion were fearful. It is claimed that 30,000 Saracens were consumed by it upon a single occasion. A so-called Greek fire, a solution of phosphorus in sulphuric acid, was employed at the siege of Charleston in 1863.—New York American.

Dreams as Omens.

From the earliest times recorded in history men have believed in the prophetic character of dreams. So far as we know, the first to deliberately and systematically attempt the interpretation of dreams was Amphyctyon of Athens, who lived about the year 1400 B. C. The Bible mentions dreams in many places, and we are entitled to conclude from the Biblical references that there were professional interpreters of dreams who were not infrequently rewarded by the dreamer.—Exchange.

A GENIAL SMILE.

Who can tell the value of a genial smile? It costs the giver nothing, but is beyond price to the ering and reluctant, the sad and cheerless, the lost and forsaken. It disarms malice, subdues temper, turns hatred into love and paves the darkest paths with sunlight.

Seeing Trouble Ahead.

"My wife is always borrowing trouble."
"What kind is she borrowing now?"
"She is afraid whippers will be in style when our little boy grows up, so that he will not have a chance to show the cunning dimple in his chin."—Chicago Record-Herald.

In the Blood.

Willis—Are those Kentucky horses you bought scared of autos? Gillis—No, indeed. They never notice a train, either, but I can't get them used to a sprinkling cart to save my life!—Puck.

As It Impressed Him.

"How about the Nile? Great, eh?"
"Yes. As I remember it took up several pages in the guidebook."—Washington Herald.

The highest liberty is in harmony with the highest law.—Giles.

Cland Underwood, of Randolph county, convicted of illicit distilling and sentenced to a year in the Federal prison in Atlanta, by Judge Boyd at Greensboro last week, made a pitiful plea for his wife and little children and aged father, who he said would come to want if he was sent away in the crop season. Judge Boyd was so moved by the plea that the man was released on bond until December.

A Leading California Druggist

Pasadena, Cal., March 9, 1911.—Foley and Co., Gentlemen:—We have sold and recommended Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for years. We believe it to be one of the most efficient expectorants on the market. Containing no opiates or narcotics it can be used freely by children. Enough of the remedy can be taken to relieve a cold, as it has no nauseating results, and does not interfere with digestion. Yours very truly, C. H. Ward Drug Co., C. L. Parsons, Sec'y and Treas. Get the original Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in the yellow package. For sale by all Druggists.

A Big Damage Suit was put on trial in the Federal Court at Raleigh last week which may last a month. It is that of the Ware-Kramer Tobacco Company and the amount of damage asked is $1,200,000. The Ware-Kramer Company declares that its business was destroyed by the illegal methods employed by the American Tobacco Company.

Good results always follow the use of Foley Kidney Pills. They give prompt relief in all cases of kidney and bladder disorders. Try them. Sold by all druggists.

Foley's Kidney Remedy

Is particularly recommended for chronic cases of kidney and bladder trouble. It tends to regulate and control the kidney and bladder action and is healing, strengthening and bracing. For sale by all druggists.

Caleb Haynes, charged with wronging a young woman of Guilford County, was given a preliminary hearing in Greensboro last week and committed to jail without bail to await trial. The girl says she and Haynes arranged to elope to get married and left home to go to Danville, but that Haynes stopped in the woods and by force compelled her to remain there with him all night.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Groves' signature is on each box 25c.

At the meeting of the State Medical Society in Charlotte last week the North Carolina Association of Health Officers was organized with Dr. L. B. McBrayer, Asheville, president; Dr. L. N. Glenn, Gastonia, vice-president, and Dr. W. S. Rankin, secretary State Board of Health, secretary.

$100—Dr. E. Detchner's Anti-Diuretic may be worth to you more than $100 if you have a child who soils bedding from incontinence of water during sleep. Cures old and young alike. It arrests the trouble at once. $1. Sold by Graham Drug Co.

Tuesday afternoon last week, lightning struck the wagon of Bud Dobbins, a farmer living near Cliffside Junction, Rutherford county, killed the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. Dobbins, who was riding in the wagon, and the mule attached to the wagon.

A Dreadful Wound

from a knife, gun, tin can, rusty nail, fireworks, or of any other nature, demands prompt treatment with Bucklen's Arnica Salvo to prevent blood poison or gangrene. Its quickest, surest healer for all such wounds as also for Burns, Bolls, Sores, Skin Eruptions, Eczema, Chapped Hands, Corns or Piles. 25c at Graham Drug Co.

Newton Enterprise: Mr. Ed. Huit, of Caldwell township, lost a valuable cow last Thursday night. He had been doctored for some time and being puzzled over her strange malady he held a post mortem examination and found a piece of wire about four inches long, one end in the liver and the other in the pelvis. It was a piece of umbrella wire and was nearly airtight. Mr. Huit thinks she must have swallowed it in eating cotton seed.

Ambitious young men and ladies should learn telegraphy, for, since the new 8-hour law became effective there is a shortage of many thousand telegraphers. Positions pay from $50 to $70 a month to beginners. The Telegraph Institute of Columbia, S. C. and five other cities is operating under supervision of R. R. Officials and all students are placed when qualified. Write them for particulars.

L. O. Wilson, manager of the Park Driving club of Charlotte, was convicted in the Charlotte city court last week of the illegal sale of liquor. He was fined $300 and the costs, required to surrender the club license and dissolve the charter of the club and to give $500 bond to remain of good behavior for 12 months and not to become a member of any club where whiskey or beers are handled.

Two white men of Scotland county were convicted before the recorder at Laurinburg, of retailing, and given the option of paying $75 fine each or serving four months on the roads. Under the advice of a lawyer they appealed to the Superior Court, where they were again convicted. This time the sentence was eight months on the roads without the option of paying a fine.

The total amount of the rewards now offered for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who murdered Mrs. Ida Hill at Jamestown a few weeks ago, is $1,000. Of this amount $500 is offered by the family of Mrs. Hill, $400 by Governor Kitchin and $100 by the board of commissioners of Guilford county. Local officers and special detectives are at work on the case.

Newton Enterprise: Mrs. Lester Wilson, of Jacob's Fork township, died suddenly Thursday, June 8th. Her husband was plowing in sight of the house. He saw her come out in the yard and call to him. She returned into the house. He stopped work immediately and went into the house and found her on the bed dead.

The Pythian grand lodge, in session at Asheville last week, elected C. C. McLean, of Greensboro, grand chancellor. A. S. Barnard, of Asheville, was elected supreme representative to fill out the unexpired term of T. S. Franklin, and J. L. Scott, Jr., of Graham, supreme representative for long term. Next meeting in Wilmington.
