A Serious Cotton Disease (Anthraxnose) and How to Handle it.

N. C. Agriculture Exp. Station Bulletin. There is a disease of cotton which is yearly attracting increased attention throughout the cotton belt. It is known as cotton anthracnose.

It is most easily recognized when on the boll, where it forms ulcer-like spots, which, as they age, become pink in the centers. The spot may enlarge so as to affect the whole boll. The diseased part of the boll usually fails to open and often the contents rot. Enquiries from various sections of the State are being received almost daily at the Experiment Station concerning the disease. It has also been especially severe in Alabama and Georgia during recent years, so severe in the latter State that the Legislature has made a large special appropriation for its investigation.

Although the disease is seen and recognized most prominently on the bolls, it also occurs on the leaves and stems. Cotton growers should know that this disease is carried from season to season on the seed, and that seed from a sick boll, even though very slightly diseased, may raise a diseased plant, and this in turn may spread the disease to the whole crop of the next season. There is no satisfactory treatment, and the one point to be remembered is that seed from diseased fields is likely to carry the disease, in fact, almost sure to do so. Even seed from clean fields which has passed through a gin in which diseased cotton has been ginned is dangerous. It is of utmost importance for the grower to be sure that his cotton seed does not come from a field or from a region where this disease prevails.

In Asheville Saturday night a week Jas. N. Edwards was killed by W. J. Holland, who shot him and then beat him with a stick until his face was almost unrecognizable. Holland, who surrendered to the officers, pleads the "unwritten law" and self-defense. He says Edwards' attentions to Mrs. Holland became unbearable and were persisted in despite warnings. That when he advanced toward Edwards Saturday night the latter advanced on him with a stick. Then he shot Edwards and took the stick from him and beat him.

Worked Preachers Through a Marrying Game.

Chicago Dispatch. A dozen preachers are condoling with each other over the loss of good money, of which they were defrauded by a counterfeiter and a woman accomplice, who repeatedly presented themselves for marriage and also presented false $20 bills in payment of a $10 fee. Under the names of Gustave Foster and Amanda Thomas, an elderly but apparently loving pair, at various times presented themselves at the parsonages of the several preachers and desired to be married.

After the ceremony had been performed the man said: "I wish, sir that I could reward you with $30 for this kind act of yours, which makes a happy ending to a courtship lasting many years, but my purse is somewhat slim and I can afford but $10."

So saying, he tendered a $20 bill and the clergyman, well pleased to have performed this noble office, as well as to get a winnow of $10, gave him back $10 in real money. "I tried to buy a book of sermons with my $20 bill," said the preacher who told the story, "but was repulsed by an angry salesman, who threatened to have me arrested."

Casting aside all scientific systems of navy yard management advocated in this country, because he believes they involve too much detail and require serious changes in the civil rules of employment, Secretary of the Navy Meyer will import from England the system of management in use at the Barrow-in-Furness ship engine and ordnance works. The change will begin at the Norfolk navy yard and will gradually be extended to others.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY PILLS

Admiral Schley Vindicated by Sampson's Chief of Staff.

Baltimore Sun. Admiral Chadwick, commander of the battleship New York and chief of staff to Admiral Sampson at the time of the naval battle of Santiago, has written the history of the fight, in which he gives the credit of the victory to Admiral Schley. He also furnishes a statement from Admiral Concan, of the Spanish flagship Maria Teresa, which proves, what Admiral Dewey declared after the Schley court martial that the famous "loop" of the Brooklyn was the bit of strategic work that defeated the Spanish plans of escape and wrecked the Spanish fleet.

Dewey, Chadwick, Concan, these three sea fighters, unite in doing justice to the man whose laurels others attempted to snatch and whose splendid record of success a President of the United States vainly sought to smother by an assumption of knowledge of naval affairs greater than that of the men whose actions in war have made the history of the United States navy glorious.

Fight Between Buck Deer and Bull.

Press dispatches tell of a fight between a buck deer and a bull on a Connecticut farm. The deer jumped into the pasture where the bull was confined. When the bull saw the deer he charged and the deer jumped aside.

The bull was no match for the deer in quickness, but when the antlers and the horns locked the deer was driven back on his haunches. Suddenly the buck leaped into the air and came down head first, his antlers buried deep into the bull's side, the bull bellowing in pain. Again the buck made an attack, and his horns were buried in a vital spot in the bull's body and the animal fell dead.

Newton Enterprise: Mr. Sid Wilkinson, of Catawba township, says he has kept record of the time between the appearance of a cotton bloom until the boll of cotton opened. The early cotton requires 40 days but at this time of year 38 days is the average. He says if frost is delayed till November 1st, as is some times the case, there will be some cotton from the second growth. The fields are now in full bloom.

FOLEY'S CHLORO-LAXATIVE

INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM.

Attempt to Put End to It Began in United States Supreme Court.

Washington Dispatch, N. C. The task of attempting to put an end to all initiative and referendum legislation in this country was begun today in the Supreme Court of the United States. Counsel for the Pacific States Telephone & Telegraph Company filed a brief with the court attacking a taxing law of Oregon because it was enacted by virtue of the initiative amendment to the State constitution which is alleged to be in violation of the Federal constitution. It is urged, first that the failure of the company to have a hearing before the raising of its taxes by the initiative method placed the telephone company at a disadvantage with others taxed after being heard by the State Legislature. In this way it was claimed equal protection of the laws was denied it.

The initiative amendment and the Oregon tax were denounced in the brief as violative of the right of a republican form of government, which was guaranteed by the Federal constitution. It was contended that in legislation the minority rarely, if ever, fails to moderate the wishes of the majority, however powerful, but that government by direct legislation is government by brute force. Gov. Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, was quoted as saying that a government ought to have its law-making bodies "it can no more make law through its voters than it can make law through its newspapers."

Reference was made to the claim that the initiative method of legislation is a check against corruption of legislators. "It were better," the telephone company contended, "that the struggle against abuse and corruption should continue than that they should be eradicated by the cries and practices of government revolutionary in character and founded on error or injustice."

Relying on the contention that the initiative is a reserve power for rare use, the attacking brief quotes from the election records of Oregon to show that in 1904 two measures were on the ballot; in 1906, eleven; in 1908, nineteen, and in 1910, thirty-two. It was asserted that no despot or monarch would be permitted to rule in any commonwealth of the nation and yet the "despotism of the multitude is arbitrary and complete as the absolutism of a despot."

In this connection President Taft's views regarding the rights of the minority as expressed in his recent veto of the Arizona Statehood resolution were quoted.
