

Couldn't Walk!

"I used to be troubled with a weakness peculiar to women," writes Mrs. Anna Jones, of Kenny, Ill. "For nearly a year, I could not walk, without holding my sides. I tried several different doctors, but I grew worse. Finally, our druggist advised Cardui for my complaint. I was so thin, my weight was 115. Now, I weigh 163, and I am never sick. I ride horseback as good as ever. I am in fine health at 52 years."

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

We have thousands of such letters, and more are arriving daily. Such earnest testimony from those who have tried it, surely proves the great value of this vegetable, tonic medicine, for women.

Cardui relieves women's sufferings, and builds weak women up to health and strength. If you are a woman, give it a trial. It should help you, for it has helped a million others. It is made from pure, harmless, herb ingredients, which act promptly and surely on the womanly organs. It is a good tonic. Try it! Your druggist sells it.

A Veteran's Yarn

By DANIEL CLAYBOURNE

The veterans of the civil war are getting old. For half a century they have been telling stories of their experiences in the great struggle, which were literally true, but the old chaps have gradually forgotten much of them, which they have been obliged to supply by invention. These invented parts, after much telling, have gradually become impressed on the minds of the story tellers as truth. That the story shouldn't lose any of its original interest the invented parts have been a trifle more Manchusian than the real parts.

The consequence is that now and then a pretty lively yarn is got out by some old septuagenarian which he really believes to be true, but which has grown up in the way I have mentioned. This is one of them.

"I was in at our victory at Chickamauga," the Union veteran began when he was not checked off.

"I thought we were going to get a cooked but at Chickamauga," said a man only forty years old.

"Mebbe we was there and I wasn't," growled the veteran. "Reckon you wasn't born then, kid. Well, as I was saying, I was at Chickamauga, and if you don't believe me look at this stump of an arm."

"I was first lieutenant of a battery, and the cap'n being killed, I succeeded to the command. My battery was stationed with General Thomas' corps around a hill that withstood the whole of Bragg's army."

"They were pumpin' shot and shell into us and we was givin' it back to 'em when I began to be conscious of a number of mule bullets singin' about my ears. For a while I was so intent on hammerin' the Johnnies that I didn't think much about the work at this stump of an arm."

ORCHARD ADVICE.

Read Here About Pruning, Early Spring Spraying and Other Matters.

Diseased wood on a tree can never be made new again. Cut it off and allow another shoot to grow. Every day that such wood remains on a tree adds to the liability of losing it.

Before starting in fruit culture for market visit the progressive, practical fruit culturist and study details; also learn the cost of bushes, method of culture and the returns.

It is an excellent plan to whitewash the trees, filling the cracks of the bark with lime, as to fill up the hiding places of fruit pests, as well as to destroy many which are hiding.

Spraying in the early part of the season seems like lots of waste of time and money, but when it comes to harvest and you notice a larger proportion of marketable fruit you are then ready to admit that spraying pays.

Do not prune too closely. Pruning may be done any time in winter or early spring, but the wounds should be covered at once with paint. An old tree bleeds freely and will suffer if there are a large number of wounds on it.

Paint the scars on fruit trees to prevent decay where branches have been cut off. White lead and oil paints will keep out moisture. Whitewash is good for painting the entire trunk of the tree, and by adding sulphur to the whitewash so as to fill up the life will be destroyed.—Farm Progress.

TOO MUCH LAND.

There seems to be an almost irresistible inclination on the part of many persons to cultivate too much land. Land well cultivated will produce better crops with less work than a large area poorly cultivated. The small farm with the use of brains will do better work than will the large one where only muscle is used.
