It often happens in the exercise of their large power that the con ferrees almost rewrite the bill and the two houses vote to agree or disagree to their report. This is just what happened in the conference on the canal bill. The conferrees on the part of the House were two Democrats and one Republican and on the part of the Senate two Republicans and one Democrat. Senators Brandegee regular Republican, Bristow, insurgent Republican, and Simmons, Democrat, were the Senate conferrees.

He Saved Panama Bill.

Senators Simmons and Bristov were both in favor of exempting our coastwise vessels from tolls and admitting ship building free of duty and prohibiting railroad control and ownership of competing water carriers through the Caswell county was Speaker of the the finer binding in leather is sold canal or elsewhere. So they got Senate and the presiding officer and for $2.50, both post paid. Orders together and united with the two the momentous duty of breaking the should be sent to the Tar Heel Co., House Democrats and rewrote the bill in these important respects and put all water carriers under the control of the Interstate Commerce Commission in a way to make monoply of water transportation impossible.

This was a stunning blow to the railroads and their plans and they raised a great howl, which, some believe, was heard at the White House. The four conferrees, three Democrats and one Republican, stood firm and put their report through both the House and Senate, the Senate adopting it over the protest of the Chairman, Senator Brandegee, by a vote of 48 to 18. Senator Bristow rallied the insurgents of the Senate for the report and Senator Simmons rallied the Democrats, so that on interest. this great measure there was brought about through Senators Simmons and Bristow the same
