Depositions were taken in Salisbury last week in an unusual case.

Mrs. Julia Howell, of Salisbury, has brought suit against her son-in-law, James Solomon, for $2,200 to reimburse her for the trouble and expense of raising Solomon's two children. Solomon's first wife was Mrs. Howell's daughter. She died at her mother's after Solomon is alleged to have deserted her and the two children. The little ones continued to live with their grandmother until July of last year, when their father took them to Richmond, where he is said to be a rich business man. He is married again.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOR STOMACH, BOWEL AND CONSTITUTION

The Three Guardsmen

By Alexandre Dumas

"My dear friend," said Aramis, "remember that it is in an opposite direction to that in which we are going, that he has a fresh horse and ours are fatigued. Let the man go. Let us save the woman."

"Monsieur, monsieur," cried a stableman, running out and looking after the unknown, "monsieur, here is a paper which dropped out of your hat, monsieur!"

"Friend," said D'Artagnan, "a half pistol for that paper."

"Monsieur, with great pleasure. Here it is."

The stableman, delighted with the good day's work he had done, went into the yard again. D'Artagnan unfolded the paper.

"Nothing but one word," said he.

"Yes," said Aramis, "but that one word is the name of some town or village."

"Armentieres," read Porthos.

"And that name of a town or village is written in her hand!" cried Athos.

"Come on, then; come on, then," said D'Artagnan.

"Perhaps I have not thrown away my half pistol. To horse, my friends, to horse!"

"And the four friends galloped off on the road to Bethune."

Milady landed at Boulogne after a two days' voyage. She only remained long enough at Boulogne to put into the post this letter to Richelieu:

Monsieur, let your eminence be reassured. His grace the Duke of Buckingham will not set out for France."

MILADY DE

Boulogne, evening of the 25th.

P. S.—According to the desire of your eminence I am going to the convent of the Carmelites of Bethune, where I will await your orders.

At 8 o'clock the next morning she entered Bethune. She inquired for the convent of the Carmelites and went to it immediately.

The superior came out to her. Milady showed her the cardinal's order. The abbess assigned her a chamber and had breakfast served. After breakfast the abbess came to pay her a visit.

Milady wished to please the abbess. She was charming, winning the good superior by her varied conversation about the court and by the graceful regard she showed for her whole person. But she was greatly embarrassed. She did not know whether the abbess was a royalist or a cardinalist. She therefore confined herself to a prudent middle course. But the abbess, on her part, maintained a reserve still more prudent.

Milady began to conceive she should soon grow weary of a convent life. She resolved, then, to risk something in order that she might know how to act afterward. She began to tell a story, obscure at first, but very dramatic afterward, of the cardinal, relating the amours of the minister.

The abbess listened more attentively, grew animated by degrees and smiled. Milady then went on to describe the persecutions exercised by the cardinal upon his enemies. The abbess only crossed herself without approving or disapproving.

This confirmed milady in her opinion that the abbess was rather a royalist than a cardinalist.

"I am very little acquainted with all these matters," said the abbess, "but one of our pensioners has suffered much from the vengeance and persecution of M. le Cardinal. Imprisonment, menaces, ill treatment—she has suffered everything. But, after all, M. le Cardinal has, perhaps, plausible motives for acting thus."

"Good!" said milady to herself. "Who knows? I am about, perhaps, to discover something here!"

"M. le Cardinal does not always pursue crimes," said she. "There are certain virtues that he punishes more severely than certain offenses."

"Permit me, madame, to express my surprise," said the abbess. "You don't speak well of the cardinal!"

"That is because I am not his friend," said she, sighing, "but his victim!"

"Well, but this letter—"

"Is an order for me to confine myself to a sort of prison, from which he will release me by one of his satellites."

"But why have you not fled?"

"Whither should I go? Do you believe there is a spot on the earth which the cardinal cannot reach? This young pensioner of yours, has she endeavored to fly?"

"No; she is detained in France by some love affair."

"Ah!" said milady, with a sigh. "If she is in love she is not altogether wretched."

"Then," said the abbess, looking at her with increasing interest. "I behold another poor persecuted woman? You are not an enemy of our holy faith?"

"Who is?" cried milady—"I a Protestant! Oh, no! I am a fervent Catholic!"

"Then, madame," said the abbess, smiling. "Be reassured. We will do all in our power to make you in love with your captivity. You will find here, moreover, the young woman of whom I spoke. She is amiable and well behaved."

"What is her name?"

"She was sent to me by some one of high rank, under the name of Kitty. I have not endeavored to discover her other name."

"Kitty!" cried milady to herself. To the abbess she said:

"And when can I see this young lady?"

"Why, this evening," said the abbess; "today even. But you have been traveling these four days, as you told me. This morning you rose at 5 o'clock. You must stand in need of repose. Go to bed and sleep. At dinner time we will call you."

Milady was awakened by a soft voice which sounded at the foot of her bed. She opened her eyes and saw the ab-

It is Senator Simmons

Senator Simmons made a great speech in Greensboro last Thursday, and he never called the name of Gov. Kitchin or Judge Clark.

He is asking your votes for Senator on his record. In that speech he said:

"If you will put the things the farmer buys on the free list, I will put the things he sells on the free list. If you reduce the duty on the things he buys, I am willing to reduce the duty on the things he makes. But I am never going to consent to putting the things he makes on the free list while he is required to pay the Payne-Aldrich rate on the things he buys."

That is Woodrow Wilson-Lock Craig Democracy, and you believe in it.

The news from all parts of the State is that senator Simmons will win by an overwhelming majority.

His record in the Senate and his Democracy have been endorsed by his fellow Democratic Senators, and they have made him their leader on all tariff matters.

That means that North Carolina with Simmons in the Senate stands at the head of the class.

Don't you want to join in the good work of keeping it there?

J. H. FREELAND, County Manager for F. M. Simmons.
