Progress in Education

Two New Supervisors for Alamance County—County Board in Session. The County Board of Education met in regular session in Graham last Monday. This meeting is not only a regular quarterly meeting, but it is the meeting to take account of things done the past scholastic year ending June 30th, and to make plans for the coming year. Many advances have been made in various departments of the work—70 graduates from the public schools, good houses built, many houses painted, a complete school directory issued, and many other important improvements made. But even larger things are planned. Through invitation of the Superintendent L. C. Brogden, of the State Department of Education, was present and offered to cooperate with the County Board of Education by giving from the Peabody School Fund money to employ a Rural Supervisor for the white schools. After hearing Mr. Brogden's proposition the County Board readily accepted it. Following this the Superintendent reported that he had secured means from the Jeans fund to employ a colored supervisor for the colored schools of the county. So, as soon as they can be secured, the county will enter upon the coming year with two special supervisors. These supervisors will endeavor to build up the schools and the communities in every possible way, by working with the teachers, the students, and the people of the community. Better school equipment are to be provided, more beautiful grounds are to be laid out, and more thorough and more practical work is to be done. This is a long step forward in the important work of Education in the county. Prof. J. B. Robertson was re-elected by the Board at this meeting. The splendid work of the Superintendent during his term of service highly justified his reelection. At the same time Mr. S. E. Tate, who had been re-elected, took the oath of office for another year. Quickly heeding the protest of Brunswick, Ga., citizens against the placing of Eugene R. Belcher, a negro, in the position of deputy customs collector in charge of the port of Brunswick, Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury Department revoked Belcher's designation and named L. P. Johnson as deputy collector to assume charge there on July 1st. Belcher had been in charge under the previous administration. Upright Engine For Sale. An upright 8 H. P.
