Advertising Talks

HOW ADS FOR LARGE STORES ARE HANDLED

Constitutes an Important Element of Actual "News" and Preparation Requires Care.

That the advertisements in a newspaper constitute an important element of actual "news" and that the preparation of them requires a highly specialized sort of knowledge and training.

However, this is the case. Of the thousands of people who read the newspapers, a very large proportion are interested in the advertisements.

Of the work, the thought and the careful preparation that goes into the preparation of a clever advertisement, that it may attract the eye of the reader and hold his attention, few advertisers take any cognizance.

For to fill the bill, he must know human nature and its moods, from A to Z. He must keep abreast of the times and the fashions. He must be an expert judge of values, and he must be possessed of a peculiar extra "sense," that he may know and seize the psychological moment.

TOM SOLVED PROBLEM

AND IN A WAY THAT MIGHT BE EXPECTED OF A MAN.

However, it caused Mrs. Carrick to see things in a new light, and there was an end of worrying.

Everything in the Carricks' apartment was beautifully clean, for young Mrs. Carrick was a careful housekeeper and she found her greatest pride and pleasure in her sparkling glass, spotless curtains and spotless floors.

It was with genuine joy that Mrs. Carrick prepared a room for her father when the breaking up of his old home made it necessary for him to come to live with her.

"Don't you like that shaving stand, father? I notice you never use it."

"Yes, it's a real clever contrivance, but I've always been used to hooking my little hand glass on the window sill."

"Matters became worse rather than better, and it required all Mrs. Carrick's loving patience not to cross when she found neckties and collars scattered about the dressing case."

Several thousand cattle have already been sent from these states to Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, and some of these are said to have been shipped as far as Montana.

Recently there were perhaps more cattle unloaded at one time in Birmingham, Ala., for feed, water and rest while en route to the western ranges than have ever been seen in that place before in one day.

Some people of the south seem glad that these cattle are being shipped out, as the number of scrub cattle is being reduced and the south will get better cattle as a result.

Literature regarding methods of feeding cattle in the south and eradicating the cattle ticks may be obtained from the Bureau of Cattle Industry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

They are partly of Asiatic blood, but in their selection, which extends over a period of 50 years, attention has been paid to rapid growth and egg production, so that the breed today more nearly resembles the Leghorns than does either the Plymouth Rock or Wyandotte.

One fundamental difference still exists that shows the Asiatic origin of the Rhode.

The Rhode Island Reds do not reproduce themselves with certainty as to shade of color or style of comb, but in practical points they may be considered a distinct and well-established breed.

FARMERS ADVISED AGAINST SELLING COWS

During the past twelve months cattle buyers have been active in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida, purchasing cattle to be shipped to the middle western markets as either canners or stockers.

The prices paid for canners during the last 12 months are compared with those for any previous period of similar length. The receipts of Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana cattle at that market have almost doubled during this period.

Since the first of February buyers from the farms and ranches of the west have been scouring the Gulf states in search of breeding stock.

A few years ago this class of cattle would have been scorned by the western ranchman as breeding stock, but with the shortage of cows for breeding purposes the ranchers are glad to get these cheap cows, to which they add the surplus of their own herds.

POULTRY

ROOST CLOSET FOR POULTRY

Considerable Stress Laid on Curtain in Front of House at Maine Experiment Station.

In the curtain-front type of poultry house used at the Maine experiment station a feature of the original plan was a considerable stress was laid on the canvas curtain in front of the roosts.

This curtain, together with the back wall of the house and the droppings board under the roosts, formed a closet in which the birds were shut up at night during cold weather.

When the curtain-front house was first devised it was thought essential to provide such a closet to conserve the body heat of the birds during the cold nights when the temperature might go well below zero.

Expectations were, however, that this was a mistake. Actual test shows that the roosting closet is of no advantage, even in such a severe climate as that of Orono.

On the contrary, the birds certainly thrive better without the roost curtain than with it. It has been a general observation among users of the curtain-front type of house that when the roost curtains are used the birds are particularly susceptible to colds.

It is not hard to understand why this should be so. The air in a roosting closet when it is opened in the morning is plainly bad. The fact that it is warm in no way offsets physiologically the evils of its lack of oxygen and excess of carbon dioxide, ammonia vapors, and other exhalations from the bodies of the birds.

For some time past it has been felt that the roosting closet was at least unnecessary, if not in fact a positive evil. Consequently the time of beginning to close the roost curtain in the fall has been each year longer delayed. Finally, in the fall of 1910, it was decided not to use these curtains at all during the winter.

Consequently they were taken out of the house, or spiked to the roof, as the case might be. The winter of 1910-11 was a severe one. On several occasions the temperature dropped to 30 degrees below zero.

Yet during this winter the mortality was exceptionally low and the egg production exceptionally high.

In view of this experience the station has decided to discontinue the use of the roost curtain. It would seem to be generally undesirable or at least unnecessary.

FOR SHIPPING EGGS SAFELY

Holder Made of Corrugated Straw-board is Provided With Small Hole at Each End.

This egg holder is made from corrugated straw-board, the egg being inserted by opening an overlapping joint at the side. The container is provided with a small hole at each end so that it may be opened and closed without tearing it, says the Popular Mechanic.

The holder is adapted for sending eggs safely by parcel post, or for carrying them with the least possibility of breakage.

Indeed, it brought results! The bald-headed man burst violently into the barber shop and bustled up to the proprietor.

"See here, sir!" he said, "that hair restorer—"

"Why," interrupted the barber, "you bought that only two days ago—you can't expect—"

"No, no," the man broke in, "our green minked-hat mistook it for furniture polish and—"

"Oh, you want another bottle?"

"Not by a jugful! I want you to come and shave our parlor set and four bedroom chairs."

ERA MARKED BY GREEDINESS

Present Generation Demands Too Much of Everything, is the Opinion of Woman Writer.

"It is the mark of our era to want more or everything than we can use, yet when we get the too much we demand, we are crushed by it," as Tarpela was crushed by the shield," writes Cornelia A. P. Comber in the Atlantic.

"I have often thought that the sheer brute mass of life—of people to know, of books to read, of plays to hear, of pictures to see, of things to do, buy, learn, enjoy—within reach of the well-to-do person in the modern world, far outruns the capacity of any human being to take it in and make of it the sane whole that a life should be.

"Yes—yet we go on, trying to expand to illimitable possibilities, thinking we shall be happier so soon as we have discarded all our present belongings and opportunities for bigger, newer, richer ones: How many people do you know who have not met a substantial increase of income with a corresponding enlargement of the whole scale of living, a senseless expansion sometimes outrunning their increased ability to provide for it? There is no future but chaos for a society with such ambitions. They are centrifugal and can only lead to disintegration."

Thought Night Had Passed. Tired Farm Hand Lost All Track of Time in His Brief but Evidently Deep Slumber.

Even when you are wide awake it is frequently hard to estimate the passage of time. On one occasion you find it hard to believe that several hours have elapsed, and on another the day may drag so slowly that the clock seems to have shirked its duty.

While you are asleep the calculation of time is, of course, almost impossible, as in incident, told by a farmer's son at the corner store one rainy morning, aptly illustrates:

Practical Opposed to Ideal. Among the legends connected with the great Cardinal Borromeo, the following is told to visitors to the huge palace of that ancient family on the Borromeo islands in the Italian lakes.

When Cardinal Borromeo had shown Cardinal Giulio the vast abode which he had just completed, the latter maintained a strict silence until they had inspected the whole. When departing, he said: "Your eminence, I have been reflecting that the huge sum spent on this place might have been given to the poor."

"Your eminence, they have been given to the poor. But our notions of charity differ. I pay the poor for their labor, and your eminence for their idleness."

Rural Solomon. "The court has taken your case into consideration, Mr. Silthers," said the Judge, at Silthers' trial for violating the motor ordinances at Cricket's Corners, "and in view of what you've said, and with some breath, about the badness of our roads hereabouts in your sworn testimony, I've decided not to fine you $50, as the law permits."

"That's very square of you, Judge," said Silthers.

"Oh, try to be square, Mr. Silthers," said the Judge, "instead of the $50 fine, we're going to sentence you to work on them roads for ten days, in the hope that your superior wisdom as a road expert will make 'em considerably better."

Indeed, it brought results! The bald-headed man burst violently into the barber shop and bustled up to the proprietor.

"See here, sir!" he said, "that hair restorer—"

"Why," interrupted the barber, "you bought that only two days ago—you can't expect—"

"No, no," the man broke in, "our green minked-hat mistook it for furniture polish and—"
