CHRISTMAS is a very ancient feast, made over and adapted. therefore represents the feast-day spirit of cheer, gladness and merry making, which seems to have been innate in all ancient mankind worthy of being considered above the brute creation.

"Except ye become as little children,"—said the great Treacher. Becoming as little children is truly the gist of Christmas, the essential part of the feast. Not alone should we be as little children in the innocence and purity of our thoughts, but also in that fresh, frank, direct and unprejudiced way of the child in considering the every-day affairs of life.

Here is a glad hand and a good Christmas wish to our readers. If we have helped through the year in making labor more productive, and homes more happy, then we will claim a part in helping along the work of the Master, the spirit of Whose teach ings should be reflected in our Christmas celebrations.

14-year limit for all gainful occupations without exemptions must be fixed in all States. At the same time, in order to make the legal age limit an established fact, and sufficient protection to the child, every State law needs to be amended in some point concerning work permits. It is of next impor tance to regulate the work of all minors by a limit of hours, a 16 or 18-year limit for the dangerous rades, and by medical inspection of minors at work. The committee says that no minors should be allowed as a night messenger, and points out that only seven States have fixed a 21 year limit for this

Reference is made to the need of discussing the opinion of edu-cators and social workers, that there is no gainful occupation that without harm. And a special plea for more members of the National Child Labor Committee is based on the need of taking up with greater emphasis the matter of adm stration and enforcement of child closely related to child labor, such as industrial education and the problem of needy families whose children are forbidded to work.
