Constipation

For many years I was troubled, in spite of all so-called remedies used. At last I found quick relief and cure in these pills, very thorough and really wonderful.

Chronic Constipation Cured.

"Five years ago I had the worst case of chronic constipation I ever knew of, and Chamberlain's Tablets cured me," writes S. F. Fisher, Brooklyn, Mich. For sale by all dealers.

A dispatch from Detroit, Mich., says 10,000 anxious searchers for jobs turned the plant of the Ford Automobile Company in that city when it opened Tuesday last week, under the new plan whereby the company is to share $10,000,000 yearly profit with its employees. The new plan contemplates that no salary will be less than $5 a day.

Thos. H. Peebles, Attorney General of South Carolina, has been indicted for murder. December 6, last Peebles killed Robt. Marshall, Pa colored porter at the Elk's club in Columbia. The coroner's jury decided that the killing was the result of the accidental discharge of a pistol, but the grand jury has returned a true bill against Peebles for murder.

His Stomach Troubles Cured.

Mr. Dyspeptic, would you like to feel that your stomach troubles were over, that you could eat any kind of food you desired without injury? That may seem so unlikely to you that you do not even hope for an ending of your trouble, but permit us to assure you that it is not altogether impossible. If others can be cured permanently, and thousands have been, why not you? John R. Barker of Battle Creek, Mich. is one of them. He says, "I was troubled with heartburn, indigestion, and liver complaint until I used Chamberlain's Tablets, then my trouble was over. Sold by all dealers." adv.

HOME TOWN HELPS

CHANGE WROUGHT BY GARDEN

Experiment by Mine Official Demonstrates How Much Good There is in Beautiful Surroundings.

Grace Tabor, one of the department editors of the House and Garden, says that there is an intimate connection between a man and his garden. She was describing the early gardens of this country, those of the Spanish settlers in Florida, the Puritans in New England, the Dutch in New Amsterdam and the swallows and Quakers in Maryland and Pennsylvania. But no matter what the nationality or the style involved, a true garden reflects the character of its maker. She spoke truly, as any visitor to the formal terraces of Mount Vernon or to the democratic ledges of Monticello will agree. But if a garden reflects its maker's temperament, it is no less true that often a garden influences it.

In one of the American trade publications there recently appeared a story told by the general manager of a coal mining corporation at Weyanoke, W. Va.—a settlement in the district sorely afflicted with industrial conflicts. He says that the average man works short hours and rarely put in full time every month. This idleness was not voluntary, but came about in the regular course of the work. Idleness added to the discontent, so he hit on the idea of introducing into the mountain region the small garden system so profitably practiced by the laborers of England. He tried to induce his men to utilize their spare time in cultivating gardens, and offered prizes for various kinds of vegetables and flower plots.

MUST LOOK TO THE FUTURE

New Law in Massachusetts Makes the Proper Planning of All Towns Compulsory.

The last legislature of Massachusetts, by two brief acts, made city planning compulsory for every town of more than 10,000 population and for every city. A large measure of home rule is provided by the law, since the local governing bodies—city councils, commissions or town meetings—will determine the number of members in each board, the rate of payment for services and expenses and other administrative details. State-wide unity will be given to the work by the supervision of the Massachusetts home department commission.

Hanging Garden in Minneapolis.

The work of the committee on hanging gardens of the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce Association, has been practically completed throughout the summer. As a result of the activity of this committee more than 1,500 feet of window boxes were installed by downtown business houses, and 105 of the ornamental lamp posts were decorated with vines and flowers, says Town Development.

Beautifulizing of Cities.

We have built our cities and in them we must live. A country population we have turned and are still turning into a city population. Our soil tillers we have industrialized, taking them from surroundings where health and prosperity were largely a matter of individual judgment into surroundings where the assumption may be warranted perhaps, but where it certainly does not work. The cities are the battle ground of modern civilization. We must learn the strategy of this new social warfare of peace. One name for one part of it is city-planning.

Charges of severe punishment, bad and insufficient food, favoritism and other alleged abuses against the administration of the Atlanta Federal penitentiary, are contained in documents submitted to the Department of Justice. Representative Howard of Georgia submitted the charges, which, he said, he had collected from guards, former guard, employees, and others connected with the prison.

BABY LANGUAGE MADE STUDY

Declaration by Expert Will Make Him Unpopular With the Fond Mother.

Baby language is the latest study. The child first uses its voice, says an expert, to express hunger, temper and feelings of pleasure. Noises alone suffice for such expression. Then the baby utilizes its voice as a playing, and afterward as a recognized mode of expression.

Trilling of lips takes place only at teething time. Gradually there is less variety of sounds, as the child learns definite associations with definite sounds. Some little people can hum tunes perfectly yet are too young to pronounce the accompanying words. On the other hand, they are often credited with words they never say. "Mum" is an instinctive sound, not an intentional call. Doubtless fond mothers will protest, but a wise professor said it down to the child of any nationality when it is new. "Let the mother come. After a time the infant associates "Mum" with the arrival of mother and the cessation of distress. Then it expresses the word intelligently, but not before this association has occurred.

There was a great difference between boys and girls. The former were slower than the latter.

FIRST TO WIN RECOGNITION

Earliest of American Authors to Gain the Coveted Praise of Europe Was Washington Irving.

The first American author to win general recognition of his genius in Great Britain was Washington Irving, who died in his seventy-seventh year at Sunnyside, N. Y. The immortal humorist, historian and essayist was born in New York, the son of a native of Scotland. He was educated for the law, but his tastes were all in the direction of literature, and his legal career was a brief and almost brief-ly one. At eighteen he wrote "Letters of Jonathan Oldstyle," which were published in the New York Morning Chronicle, a newspaper owned by his elder brother, Dr. Peter Irving. He was only twenty-five when he wrote the celebrated "History of New York," by Diedrich Knickerbocker. From 1815 to 1820 he resided in England, where his genius was fully recognized. Later he returned to Europe as United States minister to Spain, and spent several years in Madrid. In the opinion of both American and English critics, Irving has few equals for grace of style and purity and elegance of diction and his works seem destined to take their place among the great classics of the English language.

Right to Accept Reward.

The right of a public officer to accept a reward was involved in the case of Hartley vs. Inhabitants of Granville, before the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts. The court ruled that while ordinary peace officers cannot collect additional compensation for services rendered in performance of their regular duties, yet a contract made to pay an officer for services rendered outside and not inconsistent with his duties is valid. The court holds that a constable who forfeited offenders, relying on a reward offered by the town, may recover, because detective duties are not within the scope of a constable's official obligation.

Lesson for Humanity.

A varnished frog dies, not because bodily poisons accumulate in its skin, but because of overeating. When the air it breathes becomes warmer than 38 degrees Centigrade, Dr. Vittorio Puntoni of the University of Bologna reports that the frog must use its pores to radiate the extra heat. The Lancet, discussing his findings, remarks that disease germs were discovered to make short work of the varnished frog, tracheitis, already weakened by wetting. The conclusions of Doctor Puntoni have a practical interest in their relation to the deleterious effects of moist, warm climates and the use of improper clothing, which act by disturbing the cutaneous function.

Dishonesty Rare in China.

The Chinese are said to be the most honest people in the world in their business relations. They keep their word whether expressed in writing according to printed formula or spoken by the lips, and so loyal are they to the honor of the family that the son performs the pledges of the father who may have fallen from misfortune or death. However, had they they may regard the bargain, however convenient and truthful might be the plea of falling business these yellow people despise such sophistries and keep their word.

Borrowing Trouble.

Mary Alice had been punished and shut up in the bedroom. She had been quiet for some time and papa was just about to open the door and tell her she might come out when her sobe burst forth afresh.

"Don't cry any more," he said, soothingly. "Papa has forgiven you."

"Oh, I know, papa," she answered between sobs. "But just think! What an awful thing it would be if I should grow up and have a little girl as naughty as I am."

Word has reached Washington

That when President Wilson and John Lind conferred on board the cruiser Chester, Mr. Lind expressed the belief that the waiting policy of the United States Government toward Mexico was certain to be rewarded with success. The President is said to have been well satisfied with the report of his personal representative.

GREATEST ASSET OF THE MERCHANT

Power of Reaching People by Human Contact of Inestimable Value.

Your thoughts may immediately turn to the stock of goods on hand, the store you own, the home around the corner or the bonds in the safety deposit vault when assets are under consideration.

Nothing as tangible as any of these will be discussed here, but when you have read this through, see if you don't believe that there is an asset worth more than the things already mentioned.

Asset which cannot be inventoried and yet is worth more to many merchants than the goods in their store, is the power of reaching people by human contact and interest. It doesn't sound like it is worth very much, does it? But wait.

Here is a small store located near a large department store in a certain town. The department store carries a full line of smaller merchant's goods, yet the latter has been increasing his business each year since the department store started. The reason is only found in the fact that he is a likable, accommodating fellow with good business ability, and the friendliness of his nature has attracted people to his store and causes them to come there whenever they need a purchase necessary.

His two clerks have imbued the same spirit of good fellowship and every customer of that store feels that he has a real friend there to wait on him and to suggest different purchases, and to see that he gets the right goods at the right price.

Confidence in this man, in his clerks and in the goods they sell has increased his business each year since the department store started. The things that they sell are not the things that only come once in a way, at long intervals, and even then are nearly always the result of a hundred and one little things combined.

To be crushed by a large misadventure is natural, but to fall a victim to the petty misfortunes is humiliating. There are many things that prefer to break their necks once and for all by falling off a mountain, than to bruise their whole bodies and dislocate their tempers by the daily stumbling over a mole-hill. It is the little things that count—the satisfaction of climbing Mount Olympus is a poor sort of attainment if the scores and scores of pleasant details which wait upon success be absent—From the Atlantic.

Saying Came True.

The discovery that Scottish banknotes have actually been forged within the walls of Peterhead convict prison recalls an amusing incident.

Until the notes of the Bank of England (which are destroyed as soon as they find their way back to the bank), notes on Scottish banks are put in circulation again and again. The result is that some of these notes get very dirty, the one-pound notes getting particularly grubby and worn in the course of their travels.

An English barrister who was once given a sheet of these notes in payment of a large amount, regarded them with horror for a few seconds, holding them delicately between his thumb and finger.

"Now," he said, holding them at arm's length, "now I understand the meaning of that saying about 'filthy lucre.'"

In the Nursery.

It does not mean that a woman cannot take charge of her own children's bringing-up simply because she puts them in a nursery. She can take charge of them as well in a nursery as out of one. If she is in charge of a goodness, however, she should be a woman who can be thoroughly trusted. In these days of mothers' help the young woman who fills that position would have the supervision of the nursery in a house where she was employed, and she should be chosen with the greatest care. For the whole value of the nursery idea is that the children who are brought up in a nursery lead a quieter, more untrammelled life than they do when they live out of the nursery.—Exchange.

Trick of the Orator.

Disraeli, whose eloquence Lord Curzon ranks below that of Gladstone, tried hard to give his hearers the impression that he was not in the habit of preparing his speeches. Discussing Plunket's oratory with Disraeli, Lord Curzon remarked that the Irish statesman hesitated so long for a word that he seemed to be on the point of breaking down. "Lord bless you," Disraeli exclaimed, "did that take you in? Why, that is part of the trick. I have often done it to make it appear that my speech has not been prepared."

Astronomical.

That the space between earth and the stars is occupied with some medium that resists the rays of light is the belief, among others, of the astronomer Herbrand notes, who says that while sky is suffused with nebulous material, Doctor Hirkeland thinks the matter scattered through the interstellar space exceeds in mass the aggregate of the suns and planets.

The Pacific coast, from San Francisco, has been swept for ten days by storms that extended well inland and much damage to property resulted.

The first steam vessel passed through the Panama canal Wednesday of last week. It was the Alexander Lavelly, a crane boat, and carried no passengers. It had been operating on the Atlantic side and gradually made its way through during the course of the dredging operations.

WHITE SERVANTS' GOOD WORK

Did Much Toward Building Up the South in the Days Before the Revolution.

Socially the white servant was an important factor in helping to build up a landed aristocracy in the south, because he made possible the cultivation of extensive areas of land, declares a writer in Harper's Magazine. But in the course of a few years he became a free citizen and owner of a small estate. Thus was developed a yeoman class, a much needed democratic element in the southern colonies while at the same time settlers were secured for the black lands, where they were needed to protect the frontier. Nevertheless, they did not form a distinct class after becoming freedmen. Some were doubtless the progenitors of the "poor white trash" of the south, but it is likely that environment rather than birth was the main factor in producing this class. While comparatively few rose to prominence, yet there are some notable examples to the contrary. Two signers of the Declaration of Independence, George Taylor and Matthew Thornton, Charles Thompson, the secretary of the continental congress, and General Sullivan of revolutionary war fame, had all been white servants. It is certain also that many became successful planters, and perhaps the majority respectable and desirable citizens.

MADE UP OF LITTLE THINGS

Small Events Count For Much More in Life Than These We Consider of Importance.

We love little things, we hate little things, we fear little things; our lives are knit up with little things from the time we are born to the day we die. Big things draw us up to Heaven or crush us down to hell. Little things live beside us on the earth, eat and sleep with us, laugh and grumble with us, catch the early train with us, or make us miss it, irritate and appease us—never leave us alone for a minute.

It is that why they are so much more important than the big things—the things that only come once in a way, at long intervals, and even then are nearly always the result of a hundred and one little things combined.

To be crushed by a large misadventure is natural, but to fall a victim to the petty misfortunes is humiliating. There are many things that prefer to break their necks once and for all by falling off a mountain, than to bruise their whole bodies and dislocate their tempers by the daily stumbling over a mole-hill. NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Sell only fresh eggs.

Time to select seed potatoes.

Lime is beneficial to clay soils.

Good feeders prepare in advance for their stock.

The fowl does not perspire as do most animals.

The fast walker is the profitable horse on the farm.

System in the dairy should surpass all other matters on the farm.

The quantity of milk in the pail is the most dependable sign of a good milker.

By keeping stock always in a good condition the cost of maintenance is lessened.

Laying hens should have their heaviest feed of the day not long before roosting time.

The energies of the dairy cows are convertible into a profit almost every day of her life.

The only time to develop stock is when you see the animal is young and growing fast.

Farming on a business basis eliminates small mules just as it displaces small horses.

The duck comes nearer perpetual motion than anything on the farm—not excepting the boys.

Pasture or other feed will go farther when there is plenty of water, shade, and protection from flies.

When a cow is foundered, plenty of water to drink and very light feed, will often correct the trouble.

If you want to raise a good cow you must first raise a good calf from the start all the way up to the cow.

Milk utensils should have a sun bath every day, but they should be protected from dust at the same time.

If issue paper is squeezed hard and stuffed into a mousehole it will form a barrier through which mice will not nibble.

While there is but little sale in market for guineas, they are the nearest approach to the wild fowls of any meat known.

Dairying and poultry raising go together, the waste of the dairy being more profitably fed to poultry than anything else.

Where calves are kept in the barn, furnish plenty of bedding, and when out of doors have a suitable place for a shelter and shade.

Poultrymen who have tried it claim that a teaspoonful of Venetian red in a gallon of drinking water is a good bowel trouble preventive.

Mice and rats have little show around buildings or homes where order prevails and general farm sanitation is looked after as it should be.

Give the pigs a fair start in life by feeding the sow upon milk producing rations. There is nothing much better than skim milk mixed with shorts.

In the market stock yards the bunch of hogs that is even in weight, conformation and color will bring more than the lot made up of all sorts.

Keep the apple trees well sprayed to free them from the destructive work of insects, worms and scab, if a satisfactory crop of fruit is to be expected.

Feeding in sheep husbandry is like any other problem in live stock management. However good the breed without good care and feeding they are unprofitable.

The truth is the farmers of the middle west are raising better mutton than ever before, and people are learning that it is about the best and cheapest meat they can buy.

Wheat is just as capable of increased yields as oats and corn, and those farmers who have combined science (common sense) with their agriculture, have reaped not 14 bushels but 30 to 50 bushels per acre for a series of years.

Breeding stock should be selected for health, strength, vigor and maturity first, utility second, and fancy points third. Unless a bird is matured, and possesses also, vigor and a sound constitution, it should be barred out of the breeding pen.

Explaining that his opinion was in no wise influenced by the Mexican situation, Major General Wood, chief of staff of the army, has advised committees of Congress that they should appropriate $5,000,000 for field guns and ammunition for the regular army and $3,000,000 for the militia.

Itch relieved in 30 minutes by Woodford's Sanitary Lotion. Never fails. Sold by Graham Drug Co.

Mixed rations are best.

It pays to save the manure.

Keep the eggs in a cool place.

Save the meat scraps for your fowls.

Fowls cannot be healthy without exercise.

The biggest cow is not always the best milker.

A bit of planning will always save time and muscle.

Proper food and a variety of it makes strong, healthy chickens.

As a growing proposition there is nothing better than a spring pig.

Horses must be unheaded, have spirit and finish and be fast walkers.

If the sow is fed on sour, dirty swill the effect is quickly seen in the pigs.

Undue excitement during hot weather often proves fatal to overfat fowls.

Clean earth is one of the best absorbents that can be used in the poultry house.

The dairy farm is a highly developed business establishment and should be so operated.

Whitewashing the nests, inside and out, is a good means of keeping them free from vermin.

It takes a stockman's eye to detect the first symptoms of falling condition of his stock.

Little chicks need a feeding coop where they can eat in peace away from the older fowls.

Those who have silos full of silage find winter feeding easy and satisfactory to the live stock.

A poultryman too careless to keep the henhouse free from vermin does not deserve to succeed.

A good feeding crop for chicks may be made by tacking some coarse mesh poultry wire over a frame.

A quarter spent for a batch of butter paper is money well invested where butter is marketed.

Young pigs kept in dry, dusty lots and fed on corn exclusively will not make money for their owner.

A quarter buys a dairy thermometer and no dairyman can make a better investment of two bits.

No honest breeder will sell a culled ram to an ignorant farmer. It is as bad as passing counterfeit money.

Milk, cream, and butter are susceptible to all manner of taint and the result is antimatted butter products.

Drought can be largely controlled by care of the physical condition of the soil and in the preparation of the seed bed.

Dust sitting hens with pyrethrum powder twice or three times before the eggs hatch and there will be no lice on the chicks.

Poultry and fruits are closely allied. Both do well together, and they readily thrive on the same land without hindering each other.

The sun has a purifying effect on milk pans and pails, but they should be covered with light screen cloth so the flies cannot come over them.

Any woman who manages well can find an hour during the day when she can shut herself in from all outside worries and recline, relax and rest.

It is just as necessary to plow or otherwise cultivate the peach orchard when it bears not a peach as it is when the trees are to be loaded with fruit.

Decaying matter of any kind left lying around at this time of the year may prove a very costly bit of carelessness to anyone that is raising chickens.

It is in favor of the sheep that it will yield a profit under conditions so unfavorable that other farm animals under the same conditions will be unprofitable.

Cattle can be raised without free range. In fact they should be kept away from the hog lots or stock yards, where the clumsy birds are at the mercy of the stock.

Unless the stock turkeys are large it is almost impossible to get the young ones to a good weight. It is best to purchase the largest and finest stock obtainable to breed from.

Wheat is just as capable of increased yields as oats and corn, and those farmers who have combined science (common sense) with their agriculture, have reaped not 14 bushels but 30 to 50 bushels per acre for a series of years.
