MEXICO.

The Mexican situation is one of surprising changes and uncertain anticipations.

America is holding possession of Vera Cruz, and has charge of its government, and the citizens of that city are reported as liking the change.

Huerta has asked Carranza for assistance which the latter has refused, and the war between the federal and constitutionalists goes on.

Americans continue to flee from Mexico City, and the United States while waiting keeps up war preparations and a close watch on every movement in Mexico.

The governments whose good offices have been accepted to work out a settlement of the trouble between Mexico and the United States have so far accomplished nothing definite.

The rule of Huerta is said to be nearing its close and is expected to end inside of two weeks, and it is reported that Huerta would resign if he felt he could escape the country with his life, and that he is still holding on till a favorable opportunity is presented for his escape.

Real Issue in Mexico.

New York World. There will be no more permanent peace in Mexico until the peon is on land that belongs to the peon, and is protected in his ownership.

The Mexican problem is an agrarian problem. The great mass of people are living under feudalism. They own nothing. A few men own everything. There are great estates in which practically all the land is in the hands of a dozen proprietors, and the peasant population lives in semi-slavery.

Mexican dictators have been generous with foreign concessions. They have sold mines and oil rights and franchises with little restraint. There are million acre estates in Mexico for which American and foreign proprietors paid less than 10 cents an acre; but there is nothing for the peon. He is systematically robbed of the fruits of his labor, and only his rage can be called his own.

The constitutional movement is a campaign for peasant proprietorship. That is the meaning of Villa and Zapata and Carranza and all the forces that have been battling against Huerta. That is what the Madero uprising against Diaz meant, but unfortunately Madero was unable to carry out his promise, and so Huerta climbed into power over his corpse.

What is going on in Mexico is a revolution of the common people against despotic privilege. When President Wilson refused to recognize Huerta he stood with the common people against their oppressors.

In helping to bring about a mediation that will restore peace and establish a really representative government that will do justice to the peon, the President is still standing with the common people. That is where the United States always belongs, and it will be a sorry day for this country when its government deliberately takes the other side in such a quarrel.

At Waynesville Sunday Paul Love, member of a prominent family of Haywood county, committed suicide by shooting.

The Elkin Times says Mrs. Elizabeth Carleton, who lived near Marble, Yadkin county, died a few days ago at the age of 100 years.

With nine buckshot in the back of his head Oscar Saunders, a negro, was found dead in the woods in Craven county. Supposed to have been murdered.

Report comes from New Bern that a sturgeon weighing 400 lbs. and more than 12 feet long was caught in the river near there a few days ago.

Gen. Dan E. Sickles, prominent as a Union soldier in the Civil War, and in public life since the war, died Sunday night at his home in New York city.

A large tent has been erected in the flower garden, south of the White House, and it is expected that President Wilson will transact much of his business in this tent during the hot days.

Washington News.

MEXICO PEACEFUL AGAIN.

The Mexican people suddenly woke up to the fact that they did care to be plunged into a war for the sole purpose of keeping the usurper Huerta, in power. It was a realization of this fact that led Huerta to accept the offer of mediation which was made by the Ministers of the leading South American countries, namely: Argentine, Brazil and Chile. This committee, which is called the A. B. C. committee, has taken hold of the work in earnest and there is much ground for hoping that they will contribute substantially towards the settlement of the Mexican trouble.

HUERTA PREPARING TO FLEE.

It is reported in reliable circles that Huerta is making preparations to hot-foot-it out of Mexico on short notice, and it is not believed that he will attempt to maintain himself in power much longer, as the wealthy people who have hitherto supported him have practically all deserted him, and Mexico will not be a very safe place for him to remain in when he once relinquishes his power.

TOLL QUESTION TO BE AMENDED.

It seems now very certain that when the free toll bill passes the Senate that it will be so amended that the foreign countries will understand that they are not giving any of our rights whatever in repealing the free toll on coastwise shipping through the Panama Canal, and that if in the future we should decide on free toll, that we will again pass the law without consulting any other country. It is quite certain now that the administration bill will pass the Senate by a majority as satisfactory a majority as that which it passed the House. In addition to having the support of the entire Democratic wing of the Senate with few insignificant exceptions, the President also has the ablest republicans of the Senate supporting the measure such as Senators Root of New York, Burton of Ohio, Lodge of Massachusetts and others.

OLD HICKORY CHIPS.

Were it not for women we are told, all troubles would be savages.

This trouble might never have occurred if Gen. Rosy Jones had had the foresight to march on Mexico City.

Teaching Huerta etiquette is like teaching a bear to dance.

Mexico is shocked to find the United States still on the map.

It is just possible, of course, after Conan Doyle meets Wm. J. Burns he'll want to suppress Sherlock Holmes as a book number.

There are many times when a President reads support more than he needs advice.

Any friendly relationship of Huerta, Villa and Carranza, must be in the nature of what Prof. Hous-ton's chemistry experts would describe as an unstable compound.

No doubt a number of people in Mexico City would be willing to put up electric light "Welcome" to United States troops if they arrive ahead of Villa.

There are times when a man must be strong in the courage of his convictions to stand by a manana policy.

Even in the Mexican situation both sides seem to profess an abiding faith in the wisdom of the plain people.

The U. S. Senate continues to be ruthless wielder of the editorial blue pencil.

"We've got the ships, we've got the men, we've got the money, too." Besides we've got the women. The Red Cross is preparing nurses, who are volunteering, and the D. A. R. are looking for a way to help.

Two anarchists, a man and a woman, told a crowd in Park Row New York, that the American flag wasn't worth fighting for. Arranged before the speeches the crowd would have been pronounced a lot of bums, yet the police had to forcibly interfere and arrest the speakers to protect them from their wrath. The country is tolerably safe yet, even in New York City.

Mexicans have a great deal more sense than we give them credit for. A report is circulated in Piedras Negras the other night that a regiment of Texas cowboys was about to cross the border, whereupon the entire garrison of Mexicans, consisting of 1,300 well armed soldiers, and 3,000 volunteers who had just enlisted to fight the "Gringos" fled in disorder.

A MISTAKEN IDEA.

There are some people who still resort to drugged pills or alcoholic spirits to overcome colds, nervousness or general debility, and who know that the pure, unadulterated nourishment in Scott's Emulsion is infinitely better, but refrain from taking it because they fear it will lead to excessive fat or obesity.

This is a mistaken idea, because Scott's Emulsion first strengthens the body before making fat. It is blood-forming properties aid nature to throw off sickness by building health from its very source. Fat is formed only by its continued use. Avoid alcoholic substitutes for SCOTT'S.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation is cured by medicine, and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; cases of ten years standing caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Acid Phosphate in Eastern North Carolina.

W. F. Massey in The Progressive Farmer.

Very many practical farmers here entertain the idea that acid phosphate is injurious rather than beneficial to corn, and have it cut out and use only cotton seed and kaint. Give me your opinion in regard to this? Do you think clover would thrive on the soil here? What kind is best?

I suppose that in a section where phosphate rock is often found, there may be less need for phosphate but I believe that the main reason is that the long continued use of acid phosphate has robbed the soil of lime carbonate and made it acid, and that if the land is limed, it will be shown that acid phosphate will have a good effect. You can grow crimson clover, the annual winter species, if the soil is sweetened with lime, and the seed are inoculated till the soil gets well inoculated for the crop. But no true clover will thrive on acid soil.

When we went to divide the catch my hand had gone to slumber; "If you can't handle yours," she said.

"You can leave mine just your number."

TOBACCO INDUSTRY HIGHLY SPECIALIZED.

Methods of Culture of Types Suited Only to Well Defined Areas Which Supply the Commercial Trade.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Each important tobacco district of the United States produces a type of tobacco for special purposes of manufacturing or export. The methods of growing and handling a crop must vary according to the particular districts where it is grown.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has just issued a bulletin on "Tobacco Culture" which recommends methods for the production of the various American types.

The bulletin emphasizes the fact that over production is a constant menace in all the established centers of tobacco growing, and that the development of the industry in new sections on a large scale is hardly advisable at present.

Another reason why tobacco culture in untried sections may result in failure is that the leaf produced will not be quite right in type, and therefore it will not find a satisfactory market.

The commercial value of tobacco is influenced to a greater degree by particular soil and climatic conditions than is that of almost any other important crop.

This has caused the industry to become highly specialized, and the trade looks regularly to well defined areas for the various types of leaf it requires.

As tobacco grows readily over so large an area it is not strange that many farmers experiment with it and often secure seeming success.

That is, the plants grow readily, but when it comes time to sell the crop the farmer can find no market.

"I have grown five acres of tobacco" a farmer writes from a district where tobacco is not grown for the commercial trade.

"But there seems to be no market. Can the Department of Agriculture help me?"

The Department can only advise this farmer that conditions are such that, even though his product appear to be of good quality, he will probably be unable to market it, as the trade does not recognize his section as a tobacco producing area.

Here we have the difference emphasized between tobacco and a crop like corn for which a market may readily be found no matter where it is grown if the quality is good.

There are three general classes of tobacco described in the new bulletin.

1. Cigar tobaccos. 2. Export tobaccos. 3. Manufacturing tobaccos.

By manufacturing tobaccos are meant all types used in manufacture other than cigars. The manufacturing and export classes, however, have much in common as regards cultural methods, and some types are used in manufacturing two classes are considered together as distinguished from the cigar tobaccos.

Each of these three classes of tobacco may be sub-divided into types, depending on their special uses, methods of growing and curing, or on the variety of seed used.

In the case of cigar tobaccos there are three principal types, corresponding to the three parts of the cigar—wrapper, leaf, filler leaf.

In the case of export tobaccos are such types as the fine-cured, Virginia sun-cured, White Burley, dark fire cured, etc. These various types are produced on certain special types of soil and according to definite methods of growing, curing, and handling the crop.

In some cases the variety of seed used is an important factor. The special uses of the principal types embraced in the three fundamental classes of tobacco are brought out in connection with the cultural directions for the more important types.

A typical district for the culture of cigar tobaccos is the Connecticut Valley. The new bulletin outlines briefly the best cultural methods for this region. Detailed instructions are given on the care of the seed bed, preparing and utilizing the land transplanting and cultivating and harvesting.

The export and manufacturing types of tobacco are grown mainly in Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee, West Virginia, Southern Ohio and Southeastern Indiana.

Best methods for the culture of the various types are explained in the new bulletin.

INSECT ENEMIES OF TOBACCO.

One of the most troublesome and expensive features of tobacco culture, particularly in the Southern districts is the control of numerous insects, which if not combated would oftentimes completely destroy the commercial value of the crop.

Among the more important insects attacking the tobacco plant may be mentioned the tobacco flea-beetle, the tobacco "wire-worm", cutworms, the hornworms or "green worms" and the tobacco budworm. Of these the hornworms or "green worms" are the most destructive.

A New Remedy for Indigestion Gets Country Wide Endorsement.

The new remedy for indigestion called "Dyspepsia" has been found a positive cure for indigestion, and is now being sold in all the leading drug stores.

Letters from thousands who had suffered the tortures of indigestion and got relief from the use of "Dyspepsia" are evidence of its merit. The enormous increase in demand from every part of the country is proof of its popularity. But you do not have to take anybody's word for it—try it yourself on an absolute guarantee. Get a package and if you do not feel your case get your money back for the asking.

"Dyspepsia" is a little tablet easy to swallow and absolutely harmless. It digests the food, and relieves the stomach of gas formation, prevents stomach distress after eating, aids assimilation, and relieves indigestion instantly.

Attitude of America as to Mexico.

Baltimore Sun.

President Wilson's address to Congress makes it plain that he has no intention of plunging this country into war with Mexico. If any plunging is to be done Huerta will have to do it. We have just one issue to settle at present, and that is with the man who seized the government of Mexico as the fruit of assassination, and who refuses to make reparation for the arrest of our sailors at Tampico and the subsequent arrest of a United States mail carrier at Vera Cruz.

What we propose to do, and all that we propose to do in the beginning, is to punish Huerta, the despot, by occupying the two places where these outrages against American citizens occurred.

We are striking back at the usurper who has struck at us, and who has been attacking at law and liberty, constitution and order in Mexico ever since the murder of Madero. We do not admit that he represents Mexico in any true and lawful sense whatever.

President Wilson has steadfastly since the beginning refused to recognize his claim to represent his country. We still refuse to recognize his representative capacity. We are dealing with him as a de facto tyrant government he has usurped.

We are resorting to legitimate retaliation and reprisals against this individual and not against his nation; we are asserting our right to respectful treatment, not invading Mexico.

LESS DYSPEPSIA NOW—HERE'S THE REASON.

The fact that there is less dyspepsia and indigestion in this country than there used to be is largely due to the extensive use of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, hundreds of packages of which we have sold. No wonder we have faith in them. No wonder we are willing to offer them to you for trial entirely at our risk.

Among other things they contain Peppermint, and this is the greatest digestive aid known in medical science. They soothe the inflamed stomach, allay pain, check heartburn and distress, help to digest the food and tend to quickly restore the stomach to its natural comfortable, healthy state.

There is no red tape about our guarantee. It means just what it says. We'll ask you no questions. Your word is enough for us. If Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets don't restore your stomach to health, and make your digestion easy and comfortable, we want you to come back for your money. They are sold only at the Rexall Drug Store and in this town only by Graham Company, 25c, 50c, and $1.00.

Back to Barbarism.

New Bedford Standard.

Hints of the revival of the barbaric in modern alleged-to-be-civilized life, are not difficult to discover. Here is, for example, the favorite accompaniment for the new dance—consisting of piano, drum and cymbals, the drum and cymbals being the essential features of the combination.

This is distinctly a return to the dancing music of the savage, where the tom-tom with possibly a rude flute made all the needed harmony and melody, which was very little.

The accentuation is the important thing, and there is nothing like the drum to produce it. Really the piano is a concession to the spirit of an undue softness of civilization, while the drum is the expression of what some of our modern novel writers are fond of calling "elemental."

Then there is the tall feather, rearing itself aloft from the regis-trar headgear. If the curious in such matters will look over a recent issue of the National Geographical Magazine, where various savage tribes are profusely pictured, they will see the same ornamentation for headgear of the women of queer and picturesque races in remote parts of the earth.

Only in these cases there is the perpetuation of a custom handed down from one generation to another through long periods of time. It is the custom of the country and not a flitting back to the fashion of the moment to ways of long forgotten barbaric ancestry.

And then there is the new passion for adornment with beads. It is not "new," however. That is the wrong word. Again it is "elemental." "All you need," said an observant and plain spoken father, seeing his daughter arrayed in a gorgeous bead necklace of her own fashioning, "all you need to make you an Indian is a war-hoop."

Patience and watchfulness! The fashion of the war-hoop may come along almost any day.

Vera Cruz and Tampico.

Greenboro News.

Vera Cruz is the most important port in Mexico, situated in the State of Vera Cruz—officially Vera Cruz Llave—and the census of ten years ago gave it a population of something less than 30,000.

The capital of the State is not Vera Cruz, but Jalapa. Vera Cruz is 263 miles by rail east of the city of Mexico, built on a flat, sandy, barren beach, only a few feet above sea-level. The surrounding country is low, rank, damp, hot, malarial, humid; there is an immense rainfall. It is a most nauseating hole that the American fleet has got into.

The whole east coast of Mexico is described by the Encyclopedia Britannica as "covered with streams, swamps and lagoons, the abode of noxious insects, pestilential fevers and dysentery."

Tampico—population in 1900, 16,000—is also an old town. It was raided by buccaners in 1623, and 146 years later Santa Anna, then dictator fought a battle there with the Spanish. These two are practically the only times that Tampico has figured in Mexican history. It is the discovery of oil, on the rich borderland that has, in the dawn its modern importance.

EUROPE'S LEAD IN AVIATION.

New York World.

Two German aviators, flying with the wind, have made 100 miles an hour. If that speed could be maintained in continuous flight it would be possible, for instance, to leave New York after a six o'clock breakfast and arrive at Chicago for lunch.

Perhaps Americans are not as a rule aware of the progress being made abroad in aviation under the spur of military competition and necessity. So far America has treated the dirigible more as a toy rather than a possibility in air transportation on a large scale.

The announcement that Gout Zeppelin will visit America next year and bring with him his largest dirigible is interesting.

As regards aeroplanes also, Europe seems at present to be in the lead in developing an invention whose credit belongs to Americans—Wright brothers. M. Sikorsky's biplane has made repeated flights over St. Petersburg and its environs, carrying from eight to sixteen persons, and remaining in the air from one and a half to two hours.

Its passengers were able to move about comfortably in a roomy cabin warmed by the exhaust from the motors, and look down from glass windows lighted at night by electricity, upon the metropolis below.

It has four Argus motors of 100 horse power, and a fifth is to be added to increase its speed. There is also an observation deck on the roof of the cabin, but it will probably be little used until aerial flights become more common and passengers have a secure feeling of safety. The great Russian biplane, in fact, almost completely realizes a ship in air.
