And For Three Summers Mrs. Vincent Was Unable to Attend to Any of Her Housework.

Pleasant Hill, N. C.—"I suffered for three summers," writes Mrs. Vincent, of this town, "and the third and last time, my worst."

I had dreadful nervous headaches and prostration, and was scarcely able to walk about. Could not do any of my housework.

I also had dreadful pains in my back and sides and when one of those weak, sinking spells would come on me I would have to give up and lie down, until it wore off.

I was certainly in a dreadful state of health, when I finally decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I firmly believe I would have died if I hadn't taken it.

After I began taking Cardui, I was greatly helped, and all three bottles relieved me entirely.

I fattened up, and grew so much stronger in three months, I felt like another person altogether."

Cardui is purely vegetable and gentle-acting. Its ingredients have a mild, tonic effect, on the womanly constitution.

Cardui makes for increased strength, improves the appetite, tones up the nervous system, and helps to make pale, sallow cheeks, fresh and rosy.

Cardui has helped more than a million weak women, during the past 50 years. It will surely do for you, what it has done for them. Try Cardui today.

DR. McBRAYER JOINS STATE HEALTH FORCES.

Will Organize and Direct Fight Against Tuberculosis.

The State Board of Health takes a great deal of pride in announcing that Dr. L. B. McBrayer, of Asheville, will be in charge after April 1st, of all the health work directed against tuberculosis, including the management of the Sanatorium. When one recalls the fact that over one-third of all the preventable deaths that occur in North Carolina are caused by tuberculosis, the relative importance of the work entrusted to Dr. McBrayer, is at once apparent.

In addition to directing the work of the Sanatorium, Dr. McBrayer will have charge of the Bureau of Tuberculosis, to which the names and addresses of some 10,000 or 12,000 people suffering from consumption will be reported every year. The Bureau will endeavor through a correspondence course with this consumptive population to aid them in obtaining a cure, and teach them how to live so as not to convey the disease to others. This Bureau will further endeavor to interest political, social and religious organizations in assisting the work of suppressing the great white plague.

As a man Dr. McBrayer is big in all three dimensions—physically, mentally and morally; he is a tireless worker and a deep thinker with a broad view-point. As a citizen, the Doctor has always shown an active interest in the public affairs of the city, county and State. Through his strong personality, and through the columns of the press, he has always been a leader on the side of the people. Only last summer Dr. McBrayer led the fight which resulted in Buncombe county's employing a health officer for his entire term. The fine type of his citizenship is nowhere better illustrated, than in the personal sacrifices the Doctor makes in order to serve his State in its efforts to decrease the ravages of consumption.

As an official Dr. McBrayer's work as health officer in Asheville has attracted national attention, and has correctly advertised Asheville as one of the healthiest cities in the South. To the medical profession in North Carolina Dr. McBrayer needs no introduction. He represents the ethical physician, and the high ideal of the profession. He has always been active in the North Carolina Medical Society, has held many offices in that organization, and is at present a member of the State Board of Medical Examiners.

The Doctor's accession to the executive staff of the State Board of Health is a real encouragement to the health workers in the State.

IDEAS FOR HOME BUILDERS

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 127 Peattie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

A house 36 by 40 feet is just about the right size when you want four bedrooms with good sized living rooms down stairs. It makes a great difference in the cost of building whether you have large rooms or small rooms.

Many times architects are asked to design an eight-room house with no size stipulated, but it is intimated that large rooms are wanted. When the plan is finished and the cost comes within the owner's means, the architect is asked to reduce the size to come within the owner's means.

This is a difficult task. In the first place the owner has got his ideas up to a rather pretentious house and he has decided that he wants four bedrooms, which with bathroom hall and stairway means that he must either have a house about the size of this one or he must cut down the size of the rooms considerably. The decision usually is to make the rooms smaller, but this often alters the general effect in disappointing.

If a person can stand the expense this eight-room house plan is a good one; the proportions are right and the floor space is utilized to the very best advantage for convenience, sanitation and general utility, when considered as a home for a good sized family.

A great deal of time has been devoted to the stairway to make it one of the most complete house stairways ever built. It is easy to look at a stair when finished and admire it, but only architects realize how difficult it is to start with a naked plan and build a clear idea of what the stairs, elevations and specifications really mean. The study of a book of house plans will often result in a building entirely different from the one first decided upon.

There are so many different styles of roofs, for instance, and the roof has a good deal to do with the value of the house. If you like the roof you are almost sure to like the house. It is a sort of introduction from a distance. It is the first thing you see when you approach home at night and the last thing you see upon leaving in the morning. A good roof has a good deal to do with the real value as well as the sentimental value of a dwelling. Some roofs are so made that snow piles up in the corners to melt and freeze and back up the water so you have good many roofs in the snowy northern states where considerable snowing is necessary after heavy snow storms. The roof must not be too plain, and it must not be too fancy. There is more in the general design than in the fancy features.

Next to the general plan and design the conveniences for doing the house work are very important. A person builds a house once and lives in it for years usually. If the range, kitchen sink, pantry, outside door, cellarway and other working conveniences that a woman uses every day are so placed that she takes a few extra steps each time, the amount of unnecessary labor entailed when multiplied by every day in the year amounts to a great deal in the aggregate. Every one likes to see a house look well from the front, but really the most important thing is the culinary department and the accessories thereto.

In this plan these important features have received a great deal of consideration. They are homely subjects but we have formed a national habit of eating about three times a day, and that foods up to more than a thousand meals during the year. Women usually are not adept at figures, but these facts will appeal to every woman who has managed a house as large as this with a family numerous to fill it.
