Colored People Will Celebrate Emancipation Day and Give Ex-Slaves Big Dinner. The colored citizens of Graham met Monday night at the colored Presbyterian church for the purpose of arranging for their Emancipation celebration to be held January 1st, 1915.

Prof. A. S. Hunter was elected Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements.

It was decided to have a big ex-slave day and to give them a big free dinner. In order to do this a committee was appointed to ask for contributions from all the people to assist in making the old ex-slaves feel happy once more, and especially the ex-slave owners. This committee will call for help for this occasion.

SCHOOL NEWS.

The Community Service Days will next claim the attention of the schools. Plans are being made by the several H. L. schools and it looks like great good will be done. In all the work, the footways to the schools should not be neglected. Every way in the way of students to school should be made good by draining or bridging wet places, by removing bushes and the weeds by the wayside, and by covering with sand, cinders or sawdust.

Friday, which is "Carolina Day" in the schools, will deal with present conditions and how they may be improved.

Next Saturday will be wind up day for Community Service and the day for Teachers' School, December. A full attendance is expected and a day of county up-pitral of the county teachers attended the State Teachers' Assembly in Charlotte last week.

The Assembly was conceded by all to be the best in the history of the State. An excellent program with strong new features, largest registration, Miss Mary O. Graham, Assistant Superintendent of Mecklenburg County, presiding, and the presence of the Assembly for the ensuing year.

Alamance and Sampson counties gave the finest demonstration in cooking that was ever given at the Assembly by elementary schools. Four girls of Spring School did the work for Alamance and did it well. They served an elegant menu Thursday afternoon to a dozen guests, including the State Superintendent and the United States Commissioner of Education.
