OVER A MILLION AND A HALF OMEN WORK AS FARM HANDS THE UNITED STATES.

By Peter Radford

Our government never faced so tremendous a problem as that now lying dormant at the doors of congress and the legislatures, and which, when aroused, will shake this nation from center to circumference, and make divilization hide its face in shame That problem is—women in the field.
The last federal, census reports show we now have 1,514,000 women working in the field, most of them south of the Mason and Dixon line. There were approximately a million negro slaves working in the fields negro slaves working in the neits when liberated by the emancipation proclamation. We have freed our slaves and our women have taken their places in bondage. We have broken the shackles off the negroes and welded them upon our daughters.

The Chain-Gang of Civilization.
A million women in bondage in the southern fields form the chain-gang of civilization - the industrial tragedy of the age. There is no overseer quite so cruel as that of unrestrained greed, no whip that stings like the lash of suborned destiny, and no auctioneer's block quite so revolting as that of organized avarice.

The president of the United States was recently lauded by the press, and very properly so, for suggesting mediation between the engineers and railroad managers in adjusting their schedule of time and pay. The engineers threatened to strike if their were not increased from approximately ten to eleven dollars per lay and service reduced from ten to eight hours and a similar readjust ment of the overtime schedule. Our women are working in the field, many of them barefooted, for less than 50 cents per day, and their schedule is the rising sun and the evening star and after the day's work is over they milk the cows, slop the hogs and rock the baby to sleep. Is anyone mediat-ing over their problems, and to whom shall they threaten a strike?

Congress has listened approvingly to those who toil at the forge and be hind the counter, and many of our statesmen have smiled at the threats and have fanned the flame of unrest among industrial laborers. But wom en are as surely the final victims of en are as surely the man victims of industrial warfare as they are the burden-bearers in the war between na-tions, and those who arbitrate and mediate the differences between capital and labor should not forget that when the expenses of any industry are the bill by drafting a new consignment of women from the home to the field. Pinch no Crumb From Women's Crust without someone footing the bill, and we commend to those who accept the responsibility of the distribution of industrial justice, the still small voice of the woman in the field as she pleads for mercy, and we beg that they pinch no crumb from her crust of bread or put another patch upon her ragged

We beg that they listen to the scream of horror from the eagle on every American dollar that is wrung from the brow of toiling women and hear the Goddess of Justice hiss at a verdict that increases the want of woman to satisfy the greed of man. The women behind the counter and in the factory cry aloud for sympathy truth." The president recognising the emergency as extraordinary, con-tinuing, said in part:

"You ask me to call the attention of the country to the imperative need that railway credits be sustained and the railroads helped in every possible way whether by crivate cooperative in the factory cry aloud for sympathy and the press thunders out in their defense and the pulpit pleads for mercy, but how about the woman in the field? Will not these powerful exponents of human rights turn their talent, energies and influence to her relief? Will the Goddess of Liberty enthroned at Washington hold the calloused hand and soothe the feverish brow of her sex who sows and reaps way, whether by private co-operative effort or by the action, wherever feasible of governmental agencies, and I am glad to do so because I think brow of her sex who sows and reaps the nation's harvest or will she permi the male of the species to shove women—weak and weary—from the bread-line of industry to the back alleys of poverty?

Women and Children First.

The census enumerators tell us that of the 1,514,000 women who work in the fields as farm-hands 409,000 are sixfields as farm-hands 409,000 are sixteen years of age and under. What is the final destiny of a nation whose future mothers spend their girthood days behind the plow, pitching hay and hauling manure, and what is to become of womanly culture and refinement that grace the home, charm society and enthuse man to leap to glory in noble achievements if our daughters are raised in the society of the ox and the companionship of the plow?

In that strata between the ages of sixteen and forty-five are 950,000 women working as farm hands and many of them with suckling babes tugging at their breasts, as drenched in perspiration, they wield the scythe and suide the plow. What is to be and guide the plow. What is to become of that nation where poverty breaks the crowns of the queens of the home; despair huris a mother's love from its throne and hunger drives

THE INTERNATIONAL, SERIES.

Text of the Lesson Mark xvi. 1-8: Matt. xxviii, 11-15-Memory Verses. 6. 7-Golden Text, Luke xxiv. 5. 6. Stearns.

The resurrection from the dead i the crowning event in all His work for if Christ be not risen faith is vain preaching is vain, no one is saved; there is no forgiveness of sins (i. L'or. xv. 14-18). But before we consider His resurrection we must look at some incidents in connection with His death and burfal which we have passed over Note the women who ministered to Him, who followed Him, who looked on afar off as He was crucified, who beheld where His dead body was laid and returned and prepared spices to anoint it when the Sabbath was past (Mark xv, 40-47; Luke xxiii, 55).

They loved Him greatly, but did not believe that He would rise from the dead, so those spices were in a measure love's labor lost because of unbelief. Note the pierced side, the blood and water with all their Scriptural suggestions and the fulfilled Scriptures about His being pierced and not a tone broken (John xix, 31-37; Zech xii, 10; Ex. xii, 46). The boldness of Joseph and Nicode mus at a time when all others seemed to fall, the new tomb, the loving ministry and the fulfilled Scripture concerning His grave being with the rich in His death are a fascinating record (Luke xxiii, 50-53; John xix, 38-42; Isa. liii, 9). It would appear from Matt. xxvii.

62-66, that some of the Pharisees remembered, as His disciples did not. that He had spoken of rising again after three days and therefore they had His tomb sealed. Our lesson verses give us only the beginning of the resurrection story. They tell us of the coming of the women to the tomb very early in the morning on the first day of the week to anoint His body, wondering who would roll away the stone for them. How often we find the stone which we thought would hinder us rolled away when we reach the place! We read of an earthquake when He died, but this is another one resurrection (Matt. xxvii, 54; xxviii, 2).

Inanimate nature is moved by these In rescuing our citizens from the forces of civilization, can we not apply to our fair Dixleland the rule of the sea—"women and children first?" events while the heart of man remains harder than the rocks. Some day we shall see these angels, whose countenances are like lightning and their raiment white as snow, and we, too. shall shine as the sun (Matt. xxviil. 3-4; xiii, 43). We should be reflecting more of His glory now in these mortal bodies (II Cor. iii, 18). How beautiful it is that the first word from the angel to these devoted women was "fear not" or "be not" affrighted (verses 5, its organized forces squarely behind the issue and we now enter upon the docket of civilization the case of "The 6; Matt. xxviii, 5, 6). So He Himself said to the other women after He had appeared to Mary, as He allowed them to hold Him by the feet and worship Him, "Be not afraid; go tell My brethren" (Matt. xxviii 9, 10). With similar words He spoke to the disciples in the upper room that even-ing, saying: "Peace be unto you. Why are ye troubled? Behold my hands and my feet that it is I Myself" (Luke xxiv, 36-40. Even though we fall and fersake Him He has only words of peace and comfert for us. Matthew and Mark speak of one angel; Luke and John speak of two, but there is no discrepancy, for if there were two there was certainly one, whether the disciples or women saw one or two Neither is there any discrepancy in the seemingly different positions of the angels, for they can move about more easily than we can. The words of the angel concerning Jesus. "He is risen.

He is not here" (verse 6), are some times used by ministers at a funeral concerning the dead, but that is a wrong use of the words, for they refer resurrection, not to the burial How very gracious it was of the Lord to tell the angel to send by the woman a special message to Peter and then to give Peter a special personal interview (verse 7; Luke xxiv, 34) after all his base denial of his Master. rise again, and yet when the women told the disciples that He was risen their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not (Luke xxiv. 6-11). Mark xvi. 9, says that Jesus appeared first to Mary Magda-lene, but the full record of that ap-pearance is found in John xx. 1-17.

pearance is found in John xx, 1-17.

Is not His appearing first to her another illustration of the same great truth that we saw in His giving Peter a special personal interview? She was blinded by tears of unbelief, but one word from Him opened her eyes. A peculiar thing in her case was His "Touch Me not" when He afterward allowed the other women to hold Him by the feet.

To my mind the reason He gave her was clear and plain. "For I am not yet secended to My Father" (John xx. 17).

Another wonderful thing that on His way to His Father in His resurrection body as our high priest He should stop to speak to her and comfort her. Hay ing ascended and returned. He could then let others touch and handle Him as He did the others and the discip that evening.

Men can neither be free no brave without food and amm and money is as important a factor in war as blood. Many monument have been erected in honor of heroe slain in battles, poems have been writ-ten eulogizing their noble deeds and the nation honors its soldiers while they live and places a monument upon their graves when they die, but very little has been said of the dollar that bears the burdens of war. By Peter Radford Lecturer National Farmers' Union.

King Cotton has suffered more from the European war than any other ag ricultural product on the American continent. The shells of the belliger continent. The shells of the beinger-ents have bursted over his throne, frightening his subjects and shatter-ing his markets, and, panic-stricken, the nation cries out "God save the contributed their mite toward rescue work. Society has danced before the king; milady has decreed that the family wardrobe shall contain only cotton goods; the press has plead with the public to "buy a bale"; bankers have been formulating holding plans; congress and legislative bodies have deliberated over relief measures; statesmen and writers have grown eloquent expounding the inalienable rights of "His Majesty" and presenting schemes for preserving the financial integrity of the stricken staple, but the sword of Europe has proved mightier than the pen of America is fixing value upon this product of the sunny south. Price-

have been bayoneted, values fiddled and markets decimated by the battling hosts of the eastern hemisphere until the American farmer has suffered a war loss of $400,000,000, and a bale of cotton brave enough to enter a European port must pay a ransom of half its value of go to prison until the Hope of the Future Lies in Co-oper

The Farmers' Union, through the columns of the press, wants to thank the American people for the triend-ship, sympathy and assistance given the cotton farmers in the hour of dis-tress and to direct attention to cooperative methods necessary to pe manently assist the marketing farm products.

The present emergency presents as grave a situation as ever confronted the American farmer and from the viewpoint of the producer, would seem to justify extraordinary relief measures, even to the point of bending the constitution and straining business wiles in order to lift a portion of the rules in order to lift a portion of the burden off the backs of the farm for unless something is done to check the invasion of the war forces upon the cotton fields, the pathway of the European pestilence on this continent will be strewn with mortgaged homes and famine and poverty will stalk over the southland, filling the highways of industry with refugees and the bankruptcy court with prisoners.

All calamities teach us lessons and the fralities of our marketing methods and the weakness of our credit system, and out of the financial angulsh and travail of the cotton farmer will come a volume of discussion and nent and satisfactory basis unless we build warehouses, cold storage plant elevators, etc., for without storage and credit facilities, the south is comat harvest time. The Farmers' Unions in the cotton producing states have taken in Petrograd to mean that Cra for the past ten years persistently ad cow will not bar the Russian advance vocated the construction of storage facilities. We have built during this with the Austrian army beaten, it wil period 2,000 warehouses with a cabe be necessary only to mask the fort pacity of approximately 4,000,000 bales resses. looking backward the results would seem encouraging, but looking forward, we are able to house less than one-third of the crop and ware houses without a credit system lose 90 per cent of their usefulness. The problem is a gigantic one—too great for the farmer to solve unaided. He must have the assistance of the banker, the merchant and the government. In production we have reached the high water mark of perfection in the world's history, but our marketing methods are most primitive. In the dawn of history we find agriculture plowing with a forked stick but with a system of warehouses under govern mental supervision that made the Egyptians the marvel of civilization, for who has not admired the vision of Joseph and applauded the wisdom of Pharaoh for storing the surplus until demanded by the consumer, but in this age we have too many Josephs who dream and not enough Pharachs

An interesting report from Field Marshal Sir John French covering the period of the battle in Flanders and the days immediately preceding it, shows that this battle was brought about, first by the Allies' attempts to outflank the Germans who counter and then by their plans to move to the northeast to Ghent and Bruges, which also failed.
