

It Always Helps

says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill.

I wish every suffering woman would give a trial. I still use Cardui when I feel a little bad, and it always does me good."

Headache, backache, side ache, nervousness, tired, worn-out feelings, etc., are sure signs of womanly trouble. Signs that you need Cardui, the woman's tonic. You cannot make a mistake in trying Cardui for your trouble. It has been helping weak, ailing women for more than fifty years.

MAKING WAR ON BILLBOARD

American Civic Association Regards it as Objectionable Form of Advertising.

From its very institution, the American Civic association has devoted itself to the protection of the public against three great nuisances—moores, poles and billboards. At the annual convention of the association in Washington one of the important subjects discussed was billboards, with a principal address, entitled "The Passing of the Signboard," by Jesse Lee Bennett of Baltimore in which he recounted the steps that had been taken for the legal control of the billboard in all parts of the United States.

Concerning the sentiment against the billboard, Mr. Bennett said: "The feeling against the signboard has become nation-wide and in the past few years the agitation for its removal has been so successful as to awaken resentment against it so widespread that, from coast to coast and in almost every state and city, there are now, or have been, vigorous movements seeking the abolition or regulation of these unnecessary and disgusting objects.

"There has been much agitation, and from it there has been distilled one thing—the recognition of the fact that what is called the signboard problem is a question more complex than the mere removal of the signs. The signboard has been found to be inextricably interwoven with two questions of even greater importance—The awakening of civic sentiment and the recognition by legislators and judges of the validity of arguments based upon esthetic considerations.

"Commenting on what ought to be the attitude of the law and the courts toward the billboard, he added: "It would take our psychologist but a few minutes to show that it is not a question of ear, or nose, or eye, but a question of the brain and of the very consciousness of the life itself. No law should permit any man to intrude or force himself on his business into another man's consciousness to the extent that outdoor advertising has come to permit, an intrusion immeasurably increased by the fact that it is impossible to avoid seeing signboards."

SERVED A DOUBLE PURPOSE

Scheme of New York Man Improved Appearance of Garden and Protected Birds.

Bird lovers often find it a most difficult problem to devise means to prevent neighborhood cats from frightening away their feathered pets and robbing the nests of their young. A New York man who makes his garden an aviary, and who at the same time is not a hater of cats, planted climbing roses about the base of the poles supporting his bird houses.

"By these added to the appearance of the garden, they also served very efficiently in keeping cats from crawling up the posts. The birds, understanding their security, were no longer frightened from their nests.—Popular Mechanics.

"The senator writes as follows: 'As you are aware, members of congress are furnished with vegetable and flower seed and farm bulletins on home gardening, for distribution among their constituents. If anyone desires vegetable and flower seeds, or the bulletins on home gardening, and will drop me a postal, I shall gladly send them what they desire.'

GERMANY RUSHING MEN TO FLANDERS

CONSIDERABLE SUCCESSES ARE BELIEVED TO FORDERUN A BIG EFFORT.

BRITISH HOLDING POSITIONS

Frankfurter Zeitung Justifies Use of Asphyxiating Bombs on Ground That Allies Used Them.

London.—The German rushes in Flanders and the Woivre, where they claim considerable successes, are believed to be forerunners of another big effort to break through the Allied lines in the West. For many days Belgium has been sealed, from the observation of neutrals, while German reinforcements are being moved to the South to take part in the new offensive, which they hope to carry them to Calais. The attack in Flanders, originally leveled at the French, has been transferred to the British lines held by the Canadians on the immediate right of the French and the Allies' counter-attacks continue with success and that the British front has been engaged in a deadly contest with the Germans. The Germans claim further progress toward Ypres and that British counter-attacks have been repulsed. The French, on the other hand, declare the Allies' counter-attacks continue with success and that the British front has been engaged in a deadly contest with the Germans. The Germans claim further progress toward Ypres and that British counter-attacks have been repulsed. The French, on the other hand, declare the Allies' counter-attacks continue with success and that the British front has been engaged in a deadly contest with the Germans.

The German attack in the Woivre, the French hills was directed against the French positions southwest of Cambrai, and according to Berlin, the French suffered a heavy defeat. Paris, however, says that in a counter-attack the Germans were driven out of the French first line which they had pushed back to the German position in the East transferred a large number of troops to the West to make another big effort which shows they are not content to rely on a passive policy.

It is believed that a half million new German troops have reached Flanders and the more guns and material arms to be used were provided for the original attempt to destroy the Allied armies in the West—attempts which met with failure both in August and in October.

JAPAN'S ATTITUDE POPULAR.

Public Opinion Justifies Firmness in Dealing With China.

Tokyo.—The Government's firm attitude in pressing its demands on China is meeting with widespread approval in Japan and public opinion is manifesting itself with increasing force in this direction.

Although Parliament is not in session, many members of the National Legislature are lending active support to the Government. One hundred members placed themselves on record as favoring Japan's demands. They laid special emphasis on the demands for railway and mining concessions and provisional supervision of the financial affairs of the province of eastern Mongolia. Asserting that Japan is actuated by a desire to bring about permanent peace in the Orient the legislators urged the Government to proceed firmly with its program.

THE EARTH'S INTERIOR A REGION FOR SPECULATION.

A strictly scientific contribution to knowledge, in the form of a discussion of some of the results incidental to the triangulation work done by the Coast and Geodetic Survey, is presented by Grove Karl Gilbert of the United States Geological Survey, in a short paper on "Interpretation of Anomalies of Gravity," recently published by the Biological Survey as Part C of Professional Paper 85.

The speculative nature of this scientific contribution is well expressed by Mr. Gilbert in the few sentences that introduce the section discussing interpretation by nuclear heterogeneity.

"The inner earth is the inalienable playground of the imagination. Once it contained the forges of blacksmith gods or the birthplace of our race, or the home of disembodied spirits, or a vast habitable empire, conceive like the world of Koresk. Science now claims exclusive title, but holds it chiefly for speculative purposes; and the freedom of speculation practically recognizes but two limitations: The inner earth is dense and it is rigid. As to all other properties opinion is untrammelled. If it is my own view that the inner part of the nucleus is not merely hot, but very hot. If the law of compression by pressure and the law of expansion by heat, as we know them at the surface, apply equally to the nucleus then the mass temperature of the earth must be enormous. In order to afford a mean density so low as 5.5, an enormous temperature implies an enormous store of heat.

Lesson V.—Second Quarter, For May 2, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Test of the Lesson, I Sam. xix, 1-12; Memory Verses, 4, 5—Golden Text, Prov. xxix, 25—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The work of the devil is not a pleasant meditation, but it is necessary that we should know our great adversary so as to successfully resist him. The topic of the lesson today is Saul trying to kill David, and ever since Cain killed Abel the devil has been very busy killing people. He is spoken of in Heb. ii, 14, as having the power of death; but, although he has been permitted to follow his occupation so long, the time will come when he shall be sent to the lake of fire forever and there shall be no more death on this earth (Rev. xx, 10; xxi, 4; I Cor. xv, 26). Meantime it is the believer's privilege to be delivered from fear of death and from all bondage in connection therewith (Matt. x, 28; Heb. ii, 15). All envy and jealousy, and strife are also of the devil and should not be tolerated in a believer (Jas. iii, 14-16; Eph. iv, 30, 31).

Although chapter xix or a part of it is our lesson chapter, we must look at xvii for the connection. The first four verses of chapter xvii are thrillingly beautiful in their assurance and manifestation of the love of Jonathan and David, but we shall come to that topic in our next lesson. After David's victory over Goliath Saul set him over the men of war, and he was accepted in the sight of all the people, and the women sang his praises, magnifying him much more than Saul (xvii, 5-7). This made Saul angry and jealous, and twice he tried to kill David with a javelin, but each time David escaped (xvii, 8-11). While God may allow his saints to be sorely tried, persecuted and even slain, no real evil can befall them, for, in the resurrection they shall be as manifestly without injury as were Daniel's friends when they came out of the furnace or Daniel himself when he came out of the lion's den.

Because the Lord was manifestly with David and he behaved himself wisely or prospered, xvii, 5, 14, margin) Saul became afraid of him, removed him from being head of the army and made him captain over a thousand. But all Israel and Judah loved David (xvii, 12-16). The rest of chapter xvii tells how Saul sought to get rid of him by subtlety; but, failing in that scheme, he became David's continual enemy. Chapter xix opens with a command to Jonathan and to all the servants that they should kill David, but Jonathan advised him to hide a little while until he could talk with his father. The result of this interview was that Saul swore to Jonathan that he would not be slain, so Jonathan brought him back, and he was in Saul's presence as in times past (xix, 1-7). So far so good, but a man liable to give way to an evil spirit at any moment cannot be trusted. How sadly suggestive the opening words of verse 8. "And there was war again." So it has been, and so it shall be until the devil is removed from the earth and the air, and the whole age in which we are now living is described by our Lord as a time of wars and rumors of wars, famines, pestilences and earthquakes (Matt. xxiv, 6, 7), but the time will come when the nations shall be at rest, and so it shall be until the devil is removed from the earth and the air, and the whole age in which we are now living is described by our Lord as a time of wars and rumors of wars, famines, pestilences and earthquakes (Matt. xxiv, 6, 7), but the time will come when the nations shall be at rest, and so it shall be until the devil is removed from the earth and the air, and the whole age in which we are now living is described by our Lord as a time of wars and rumors of wars,
