Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 2.—Raily Day at Chapel Hill was a great success. Over three hundred persons from all parts of Orange county flocked into town early in the morning, bringing with them exhibits of all kinds and descriptions. The residents of Chapel Hill and and the University faculty and the student body united in giving the visitors a rousing welcome.

The size of the crowd, the number and variety of the exhibit on-these in the opinion of the promoter of the Raily Day plan, Prof. M. C. S. Noble, were the significant features of the day, but the day was also significant in another way—t marked the abandonment of an eff custom. Hitherto Memorial Hail has been opened to the public twice a year—on University Day and at Commencement To-day it was used as a place to exhibit Orange county products. And these products included not only farm products included not only farm products included samples of fancy cooking, fancy needlework, school exhibits, and antique pieces of croaxery, metal and wood.

The Rally Day exercises were opened by an automobile parade, the machines for the occasion being furnished by the citizens of Chape, Hill. This as followed by an entertainment given by several University students. At 12 oclock dinner was served on the green below the chapel. The farmers wives produced great heaping baskets of chicken, sandwiches, cakes, pies and tarts, and the ladies of the town also contributed to the supply.

After dinner moving pictures were shown free of charge. These were shown free of charge.

At 2.30 p. m., prizes were distributed to the winners in the exhibit con-test. Following this was a sing-ing contest by the various rural Sunday Schools. The day closed with a series of athletic contests.

weeks before spring transplanted trees could become established.

The principal caution with respect to fall set trees is to insist that the nursery stock be allowed to ripen fully. This it cannot do, as the practice of "stripping" or releval of the leaves before maturity is done. It is also highly desirable to protest all newly set trees against rabbifs and mice. The best plan is to use galvanized hardware cloths of one-half inch mesh to cover the trunks from an inch or two below the surface of the soil up to a height of eighteen inches to two feet. These guards should be four or five inches in dinneter when set, so they may be jeft in place for several years and thus continue the protection until the bark becomes too rough and tough to attract rabbits and mice.

we in our country have striven for thirty or forty years to administer the law in the full understanding that it is really secondary to interest time. We started with the idea that a court of justice is intended to administer justice. THE LAW IS THERE FOR THOSE TO STUDY WHO WISH TO GIVE ADVICE AND WHO WISH TO FOLLOW THE SAFE COURSE AND FOR JUDGES TO UNDERSTAND IN ORDER TO HAVE THE PRINCIPLES IN PASSING ON PACTS

Speaking for myself, I am strongly impressed day by day with the undesirability of the constant reporting of decisions which lay down no new principles, but only repeat the application of old principles to new

COME to you intent solely upon saying that a large and intelligent body of our people are so thoroughly aroused over the use that is being made of the armaments of Europe and of the threat against our security which that use implies that they have determined at whatever cost to place this land beyond the reach of military devastation.

Those who compose these bodies for which I speak abbor war and detest that spirit which would make of military domination the chief object of a nation's thought; also they deny the validity of the doctrine that would make of the civilian the pawn of a military caste and assert that a free civil life should be the chief aim of national existence.

Solution of Social Problems More Important

Than War Munitions

By Rev. Dr. WILLIAM P. MERRILL, New York Member

THERE is in this country at the present time a tremendous need of what we may call social preparedness, whether for war or for any other serious emergency in the national life, which is far more important than the possession of the means of fighting and which means the existence of unity, contentment and loyalty among our people.

WE NEED A DEEP, SINCERE CONFIDENCE IN THE IDEALS OF OUR NATION AND IN THE WORTH OF THE NATIONAL INSTITUTIONS.

It must be possible to solve better than we have done the perplexing problems that cluster about the presence of immigrants in great throngs—the methods of making them into thoroughgoing, loval Americans.

If we want our country to stand before the world prepared for any emergency the future may hold, far more important than munitions, troops and ships is the wise and just solution of our social and industrial problems, the union of clashing elements in our population, the adjustment of differences, the wiping out of bitterness and the ESTABLISHMENT ALL THROUGH OUR SOCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL LIFE OF A JUSTICE SO PATENT THAT NONE BUT THE UNJUST CAN QUESTION IT.

To my mind it is a ressor on the necessity of 'ceeping one's self wholly for God in every particular and of being willing to submit cheerfully to difficult circumstances for His sake. In chapter x, 2, 3, Daniel says that for three weeks he did without pleasant bread or flesh or wine, while he mourned and waited upon God for a special purpose, implying that he did not al-ways see the necessity of denying him-self food that could have the blessing of God. As to the sin of intemperance or self indulgence in any matter, the or self indulgence in any matter, the teaching of scripture is very plain, and the filthiness and beastliness of strong drink could scarcely be more vividly described or condemned than in Isa. v., 11, 12, 22, 23; xxviii, 7, 8. The only edy is in Christ Jesus, who alon can forgive sin and give the sinner new nature and such a purpose t keep one's self wholly for Him a Daniel had.

Though he stood before the earthly king in a place of honor, he stood more consciously before the King of kings, for whose cake he in his old age wen to the lion's den rather than dis furnace rather than bow down to any image which man might set up. No prayerfully dilizent in their Chaldean studies, but God gave them knowledge and skill in all learning and wisdom, and the gave Paniel understanding in all visions and dreams, so that these young men were ten times better than all the magicians and astrologers in the magicines and astrologers in the whole realin (verses 17, 20); On three different occasions related in this book, when all the wisdom of Baby-lon's wise men fatted, Daniel did not fall once because his God never failed so and a purpose of near to see no see on the supproval may know the power of God as others cannot. The whole cost of salvation fell upon Jesus Christ, and we receive freely what He so fully provided and paid for. But to be His faithful attentions, we must have the devotion.

I am very glad to nave the privilege righteousness. He is mentioned by the Lord Jesus in Matt. xxiv, 15, in preceding the return of the Lord in His glory, to which Daniel also refers in chapters ix, 27; xll. I. We recently saw a little captive maid glorifying the God of Israel under very trying circumstances, and in this lesson we the God of Israel under difficulties. The Lord permitted this oppression and capitivity because of the sin of Judah and gave Jehotakim and some of the people and some of the vessels of the house of God into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar. king of Babylon, and among the capitives were these four young men of royal blood, who were chosen to stand in the king's Palace and to be taught the learning and and to be taught the learning and tongue of the Chaldeans that they course of preparation for their calling, and as to their food they were nour-ished from the king's table daily the same ment and wine which he are and At least that was the provision made for them. It was humiliat ing for an Israelite to be a captive. It was hundliating to have their beautiful Jewish names, each of which had in them a suggestion of the true Goo of Jehovah, changed to names sugges tive of idols (verses 6, 7). But this they could bear without any sin on their part. Our Lord Jesus Christ Himself was taken prisoner, bound and led by His captors as they pleased.

They also called Him a devil and Beelzebub and said that He was beside Himself. So in these two particulars they were foreshadowing the sufferings of Christ.

When we suffer in these ways we have fellowship with Him in His sufferings. When it came to eating and drinking that which had been offered to idols Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself, and no doubt he had prayed to his God about this. He asked permission of the about this. He asked permission of the prince of the enunchs that he and his friends might be excused from receiving the food from the king's table and be given very plain fare, which had not passed that way, asking that they might be proved for ten days. The same God who permitted them thus far to suffer for His sake now gave them favor in the sight of this man, and he consented to prove them. At the end of ten days they were fairer and fatter in fiesh than those who did and fatter in fiesh than those who did and fatter in less than thisse who are eat the portion of the king's meat, so it was kept from them, and they were given the plain fare, which had not been offered to klobs. Our responsibilities are heavy, and the future is not clear. There is but one safe course; we must prepare adequately, for there is an old Latin proverb which says, "It is better to be always prepared than to suffer once."

SEED WHEAT.

There is little or no seed wheat coming into the markets owing to the damage by dampness. It is moldy, sprouted, shrunken, rusted, smatted, and much of its rotten. Reports of heating in the bin come from every direction. Germination tests show that much of the seed is of low vitality and should be selected with ansual cars.

Therefore it is necessary that every farmers' cub and every farmer cub and every farmer cub and every commercial club in the winter wheat belt must sound the alarm in each locality to locate good seed which will arrive. Select the variety of the seed best adapted to soft and etimate. If it is necessary to import seed get as many as possible to grow the same vaciety. Fan out all trash, weed seeds, and treat for smut with formaldehyde.
