says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill.

AMERICAN SEAMAN WAS AMONG LOST WHEN SUBMARINE SHELLS SMALL BOAT

Crew Left Sinking Steamer and Were Fired Upon in Their Boats.

LONDON ISSUES STATEMENT. BALTIMORE BOY WAS KILLED

Richard Wallace, of Baltimore, Was Among Those Killed; British Steamer or Eavesstone Left Newport News December 25th.

London.—The British steamer Eavesstone, 1,791 tons, has been sunk and the captain and four members of the crew killed, says an announcement by Lloyd's. It is officially announced that Richard Wallace, an American seaman, belonging to Baltimore, was killed in the shelling of the boats which left the sinking steamer.

The official statement says that the survivors of the Eavesstone, who were landed report that their ship was sunk by shells from a German submarine. The crew abandoned the sinking vessel and the submarine then shelled the boats in which they took refuge, killing the captain and three seamen and severely wounding the second mate.

The official statement says: "Survivors of the steamship Eavesstone, who landed today, report that their ship was sunk by shells from a German submarine. The crew abandoned the sinking ship and were shelled in their boats by the submarine."

"The master and three seamen were thus killed and the second mate was severely wounded. Among the killed was Richard Wallace of Baltimore."

The steamer Eavesstone sailed from Newport News December 25th for Liverpool. Her subsequent movements have not been recorded in available shipping registers.

BERLIN ACCEPTS BREAK WITH UNITED STATES CALMLY.

Press Comment is Moderate and Expresses No Surprises

Berlin, via London.—The morning newspapers treat the breach in diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany as a matter of great gravity, but all the editorials are pitched in a calm and moderate tone. The avoidance of insulting language and cutting epithets is especially noticeable. Most of the newspapers say the news created no surprise, some of them explaining that this step was expected in view of President Wilson's message of last April and others that it was anticipated in view of the President's "continual siding with the Entente since the war began."

All the newspapers strongly reject the imputation that Germany has broken her promise made in her note of May 4, laying stress upon the fact that Germany's promise was expressly conditioned on President Wilson's success in bringing England to an observance of the laws of Nations.

A number of the papers adopt the regretful tone over the wreck of the old friendship between the two countries, which they say Germany risked only because her life interests were at stake. It is generally assumed by the newspapers that the United States will make an early declaration of war against Germany, for they say the submarine campaign can hardly be prosecuted without the loss of some American lives.

While the entrance of the United States into the ranks of Germany's enemies would be highly regrettable, the newspapers say the country must meet this danger as the lesser of two evils. The danger of the United States as a war factor is treated as comparatively unimportant, owing to the remoteness of the area of war and the time that would be required to create an army. The opinion is evinced in some quarters that the submarine will decide the war before the United States can take an active hand.

IMMIGRATION BILL PASSED OVER VETO

WAS FIRST VETO OF PRESIDENT WILSON TO BE OVERRIDDEN. BY CONGRESS.

THREE TO ONE IN THE SENATE

Japan's Protest Against Asiatic Exclusion Section Disregarded—International Situation Up.

Washington.—Congress has overridden a veto by President Wilson for the first time, and enacted into law immigration bill with its long-fought literacy test provision. The Senate voted 62 to 19 to pass the measure notwithstanding the veto and in spite of eleventh hour information that Japan again had protested against the language of the Asiatic exclusion section.

The House overturned the veto by a vote of 287 to 106, so the Senate's action ends the contest of 20 years' standing in which three presidents have repudiated similar bills passed by Congress.

The international situation was brought into the closing debate in the Senate, Senator Reed calling attention to the Japanese objection and pleading that nothing be done at this time to disturb or impair the country's relations with a friendly nation. Senator Smith, of South Carolina, chairman of the Immigration Committee, answered with the declaration that the present state of international affairs emphasized the necessity of a pure, homogeneous American people such as the bill was intended to protect.

How They Voted.

The vote on re-passage of the bill was as follows:

To override the veto:

Democrats—Ashurst, Bankhead, Beckham, Bryan, Chamberlain, Chilton, Culberson, Fletcher, Hardwick, Hughes, James, Johnson, Maine; Kern, Kirby, Lane, Lee, Martin, Myers, Overman, Phelan, Pittman, Pomerehne, Robinson, Sharroth, Sheppard, Shields, Simmons, Smith of Georgia; Smith, of South Carolina; Thomas, Tillam, Underwood, Vardaman, Williams—34.

Republicans—Borah, Brady, Clapp, Cummins, Curtis, Dillingham, Fall, Gallinger, Grona, Harding, Jones, Kent, La Follette, Lodge, McCumber, Nelson, Norris, Page, Penrose, Poinsett, Smoot, Sterling, Sutherland, Townsend, Wadsworth, Watson, Weeks, Works—25.

Total, 62.

Against overriding the veto:

Democrats—Hollis, Husting, Johnson, of South Dakota; Lewis, Marshall, Baldwin, Reed, Scalesbury, Stone, Thompson, Walsh—11.

Republicans—Brandages, Clark, Colt, Day, Lippitt, Sherman, Smith, of Michigan; Warren—8.

Total 19.

Senator Phelan, who voted to override the veto, had voted against original passage of the bill. Senators who voted for the original bill, but would not vote to pass it over the veto, were Hollis, Johnson of South Dakota and Thompson, Democrats; and Sherman and Smith of Michigan, Republicans.

WILSON CONVEYS NEWS OF BREAK TO LAWMAKERS

President Tells Congress of Severance of Diplomatic Relations.

RECITES KAISER'S PROMISES

Says He Refuses to Believe Submarine Will Commit Overt Acts Against American Lives and Ships.

Washington, Feb. 8.—President Wilson this afternoon addressed a joint session of congress, outlining the events that led up to the diplomatic break with Germany. He said: "To the congress, February 3, 1917. Gentlemen of the Congress:

"The Imperial German government on the 21st of January announced to this congress and to the governments of the other neutral nations that on and after the 1st day of February, the present month, it would adopt a policy with regard to the use of submarines against all shipping seeking to pass through certain designated areas of the high seas which it is clearly my duty to call your attention.

"Let me remind the congress that on the 18th of April last, in view of the sinking on the 24th of March of the cross Channel passenger steamer Sussex by a German submarine, without summons or warning, and the consequent loss of the lives of several citizens of the United States, who were passengers aboard her, this government addressed a note to the Imperial German government in which it made the following declaration:

"If it still be the purpose of the Imperial government to prosecute relentless and indiscriminate warfare against vessels of commerce by the use of submarines without regard to what the government of the United States must consider the sacred and indisputable rules of international law and the universally recognized dictates of humanity, the government of the United States is at last forced to the conclusion that there but one course it can pursue. Unless the Imperial government should now and immediately declare and effect an abandonment of its present methods of submarine warfare against passenger and freight carrying vessels, the government of the United States can have no choice but to sever diplomatic relations with the German empire altogether."

Recalls Assurance Given By Germany.

"In reply to this declaration the Imperial German government gave this government the following assurance: "The German government is prepared to do its utmost to confine the operations of the war for the rest of its duration to the fighting forces of the belligerents, thereby also assuring the freedom of the seas, a principle upon which the German government believes, now as before, to be in agreement with the government of the United States.

"The German government, guided by these ideas, notifies the government of the United States that the German naval forces have received the following orders: In accordance with the general principles of visit and search and destruction of merchant vessels recognized by international law, such vessels, both within and without the area declared as naval war zone, shall not be sunk without warning and without saving human lives, unless these ships attempt to escape or offer resistance.

"But," it added, "neutrals cannot expect that Germany, forced to fight for her existence, shall, for the sake of neutral interests, restrict the use of an effective weapon if her enemy is permitted to continue to apply the methods of warfare violating the rules of international law. Such a demand would be incompatible with the character of neutrality, and the German government is convinced that the government of the United States does not make such a demand, knowing that the government of the United States has repeatedly declared that it is determined to restore the principle of the freedom of the seas, from whatever quarter it has been violated."

CHICKENS WITH WEAK LEGS

Trouble Caused by Feeding Young Fowls Too Much Protein or Too Much Meat in Brooder.

Leg weakness in chickens is caused by feeding the young chicks too much protein, or too much heat in the brooder. In case the brooder is overheated reduce the temperature but not to a degree that will make the chicks uncomfortable. In case the difficulty is caused through excess of protein, increase the ash by feeding oyster shells. Leg weakness generally is overcome when conditions are changed by proper feeding methods.

CONCRETE BLOCK OF GREAT VALUE

Enables Builder to Get Effects at a Comparatively Slight Expense.

LENDs ITSELF TO NOVELTY

Beautiful Facings Easy to Make Without Costly Work of Masons—Bungalow Shows What May Be Done With Material.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford, an answer to questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 127 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp reply.

Since concrete blocks have found their way into the field of home construction the architect has been furnished with a greatly increased range of finishing effects which may be used without involving a prohibitive cost to the owner. As a first consideration, the concrete block may be made almost any shape, and novel masonry is obtained without the necessity of a great deal of chipping and shaping of the blocks by the mason. It is not necessary to use blocks having a monotonous size and shape, for all up-to-the-minute concrete building block manufacturers are aware of the possibilities which their product offers, and equipment for the casting of a variety of sizes and shapes is now installed in their plants.

A second consideration which has placed the concrete block in favor among those who desire a thoroughly high-grade exterior finish is found in the beautiful facings which may be made an integral part of the block. This feature is a development which is largely responsible for the widening field which the concrete building block serves. Closely allied with the use of various crushed natural stones in the facings is the development and use of white cement, which may be used either alone or in combination with a number of pigments, resulting in the production of any shade of a number of colors.

The use of these materials enables the manufacturer to produce very close imitations of highly expensive stone at a reasonable cost. Marble, granite, sandstone and limestone may be imitated with such exactness that there is nothing gained in the use of the true material. The surface of the faced block is, as a rule, finished in one of two ways. After the cement has taken its initial set, the crushed stone is exposed by the use of water and a steel wire brush. This surface is rough and produces much the same effect which is obtained by the use of rough natural stone. These stones which are capable of taking a polish in their natural state may be closely imitated by the use of the crushed material, which is allowed to set firmly in the face of the block, and then the surface is planed down smooth and polished. In addition to these two methods of facing it is possible to tool the surface of the block in any desired way.

In the structure, the block may be used to carry out the effect which the home builder is striving for. One man may be pleased with the massive effect obtained by the use of large blocks in the exterior structure. Another finds his desires realized in the combination of concrete blocks with other building materials. In the latter class of buildings an effect which has been well demonstrated by the use of ornamental brick may be obtained with equal success by the use of concrete blocks in the construction of the porch on a frame house.

The illustrations present a bungalow which has been designed with a porch of distinctive concrete blocks. In this case the architect has found it possible to greatly improve the appearance of the structure by including the chimney in the porch effect. The facing used is composed of marble chippings and white cement. The surface of the block is left rough, the marble being exposed by the steel brush. Two sizes are used in the walls and special-size blocks are cast for the porch rail. The work is laid up in alternate wide and narrow courses and is pointed with dark-colored mortar. The heavy columns of the porch are balanced by the chimney, which is largely responsible for the manner in which the porch seems to blend into the house design.

Extension of the rather extensive white surface of the porch and chimney, it is necessary that the trim be white throughout. The dark stained surface of the shingle-covered walls stands in pleasing contrast with the white surface. There are numerous special features in the exterior design. The roof is a low-pitched type with flat roof corners on the sides. Rafter ends are exposed, and heavy brackets support the roof where it extends out from the walls at the ends. The heavy beams above the porch effectively finish off this part of the house. The flower box built beneath the wide window above the porch is flared out at the bottom to harmonize with the sloping roof.

The room arrangement of the bungalow is simple and effective. The living room extends from one side to the

Every woman who can sew at all knows that a ruffled skirt is the easiest to make. A plain foundation is gathered to a waist band and measured to the length on the child; then ruffles are stitched around the skirt, the upper ruffle forming the line for those that follow.

It will be well to fit the skirt lining and then rip the basing at the belt, because ruffles are more easily stitched on the lining when it is smooth.

In this instance the ruffles must have the bias folds stitched on the right side, then turned over and hemmed down on the under side. By applying the folds in this manner the stitching will not show.

A mother, perhaps, is unwilling to take the trouble involved in applying these folds on scallops. The work, of course, is somewhat tedious. In such case it is a simple matter to hem the ruffles or make them of embroidery.

For ordinary wear the wise mother will make this dress of wash materials which may be frequently laundered.
