

THE GLEANER

ISSUED EVERY THURSDAY. J. D. KERNODLE, Editor. $1.00 A YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

MILLIONS REGISTER.

More than ten millions of young men within the age limit registered Tuesday for the selective draft.

The first reunion of Confederate Veterans held outside the bounds of the proposed Confederacy met in Washington City Tuesday.

Spain has protested against destruction of her ships by German submarines. In reply Germany says no harm or disrespect was intended.

A man who formerly lived in Germany took ship on a Pacific mail liner to escape selective draft.

Buy a Liberty Bond. It is a patriotic duty. Those having money, and too old for service, cannot afford to show less patriotism than the young men who propose to face the perils at the front, if need be.

Capt. R. E. Cochrane, a prominent citizen of Charlotte, is dead. He was born in Cabarrus county in 1836 and had lived in Charlotte since 1858.

Chas. Brown, an employee of the Southern Power Company, was killed at Gastonia Saturday when he came in contact with a live wire.

Dudley Hall of Rowan county, 19 years old, who some years ago won the State championship in the boys' corn club contest, has gone to Colorado to work on a ranch.

Terrell, Catawba county, is planning a community fair for next fall. Exhibits of live stock, farm and orchard products, poultry, pantry and dairy products, fancy work, etc., are planned.

W. A. Erwin of Durham, general manager of the Erwin Cotton Mill Company, lists an income for taxation of $304,181, for the year ending May 1. This is from salaries, fees and property not taxed.

So that Southern members might be free Monday to welcome the Confederate veterans for their reunion, and to permit the entire membership to observe Registration Day Tuesday, the House of Congress adjourned from Saturday until Wednesday.

The remains of Col. William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), who died recently, were last Sunday placed in a vault blasted from Lookout Mountain, 20 miles from Denver, Col. More than 10,000 people attended the ceremonies.

John Philip Sousa, the noted musician, has been appointed an officer of the United States navy with the provisional rank of lieutenant of the National Coast Defense Reserve. He is at Great Lakes Naval Training Station organizing four bands among the enlisted men.

In response to a Senate resolution of inquiry, Secretary of Commerce Redfield says that on May 1 there were under construction in the United States 537 steel vessels, with tonnage of 2,039,000, and 167 wooden vessels aggregating 214,700 tons. The figures are nearly double those of a year ago.

AN APPEAL BY THE GOVERNOR.

To the People of North Carolina: The week of June 10-16 has been designated as National Recruiting Week for the United States Marine Corps. Four thousand enlistments have been called for during that week.

North Carolina's quota of recruits needed is only 70. Of this number the Raleigh recruiting station is asked to furnish 15 men; the Durham recruiting station 15 men; the Winston-Salem recruiting station 20 men; and the Charlotte recruiting station 20 men.

I call upon the people of these four cities and of the whole State to rally to the Marine Corps during the week designated. Indeed, it ought not to require a week, a day should be long enough to raise the State's full quota of recruits for this great arm of our country's defense.

The Marine Corps is one of the oldest and most efficient branches of the military service, and any young man should count himself fortunate to be enlisted in it. The Marine is a soldier and sailor too. The advantages he has in the variety of experience and training are unexcelled. He is drilled as an infantryman; he is trained as a naval gunner; he becomes a good field artilleryman; and he learns to manipulate the machine gun. He is in the landing party from war ships and is the first to go on an expeditionary duty. Surely the young man who wants to serve his country in the hour of need cannot find a better place to render effective service than in the United States Marine Corps among the soldiers that go to sea to defend the rights of Americans and maintain the honor of the Flag throughout the world.

I, therefore, urge the young men of North Carolina to present themselves at the various recruiting stations in the State to volunteer for this service on the morning of June 11th. I sincerely hope that the young manhood of the State will respond quickly to this call that North Carolina will be able to report her full quota raised in a single day.

TWO AGED MEN DIE.

A Wedding at Elon College.

Elon College, June 4.—Two of the most aged members of the College church died on Saturday and were laid to rest yesterday. Mr. Levi R. Tickle dropped dead Saturday afternoon about 1:30 at his home one mile north of the College. No one was present but his daughter, an only surviving child, Mrs. R. P. Isley. He had been in good health until a few minutes before his death. Mr. Tickle was a Confederate soldier and a member of Pickett's brigade. His only son, Rev. S. W. Tickle, died about a year ago. Mr. Tickle was buried at Shallow Ford Christian church. The ministers officiating were Dr. J. U. Newman, J. W. Wellons and A. F. Isley. Mr. Tickle was in his 89th year.

Mr. Jerry Cable had made his home in Gibsonville for the last few years and had been in failing health for two or three months. He was buried at Friedland Lutheran church Sunday afternoon. Mr. Cable was in his 82nd year. Wedding bells rang in Elon on Saturday. Mr. G. F. Frigden and Miss Annie Lawrence Heltzer were joined in wedlock at the home of the parents of the bride here. Mr. Frigden is a member of the senior class next year, and will make his home here until after graduation. The good wishes of their friends accompany them.

Daniel Marsh of Parkton, Robeson county, has received a telegram from the Canadian war department informing him that his son, Charles Henry Marsh, who enlisted with a Canadian regiment ten months ago, is among the wounded and missing at the French front. Young Marsh was in the United States army but on receiving an honorable discharge from the coast artillery, joined the Canadian forces in order to fight for the allies.

Calomel Dynamites

A Sluggish Liver

Crashes into sour bile, making you sick and you loose a day's work.

Calomel salivates! It's mercury, Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes in contact with sour bile it crashes into it causing griping and nausea. If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, get to your druggist and get a 50c bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic, which is a vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel, and without making you sick, you just go and get your money back. If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tonic you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.

Educational Column Conducted by Supt. J. B. Robertson.

The School and its Environment.

It is a significant and fundamental truth that is couched in the statement, "Anything is what it is by virtue of its connection."

It is rather early to see that many things are modified and others are moulded and made by their surroundings or environment. One tree is one-sided by virtue of its proximity to another tree; no other tree is round and symmetrical because it is not near any other tree. One tree is small because it grew on the barren mountain-peak; another tree is large because it grew in the rich valley. One town is manufacturing because it has water power; another town is mining because it has ore. And were it not for these two natural resources both towns themselves could not have been built. But in their stead we would see field or forest. And thus on and on we might trace such influences.

Life is made possible by keeping up a connection between whatever contains that life and its environment. Growth in life, and development is made possible by keeping up a very strong connection between that which contains the life and its environment. The fish must imbibe the water or he dies. The human being must breathe the air or he perishes. The plant must keep its connection with mother earth or it passes away. Life and growth—a characteristic of life—are dependent upon there being a vital connection between the living and its environment.

No school will live and grow and develop unless there is a strong and vital relation between it and its environment. A school can no more exist without the support and co-operation of its surroundings than the birds of the air or the fish of the sea can live without feeding upon the elements of their respective regions. There is even a far greater need for a vital relationship between the school and community. Because the school exists for the community and therefore the community should be supporting and working for the school. It is a reciprocity business between the school and the community—a business of giving and taking. A school that would succeed and succeed most must reach out and touch and benefit the best way possible the most people. It must not pray the prayer for me and my wife, my son John and his wife, these four and no more if there are any more. A school should benefit every person in the community, it should strengthen every business in the community, it should feed and foster every community interest. The school is a social factor and benefactor. It has to do with people and the people's interests.

If the school is to be a living institution serving the people as it should, the teacher must know the community and the people and bring the two, the school and the people, into hearty vital co-operation. This can be done only by the teacher going among the people. She must know them, know their conditions, their aspirations, their life. She must go with eyes open. She must go with hands and heart wide open ready to serve and to help. She cannot do this and go to some show in a neighboring town one evening, somewhere else as remote from her work and people the next evening and then go home to a distant neighborhood the next afternoon, on Friday, to spend the week-end and not come back till late Sunday morning. But on the other hand the teacher will be among her people—learning them, loving them, helping them, teaching them—literally busy about her Father's business.

The teacher, if teaching in the country, will soon learn the way to the community church. If she can sing, and every teacher should be able to sing, she will help in the music. She will not treat the service as if it were their service but she will treat it like it is our service. One of the best places in all the world to learn people is at the sacred shrine where hearts meet with heart and tears are mingled with tears. The teacher should weep with her people when they weep and rejoice with them when they rejoice. She should live with them. She may, and many times should, direct the social life. Her presence will often add interest. It is easy ship. And should social life be ship. And should social life be wanting she can and should raise its standard and make it wholesome.

The teacher should make the school a community center. Let it be the common meeting place for pleasant and profitable entertainments. Let it be the meeting place for an evening in music or recitation, and also for weighty lectures of instruction on the vital issues of life and progress. The school should be a city set upon a hill sending forth light and life at all times to the people of all ages. The class-room work itself should grow out of and be adapted to the community and community life. The school should be of the community, by the community and for the community and should never be separated from it. The course of study should be determined to some extent by the community and its needs. The library should contain books bearing information upon the work and industries of the community. Illustrations should be gathered from the community and its life that they may illustrate. Study geography at the school house door, down in the valley near by, and all around about the school.

Study the community history. Tie it up with other history. When you study arithmetic measure the school room floor, the school grounds, the near by plot or field. Measure the length of the road or street. Apply your work in the school room to the environment or surroundings; draw your illustrations from the community because only known illustrations illustrate. Let there be the most vital co-operation between the school and the community that real life and life may be in constant exchange and both the school and the community may be built and made bigger and better.

Summer School at State College.

West Raleigh, N. C., June 4.—The State Board of Examiners and Institute Conductors was authorized by the recent Legislature. The duties of this Board are to conduct Teachers' Institutes throughout the State; to certify all County Superintendents, Supervisors, Principals and Teachers; to make out examinations which are held all over the State, at specified times, and to grade these examinations. When the Governor appointed the members of this Board which is made up of three men and three women, he chose the three men from the staff of the Summer School at the State College. Although subsequently at the request of the Governor and Superintendent of Public Instruction, one of these gentlemen, Mr. Allen, has been released in order that he may carry out Institute work elsewhere, the other two gentlemen, Mr. Giles and Mr. Highsmith, will be connected with the Summer School during the entire session.

Mr. Highsmith will conduct a course on educational psychology, and the principles of teaching, and will hold Teachers' Institute June 12-25 and July 12-25, for the benefit of those unable to attend the entire session of the Summer School.

Mr. Giles will discuss the rural school and the rural community and the organization of the institutions. He will also conduct a course on the subject of class-room management and will supervise the Practice School, a feature of the summer session.

Thus the Summer School of the State College has the unique distinction of being the only one in the State at which those seeking to obtain or renew Teachers' Certificates can study under a portion of the Board of Examiners and Institute Conductors. But even this opportunity will occur again for when these members assume their new duties their presence will be required elsewhere during the summer.

It is to be hoped especially that the County Superintendents will take advantage of this opportunity and rooms have been reserved for them.

Catarth Cannot Be Cured with Local Applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. It is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. It is not cured by most local remedies. Hall's Catarrh Remedy is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surface of the system. Hall's Catarrh Remedy was prescribed by one of the best physicians in the country for years. It is composed of some of the best natural purifiers. The perfect cure is guaranteed. It is a wonderful medicine in catarrhal conditions. Sold by A. L. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O. Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Indictments against 25 individuals and firms charging attempts to create monopolies of eggs in the Chicago market have been returned in the Federal court in Chicago.

People are learning that a little forethought often saves them a big expense. Here is an instance. E. W. Archer, Caldwell, Ohio, writes: "I do not believe that our family has been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since we commenced keeping a household. When we go on an extended visit we take it with us." Obtainable everywhere. adv.

BOWEL COMPLAINTS IN INDIA. In a lecture at one of the Des Moines, Ia., churches, a missionary from India told of going into the interior of India, where he was taken sick that he had a case of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with him and believed that it saved his life. This remedy is used successfully in India both as a preventive and cure for cholera. You may know from this that it may be depended upon for the milder forms of bowel complaint that occur in this country. Obtainable everywhere. adv.

Nine bodies have been recovered from a mine at Heirrin, Ill., where they were entombed by an explosion Saturday night. Two injured miners were rescued and are in a critical condition.

STOMACH TROUBLES AND CONSTIPATION. "I will certainly say that Chamberlain's Tablets are the most satisfactory remedy for stomach troubles and constipation that I have ever used in 34 years of drug store service," writes S. W. Murphy, druggist, Wellsburg, W. V. Obtainable everywhere. adv.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson XI.—Second Quarter, For June 10, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John xix, 16-30. Memory Verses, 26, 27—Golden Text, I Cor. xv, 3—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Pilate seems to have tried again and again to release Him, and his wife also sent him word to have nothing to do with Him. But Pilate had suffered many things in a dream because of Him (Matt. xxvii, 19). Peter testified after Pentecost that Pilate was determined to let Him go (Acts iii, 13). He evidently thought when he asked the Jews to choose between Christ and Barabbas as to which he should release to them that they would surely ask for Christ. But they cried out, "Not this man, but Barabbas," although Barabbas was a robber and murderer (chapter xviii, 40; Acts iii, 14). Pilate's fear to touch Him increased when the Jews said that His crime was that He said He was the Son of God (verse 7). When Pilate asked Him about this Jesus at first made no reply, but a little later said to him: "Thou couldest have no power against Me unless it were given thee from above; therefore he that delivered Me unto thee hath the greater sin" (verse 11).

The first part of this reply must refer to the will of God, the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, that the blood of this just person, see ye to it. Then the people said, "His blood be on us and on our children." Then he released Barabbas, scourged Jesus and delivered Him to be crucified (Matt. xxvii, 24-26). Why did he scourge Him after he had released Him innocent? Why did he deliver Him to the brutal soldiers to be mocked and spit upon and so ill treated? Even a guilty man is protected from injustice at the hands of his enemies as a rule. If we cannot reply to the why, let each one at least say it was for me the Holy One of God suffering in my stead. When we see the Son of God, the Creator of all things, the Judge of all mankind, receiving such treatment at the hands of the civil and religious authorities and remembering that they are just the same today, what should be our attitude toward them? When we hear Pilate say, "Behold the man" and "Behold your king" (verses 5-14) we think of the true testimonies of the Spirit, "Behold the man whose name is The Branch" (Zech. vi, 12; Is. 43).

So Pilate delivered Jesus to be crucified, and they took Him and led Him away, and He, bearing His cross, went forth (verses 16, 17). They met one Simon, a Cyrenian, coming into the city and compelled him to carry about him the help Jesus bear the cross or bear it for Him (Luke xxiii, 26). We remember that He said, "If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow Me" (Matt. xvi, 24). Let us not forget that the cross is never anything beautiful, but a cruel thing signifying a painful and lingering death. Many women followed Him, bewailing and lamenting Him, but He told them not to weep for Him, but for themselves and their children (verse 18), when we consider that would come upon them (Luke xxiii, 27-31). Having searched Gabbatha, they crucified Him and two thieves with Him, one on either side and Jesus in the midst, and thus He was numbered with the transgressors, and for me.

The four soldiers divided His garments among them, but for His coat they cast lots, thus fulfilling another Scripture (verses 23, 24; Ps. xxii, 18). Perhaps three more awful words were never written than these, "They crucified Him." It is a terrible thing, but who He was that they crucified, the Prince of Life, the Lord of Glory (Acts iii, 15; I Cor. ii, 8), and that He submitted to be a curse for us that we might not perish (Gal. iii, 13). We are in a lesson from His seven sayings on the cross, ch. 28, 30; but taking them in order from all the records, we have first forgiveness, even for those who crucified Him; then glory for even a penitent thief; then provision for His own mother, suggesting the supply of all we can need between salvation and glory. The fourth was at the beginning of the darkness, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken Me?" and the other three at the close of those awful six hours, "I thirst," "It is finished," "Father, into thy hands I commit My spirit."

Towns Looking Out For the Babies.

According to the State Board of Health, North Carolina is now interesting herself in a new form of patriotism but a real one. She is going after conditions which make babies sick and die, particularly in the summer, and which ignorant mothers have been battling with ever since they have been mothers. A number of towns and communities in the State are now engaged in, or have been, or will be, in the next few weeks, conducting a Baby Week Campaign. Goldsboro, Blayk Mountain and Rocky Mount are conducting such campaigns this week. Aberdeen and Charlotte held theirs last week, and the whole of Edgecombe county, including Tarboro, is interested in one for the white babies next week, and one for the colored babies the week following. Other towns that have done work of this kind this summer are Ashoklee and Hickory.

Babies mean more to this country today than they use to. The present war will cause them to be considered in even more valuable terms, as is now the case in England, France and other warring nations. Baby saving in England is one of that country's chief concerns. Countries that are every day being depopulated are forcibly realizing that babies of today are the citizens of tomorrow and that the nation's destiny rests upon the character and fiber of its new generation.

The number of babies saved is not the only requirement necessary to meet this situation. It will be the quality of the men and women that will count most in the next generation. Undeveloped diseased bodies, dwarfed intellects and devitalizing defects carried from youth to old age cannot furnish the brain and brawn that is needed today or that will be needed for the work of tomorrow.

WARNING AGAINST DYSENTERY. Board of Health Says it is Controlled and Prevented Like Typhoid.

The State Board of Health calls attention to the fact that the form of dysentery that has already visited several towns in the State and caused the death of a number of children, including four in one family in one town, is a germ disease that is controlled and prevented by practically the same methods as typhoid fever. Like typhoid, it may be water borne, milk borne or fly borne, or it may be contracted from soiled hands, through unclean food, or in numerous other ways.

The main point to remember about it, says the Board, is that it is a filth disease having the same course as typhoid, spread in exactly the same way and is therefore prevented in the same way. Consequently, open back surface Cossets, flies and unclean hands become the principal factors to be reckoned with in its control. In cities and towns where there are sewers, and where sanitary laws are enforced the danger from this source is not so great. But in the country where there are no sewers and where flies raise in abundance, there is always a very great danger of an outbreak of this disease.

The best place to control the spread of amoebic dysentery, according to the Board, is the sick room. In addition to the necessity of the utmost care and cleanliness on the part of the nurse or attendant, the most essential thing is the proper disposal of all body discharges. The doctor's orders should be followed to the letter in this matter as this is the original source of every case of the disease.
