MAJ. CHAS. M. STEDMAN.

A few weeks ago the news came from Washington that Maj. Stedman would not stand for re-electo Congress next year, whereupon the congressional bee began to buzz about the ears of a number of receptives in the imperial Fifth On the other hand the news was received with regret by the Ma-jor's friends all over the district; ot only these, but his colleagues in Congress took up the matter with him and importuned him to change his purpose to retire and he is o eve of yielding to them. He has been one of the administration's strongest and most influential supporters, and his colleagues feel that his retirement would be a serious loss in the present crisis. It is not believed that there will any considerable opposition to the mination of Maj. Stedman who has so faithfully and ably repre sented this district for a of years and the people will rally to his support as to no other man that could be named.
