ABOUT THE WAR.

The late war news is little different from the past days since the Allies stopped and turned the Allies are driving the enemy back -those who are not killed or captured. But this does not mean that the war will end right soon. If the man power from America and other sources can be placed in the fighting as fast as is calculated on doing, it is hoped to end their clutches. the war next year; but this is by no means certain. It is certain, however, that day by day the Allies are growing stronger on placed in an insane asylum for land and sea, while the enemy is medical treatment. There is but growing weaker. General (now one way to peace, and that is the Marshal) Foch is showing himself way to Berlin. It will be a long, more than a match in strategy against anything the Germans we shall have arrived at the end can put in the field. His licks of that road we shall have only a Successful Experiments Convince Of ficials That Substitutes Will Large-ly Relieve Situation—Canning and Preserving May be Increased-Formulas to Be Printed.

Raleigh.—No actual hardships is going to result in North Carolina from the acute shortage of sugar which exists at this time and there is no rea son at all why the quantities of fruits that are canned and preserved should be lessened in any degree. This is the frankly expressed opinion of State Food Administrator Henry A. Page, Conservation Chairman John Paul Lucas and Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon, Director of Home Economics for the Food Administration and Head Demonstration

Experiments Encourage.
Food Administration officials have been greatly concerned over the sugar shortage, and still are for that matter but they have been greatly encouring-ed and relieved during the past few days by the marked success of experiments that have been conducted by Mrs. McKimmon and her wide-awake assistants in the use of cane syrup sorghum, corn syrup, corn sugar and other procurable sugar substitutes. working over time on these tests and are preparing tried and proven formulas and recipes which, with accom panying suggestions, will be printed by the Food Administration in the form of a bulletin or leasiet in the mediate future for distribution throughout North Carolina. The formulas being prepared by Mrs. McKim mon will be verly largely used in other States also, Washington authorities being keenly interested in them and recognizing the splendid ability Mrs. McKimmon's organization in this line of work.

Can Add Sugar Later. It is a recognized fact that sugar does increase the palatability of can-ned fruits but the product may be saved just as easily without the addition of sugar, according to Mrs. Mc-Kimmon. In fact a large number of housewives have always canned without sugar, adding sugar only when the fruit is opened and used. Peaches, apples, pears, beries, etc., which are desired for marmalade, jelly, jam or preserves, may be canned now and made into the ultimate product weeks or months from now when, if sugar is not available, there will certainly be available a considerable quantity of cane syrup, corn syrup, corn sugar, sorghum, or other substitute.

Experiments have developed the fact that for best results different substitutes must be used for different fruits or different products and the tests are for the purpose of deter-mining which substitutes may be most satisfactorily used in each kind of fruit. Mrs. M. M. Davis, of Mrs. Mc-Kimmon's organization, is using in her demonstrations samples of apple, peach and pineapple marmalade made peach and pineapple marmalade made, with syrup instead of sugar, and connoisseurs agree that the product does not suffer at all in comparison with similar products containing sugar.

Reports to the agricultural forces and Food Administration here indicate that there is a large acreage of cane planted for syrup in North Carolina this year and a large production.

lina this year and a large production of syrup is anticipated.
