A ferry boat load of the shippard men piled pell-mell over the wharf, across the railroad tracks and onto the main thoroughfare of the town, at the foot of which lay the makeshift slip. They were roughly clad and grimy and strong, and, many of them, hard-lookng.

There had been a crap game on the boat coming over and it had not gone smoothly. Three of the men among the thousand showed the marks of it, for they were more or less bloody and still white with anger.

The three, each with a friend or two, stopped at the saloon at the foot of the street to wash off the stains of the row. The rest of the workers paid no heed but hurried on homeward. There was little laughter or joking. What conversation there was among them was unsmiling and it was plain to be conversation there was among them was unsmilling and it was plain to be seen that the yeast of discontent was at work.

At the street corner two blocks from the wharf a girl stood by the curb, watching the passing throng and looking for some one. By and by she caught sight of a tall, toughly fashioned young fellow with thick hair that looked flaxen by contrast with his sumburned skin.

He spied the girl at the same in-stant, said a brief word to the com-panious of the moment, and stopped beside her, automatically reaching out for the bundles she carried.

The girl's eyes were shining, "What to you know, Billy? I found a place! in honest-to-goodness apartment. Mrs. Ells heard about a couple that are go ing out of town—somebody she knows. She's a good old thing, after all, Billy, and she went right down there and got them to keep still about it till we could get a chance at the place.

"Twe been down today and engaged it. It's an old house, Billy, but there's three rooms and a bath— and only one other family, the folks that own it; they live downstairs. I guess they're boosting the rent two or three dollars. But we should worry—with your pay. It's our lucky day, isn't it, Billy?"

But Billy Nova didn't respond to the

But Billy Noxon didn't respond to the happy mood of his young wife nearly as she had anticipated. While Elsle lay in wait for him there she had expected that he would throw up his hat and shout. Places to live—to really live and keep house like regular civilized people—were simply unobtainable in the town. The Noxons had been "light housekeeping" in a single room for four months, like hundreds of others. But Billy Noxon didn't respond to the

"Don't know as there's any use in fussing about it, Chick," the boy finally replied soberly. "We're likely to have to get to blazes out of this man's town any time now. The gang's pretty sore, and they're likely to tie a can, any time at all, to the bunch of grafters that are running the tea kettle factory over

"What do you mean, Billy Noxon-

"What do you mean, Billy Noxon—a strike?"

"It's a heap sight more than just one strike, when the blowoff comes. The working man has been carrying the tar end of the stick about as long the tar end of the stick about as long as he's going to in this country. Here's you and me living like a couple of bums in a coop of a room and me sweating my hide off over there on those hulls—and a lot of loafers that don't hit a ship a lick from the time she's doped out till she's overboard, and haven't even got a dollar of their own money in the plant, pulling down

"Living in palaces and dressing their wives in thousand-dollar furs and swelling around in limousines and playing golf while we play on a rivet gun—and all off us! All stolen from the working man and his family! And lar a day raise, to help pay for the profiteering prices on the grub we eat, they give us the hoot!"

Elsie was looking very steadily and studiously at her big husband. "We she said, as he ran out of breath.

"Well," Billy resumed, "it's about all over, sis. There's going to be some-thing doing, and that right quick. I dunno's it's worth while for us to change from one room to three. May-be we'll be in the middle of a hardbolled shindy in a week or two—and either have some kind of a decent share in things or nothing at all. Death's better than slavery." The boy stared goomily at a passing touring car.

The girl was about an inch above five feet—her justand about an inch above six. Her eyes had been growing bigger and bigger as she listened to his dour speech. Now she selzed him by the arm and said: "Billy Noxon, you come home with me, straight.

"And don't you speak—or even think—a word till I tell you to." The somber face of the boy thawed fato a think—a word that ten you to. In a somber face of the boy thawed 'nto a sheepish grin as he permitted himself to be marshaled along six city blocks to the place where they fived in Mrs. Ells' furnished second floor back.

Not until they were in their room, with the description of the second second floor back.

with the door closed behind them did Elsie, speak again. "Now." she de-clared taking the bundles from billy and putting them on the table, 'I've got something to say to you, you big boob! You've been listening to those darned bolsheviks again! You sit darned bolsheviks again! You sit down there and answer me a couple of questions;" and she pushed her husband into the limpy-legged morris chair. 'First-How much money did we have after two years when we ult Roxbury and came here? We had $140, didn't we? We've been here four months, and how much have we got? We've got $480 of new money, that's what we've got. And it's clean money, Billy, honestly carned. I'd rather have that than a million that was grafted. We're not getting along so badly. Maybe somebody else is getting a whole lot more that doesn't deserve it half as much. But I guess these things will be straightened out if fellows like you don't go looney and spoil everything. Anyhow, you never had so much money ahead in your life, Billy Noxon, and I know it.

"Now, who's the head devil over there at the yard in getting up all this I. W. W. sentiment? Is it a black-muzzled fellow they call Saunderson?"

"Well, Saunderson's the smartest, most independent man in the yard, if that's what you meen, and not afraid to speak his mind. The fellows listen to him because he's there with the goods."

"I thought so. I sat behind him and some other anarchists in a street car resterday, when he ought to have been it work, and I know what he thinks. heard him tell the man with him the man with him tell the man with him that it was about time the boorzhwa' was kept from monopolizing everything, including the 'most beautiful and 'desirable wives'—that's exactly what he said, Billy Noxon!"

"Well," responded Billy, rather doubtfully, "he meant that a working man can't compete with a rich one for a girl, when he can't send her flowers and give her buzz-car rides and such things."

such things."

"Billy, you're a simp. He meant—because he said so—that the women ought to be nationalized. Understand that? Made the property of the men equally, like the food and the clothes and the houses and automobiles! He said it was too early to spring that idea yet, but it would surely come."

Billy tried to say something, but the little wife kept on. "Billy, I didn't tell you before, but twice that black devil has tried to pick me up on the street.

you before, but twice that black devil has tried to pick me up on the street. Yesterday when he got up to leave the car he grinned at me and winked, and he said out of the corner of his mouth as he passed: 'Pretty peach!' Billy Noxon, do you want me nationalized—for Saunderson? Are you for the bolsheviks or for me?"

Billy Noxon found Saunderson in the yard next day, and hammered him for five minutes. He told him that he'd lick him every time he saw him.

lick him every time he saw him. Wherefore, Saunderson is now agitating elsewhere, and there hasn't been any strike in the yard. Maybe everything is not exactly as it should be as between labor and capital, but as between Billy and Elsie, bolshevisi hasn't a look-in.

PARAVANE PROVED ITS WORTH

Vessel Protected by That Contrivance is Known to Have Been Sunk by Mines.

The oddity of the word "paravane," as it now reaches the general public, shows how well an important secret was kept during the historic years 1917-18. During those years the in-vention, perfected at Portsmouth, England, was added to some 4,000 British vessels, and no case is known in which a ship thus protected was damaged by a sunken mine. Towed under water on both sides of the bow, the paravane, shaped like a kite, met the mooring wire of the sunken mine, deflected the hidden menace to a safe distance from the ship, severed its mooring, and left it free to come to the surface where it could be exploded by gun fire. Seamen naturally enough as "otters," and they enabled many a vessel to travel safely through mineinfested waters. Several hundred American ships had been thus equipped at the signing of the armi-stice, and it is a pleasing thought that the cessation of hostilities saved about $10,000,000 which the United States meant to spend in providing paravane for American shipping.

Would Return the Favor. Some years ago there was a Fourth of July celebration at a town in northern New York, where my father was pastor of a church. During the day several out of town couples came to the parsonage to be married, and one husky bridegroom as soon as the knot was tied, asked: "What are the damwas tied, asked: "What are the dam-ages?" Father replied that he made no particular charge for marrying peo-ple, but left the amount to the generosity of the groom. "Thank you." said the young man, "I'll do as much for you sometime," and walked out, leaving us all convuised with laughter but when they reached the street the bride would go no farther until "hubby" came back and handed the minister a $2 bill.—Exchange.

EXPECT TO COLLECT GRASSHOPPER IS SUM OF $53,000,000

SOUTHERN METHODISTS OUTLINE PLANS FOR HANDLING GREAT CENTENARY FUND

Organization Will Collect Largest Amount Ever Handled By Any Religious Denomination Anywhere.

The Centenary Commission of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has announced its plan for collecting the $53,000,000.00 which was pledged for the missionary work of the church in the recent eight-day drive. The plan was prepared and will be directed by Colonel John E. Edgerton, of Tennessee, the general centenary treasurer and the director of the department of finance for the Centenary Commission.

Colonel Edgerton is a well known business man. He is president and manager of the Lebanon Woolen Mills, president of the Tennessee State Manufacturers Association, and during the war he was a member of the executive committee of the war industry board appointed by President "Our slogan is no shrinkage, but an increase," said Colonel Edgerton recently. "Just as the Southern Metho dist church has surpassed all records in securing pledges for benevolent purposes and has raised the largest sum ever given to any church at one time in the history of the world, so do we expect to set a new record in the ollection of these pledges.".

An Extensive Organization. The organization through which these pledges will be collected has four centers of responsibility. The first is a general finance commission with headquarters at Nashville, headed by Colonel Edgerton. This commission has prepared the standard plan and will direct the entire movement. handing down to the various bodies throughout the church detailed plans for their guidance.

There will also be a conference cab inet in each annual conference of the church, about forty in number. These conference cabinets will be composed of the Conference Missionary Secretary, Conference Campaign Director the Lay leader, and the Conference Centenary Treasurer. Each of these officials have certain specific duties and will direct the work of collecting all the pledges in each annual confer

In each of the four hundred districts of the church there is a similar cabinet composed of the Presiding Elders, the Lay leaders, Campaign Directors and the Chairman of the Methodist Minute Men. The Conference Mission ary Secretary is an ex-officio member of all district cabinets. The work of collecting in the districts will be su pervised by this district cabinet.

Twenty Thousand Churches.

In each of the 20,000 local churches there will be local cabinets composed of the pastor, the centenary treasurer, the campaign director, the lay leader, the chairman of the minute men, the Sunday school superintendent all the actual work of collecting the individual pledges.

The persons who made subscripwill be divided into lists of twenty-five and the lists will be of the church cabinet who will collect all pledges as they come due. One feature of the standard plan is that the local church will be responsible for collecting the full amount of its subscription. If any subscriber dies or meets with misfortune such as church cabinet to secure another perbecome delinquent.

It is also proposed that every new member who comes into the church shall also be asked to make a contri bution to the Centenary fund.

The Centenary fund of $35,000,000 will be used for the church in an extension of its missionary work throughout the world. Several million will be spent in the devastated re gions of France, Belgium, Poland and Russia. Other millions will go to the seven foreign fields occupied by the church-Mexico, Brezil, Cuba, Africa China, Japan and Korea. Other mil lions will be spent in the industria sections of the great cities, in the mountains, among the immigrants, the negroes and the Indians, and in build ing churches in the missionary terri tory of the United States.

Arctic Light. At noon of December 21, the shortest and darkest day of the year, we could easily detect a faint glow of light in the south. The true dark-ness of night is a result of the complete disappearance of all traces of twilight, which occurs when the sun reaches a point of 18 degrees below the horizon. Our latitude was 78 de-grees 20 minutes, therefore the sun at this time was only about 12 degrees below the horizon.—From "Four Years in the White North," by Donald B. McMillan.

When grasshoppers make their appearance they can be destroyed by the common poisoned bait method. But there is another way of getting rid of grasshoppers that makes the pests pay for the trouble of killing or catching them. This method consists of drivthem. This method consists of driv-ing a grasshopper catcher through an nfested field, catching all the grass the insected heat, extening all the grass-hoppers that hop, and then feeding the insects to chickens. They can be dumped into sacks and hung up to dry and fed, as dry grasshoppers, or if it is preferred to feed the grasshoppers alive, the machine can be hauled to the poultry yard and placed so that the front will face the light. The insects front will face the light. The insects will find their way out but not too fast for an ordinary flock of chickens. Thus the grasshopper catcher becomes a poultry self-feeder.

An analysis of grasshoppers shows them to be high in protein and therefore good chicken feed. It is known that chickens are more productive when insects are a part of their ration, and grasshoppers when dried can be used with other feeds during the

How to Make Grasshopper Catcher. The grasshopper catcher, which has an advantage over the old-style ho utilized for chicken feed, is about 16 feet long with an upright but curved plece of tin in front and so arranged that the grasshoppers will strike it as they hop up, falling to the bottom and back through a narrow trap opening into a box behind. Great American Exampler of Thrift Knew Value of Regular and 8 tematic Saving For Future.

Thrift is not stinginess. In fact it is more often than not that the thrifty man is the one who is truly generous. Benjamin Franklin, our national experiod have come into the War Loan period have come tells:

"The price of bread two centuries ago was a penny a loaf. Thus it hap-pened that Benjamin Franklin, a boy of seventeen, on arriving in miladel-phia, was able to buy three loaves for food stuffs should receive special attention. On almost every farm there is a time his wages as printer, while his fellow-workers spent theirs as fast as once, and the problem of disposing of they got them, or faster. In this way it arises. Some of it is eaten, some it came about that; while a mere youngster in a printing office, he lent them money every week.

"Though the earnings of most of them were greate" than his, he was capitalist. By the middle of each week they were penniless, and came to him for loans to carry them over until payday. He would accept no interest, but each Saturday, or esting their but each Saturday, on getting their money they gave back to him what they borrowed—only to repeat the borrowing a day or two later."

The secret of Franklin's success was systematic and persistent saving, from the time he first began to earn money. And always having a savings fund he was ever ready to grasp his concrtunities—those of lending a well as those of self-and C W Whitfield lot, running and control of the control of th
