And now comes the aposue of statistics that are furman, the romanticist of figures.

He has come out of North Carolina. He is neither statistician nor romancer. He is an Episcopal clergyman, the Rev. Dr. William H. Milton. And he has undertaken to prove to the million or more communicants of the Episcopal Church that $42,000,000 are not $42,000,000 — but a thrilling romance; its characters Chinese children, Eskimo maidens, gaunt mountaineers, little blind Mexicans, transplanted peasants of Europe and dauntless soldiers of the Church in far places; its background brilliant Oriental landscapes, dazzling white wastes of Arctic snows, billowing prairies and steep mountain trails.

The $42,000,000 is the fund to be

The $42,000,000 is the fund to be raised in a single sweeping drive as the climax of the Episcopal Nation-Wide Campaign, of which Dr. Milton is one of the executives. It represents the means by which the Church, roused, the campaign, to the urgency of the executives. It represents the means by which the Church, roused, through the campaign, to the urgency of the world's needs to-day, can do its part to work in every field.

"But," said the romanticist of figures the other day, "there is no inspiration in giving $42,000,000. So long as we state the Church's duty in terms of dollars, it is a cold, dead thing. We must humanize the figures. We for must look through the loopholes of the ciphers and the bars of the dollar-mark.

"Then we shall see, not $42,000,000. So hut hospitals and surgeons where there is none to heal suffering, schools and teachers where there is none to heal suffering, schools and teachers where there is none to teach little children, loyal American citizens where there are restless foreign born under destructive influences, community centers and churches where there is none within many miles."

Dr. Milton knows how humanized statistics can stir people. He has applied the principle in St. James'

Prank of Baby Elephant Brought Retribution.

Her Patience Exhausted, Mother Adnistered a Spanking That Brought Tears in Bucketfuls From Her Offspring.

In a recent exchange it is stated that elephants are amazingly like hu-man beings in the way they discipline man beings in the way they discipline their young. The following amusing incident was seen by a traveler in an extensive lumber yard in Burma.

While the adult elephants were faithfully at work the youngsters played about the yard. The elephant that attracted the traveler's particular atten-tion was hauling, in her chain harness, a buge tree trunk from the bank of Conscious of the suddenly increased weight, the mother looked around. She saw the youngster and shook her head solemnly, but paying no further heed to his teasing, bent again to her work. Meanwhile the little rascal, with his mischlevous trunk had loosened the ring that fastened the traces to the load.

While the mother was straining to get her burden in motion again, her rascally son pulled so sturdily that she was quite unaware that she had nnected from her load. Then suddenly the youngster let go. Nat-urally enough, the mother was thrown to her knees and her driver hurled in a wide circle from her back.

The culprit sought a huge woodpile that seemed to offer him at least a temporary protection. His mother, however was soon in pursuit, and he had to flee. Round and round the wood-pile he dodged, but his mother, with her iron harness clanking noisily behind her, kept close at his heels.

Although the little one's greater agility gained some space for him at the corners, his mother eventually overtook him. The first blow of her trunk drew from him a bawl of pain. At the second he sank, quite humbled to his knees; and then he endured without a murmur, although with many mother let him up. With tears still streaming and with drooping trunk he took his disconsolate way out of the

The little fellow had won the com-plete sympathy of the observer. Con-sequently he was overjoyed to witness during the noon hour a touching rec onciliation. The mother did all she could to comfort the penitent little sinner; she caressed him with her trunk, cuddled him up against her, and looked at him as if to say: "You still have a mother who loves you."

Some thought Wes was doing more than his financial strength warranted. But he just went down into the woods, cut up fuel and sold it and the mortgage was soon lifted. New Wes is buying more stamps, because he realizes their value and finds he can save.

Crew Demanded Stamps

Clean up day on the battleship New Jersey means something more than hard work to the gobs on board that craft. It means a decided addition to the ship's fund that is drawing interest in the form of War Savings Stamps. While the war ship was anchored in Boston harbor-recently, the crew gathered up all the obsolete ship's fittings, cast off jumpers and clothing, books and papers and sought out a junk dealer. The dealer was willing to pay cash for the junk offering but the crew demanded payment in War Savings Stamps and got Il condemned material on board ing carefully stored away in ration for another clean up.

MASTER OF ART OF WOOING

sourian Gives Out Some Pointers That May or May Not Be of Value to Others.

There are experts in all lines, but shall not a man who can persuade eight women to marry him rank as an authority on matrimony? According to the Missourian who is locked up in the Tombs as a confessed bigamist, the way to a woman's heart is through het higher emotions. "I appealed to the best in women always," he says, "and never to their lower natures." Women also, this artist in love discovered, "like to be swept off their feet by those who woo them; they have no patience" with the dawdler. Nor did he find that it was essential for the wooer to be handsome or more than neatly dressed. But these, of course, are old precepts in the manual of courtship. Ugly men have often been great rakes, and ardor is traditionally effective in sweeping the re-luctant fair "off their feet." His main contribution to the art of love, and it is one worthy of Ovid, is that of the potency of an appeal to the higher na-quality, or does it vary and require to be diagnosed in the individual? That is no doubt a difficulty that will confront ordinary wooers. Is the higher feminine nature compatible with matinee tickets and tea dances, or does it incline seriously only to more ele-vated interests? The recipe apparent-ly leaves the problem about as it was for less successful suitors to whom the mastery of an art of which they fail to learn the rudiments.—New York World.

To be sure, Commander Read's education was commander command pleted at Annapolis Naval academy and Mr. Holland's at Harvard univer sity, where he graduated in 1906. But there must be something in the stock and something in the system which brings it to pass so often that when great things have been done, or great things are to be accomplished, and the doer is necessarily forced into the spot light of the press, and his antecedents are eagerly examined, the little old significant abbreviation, "Mass.," is apt to appear in conection with som
