TAKE CARDUI
The Woman's Tonic

You can rely on Cardui. Surely it will do for you what it has done for so many thousands of other women! It should help. "I was taken sick, seemed to be . . .", writes Mrs. Mary E. Vestie, of Madison Heights, Va. "I got down so weak, could hardly walk . . . just staggered around. . . I read of Cardui, and after taking one bottle, or before taking quite all, I felt much better. I took 3 or 4 bottles at that time, and was able to do my work. I take it in the spring when run-down. I had no appetite, and I commenced eating. It is the best tonic I ever saw." Try Cardui.

LIVES SACRIFICED TO JEWELS

Insatiable Greed for Precious Stones Responsible for Tragedies That Are Almost Beyond Belief.

Human beings have gone to almost unbelievable extremes in their insatiable greed for jewels. They have been smuggled away in gashes made in the fleshy parts of arms and legs and in the festering sores of underlings. The swallowing of diamonds, a time-honored practice, is an extremely dangerous experiment, although it has been done with success in small doses, as gems in India are not so sharply cut as in Europe; yet the effect on the human mechanism of anything hard enough to cut or scratch the hardest substance can well be imagined, Eleanor Maddock writes in Asia Magazine. Often times when they were thrust by the handful down the throat of some coolie slave, whose life was worth no more to his master than a temporary receptacle for looted gems, it meant certain death to the unhappy victim of greed and theft. This was a popular method among raiders of merchant caravans, as usually within the period of the first 24 hours the terrible convulsions that followed could not be readily distinguished from the first symptoms of the raj bimar (cholera). Even domestic fowls have borne their share of the burdens of riches, for according to the pearl fishers of Ceylon, nothing so enhances the luster and sheen of a valuable pearl as lying for a few weeks within the crop of a fowl.

TAKE BIRDS ON FISH LINES

Anglers Have Sport With Winged Creatures as Well as Those of the Finny Tribe.

An angler was recently surprised when he visited his line, which had been left overnight, to find that he had caught a water bird instead of a fish. Fishing for birds is the practice in some countries. In Cyprus as well as Canada, the inhabitants fish for the bee-eater. A fine silk line is used, at the end of which is a fish-hook, and to the fish-hook is attached a wild bee. The bee in its efforts to escape soars in the air, when the bee-eater immediately swallows both the bait and the hook, and in its turn becomes the prey of the fisherman. Another method of catching birds by means of a line is adopted by shepherds on the Sussex Downs. The wheatear is found in these parts in large numbers. A hole is cut in the turf and at the ends of the hole horsehair nooses are arranged. The birds, when frightened, drop to the ground and seek shelter in the holes, when they are immediately caught by the tightening of the noose.

PHILIPPINE COAL

A company has been organized in the Philippines to develop the Cebu coal mines as well as those in Mindanao, and it is believed that before long the coal output of these islands will be sufficient to supply the needs of the whole archipelago so far as good steam coal is concerned. Attention is being given also to the development of the tobacco and sugar industries in the islands. Because of these activities a large part of the current purchases of the Philippines consists of machinery and plants for new industrial undertakings.

OF ROYAL RACE.

A masterful old family expert no less in ruling than in fighting, may be complimented with the "American story" published in England, that the tactful, triumphant Mexican leader, General Obregon, is one of the O'Briens. He has blue eyes, at any rate, and reddish brown hair. To cap the felicitation, an editor points out that the last Spanish viceroy of this same Mexico was John O'Donohue, to-wit, Don Juan O'Donohu, a descendant of the O'Donohues of Munster.

COTTON WEAVING IN CHINA.

The first cotton manufacturing mill in China is scarcely more than twenty years old, yet the nation has today 1,250,000 spindles and 5,000 power looms, producing annually 250,000,000 pounds of yarn and 60,000,000 yards of cloth.

GLACIER IS MAKING RECORD

That at Grindelwald, Switzerland, Said to Be Moving at a Pace That Is Phenomenal.

A strange Alpine phenomenon is taking place at Grindelwald, that mountain center much beloved by tourists of all nationalities, both in summer and winter, with its little town clustering under great range of white mountains. Many who have stood on the famous Grindelwald glacier have been unconscious that they were moving, for the action of the ice as it pushes toward the valley is so slow as to be imperceptible—an ordinary pace for a glacier often being a few yards in 50 years. But the Grindelwald glacier has been moving at the rate of four feet to six feet a day for over a week. It has already obliterated a pine forest and a stone bridge across the Black Latchine, as the ice river makes its way across the water to the upper banks. It is thought the rapid movement is due to the enormous amount of snow and ice on the higher portions of the glacier pressing it downward; but visitors and those making observations are watching with interest, and realizing that what would have taken a thousand years to do gradually is being accomplished before their eyes at topspeed.—Christian Science Monitor.

ALL HE BROUGHT

She had invited the violinist to dinner.
"You didn't bring your violin," she exclaimed when he arrived.
"No. All I brought was my appetite."

THE AGE OF GAS.

Our civilization, Secretary Lane recently remarked, is a product of power plus steel. He went on to characterize the age in which we are living as the age of gas, on the ground that such an expression was justified by the extent to which gas fuel is employed in the fundamental processes of our basic industries. It is interesting to note, in view of this estimate, figures on our gas industry which have just been compiled. From these it appears that 1,166 artificial gas companies in the United States are now supplying more than 300,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas of one sort or another to 8,500,000 customers.—Scientific American.

MANY SCULPTORS IDLE.

According to American Art News, the sculptors complain that there is little work at present in their line of endeavor, and even the leading men are "waiting." The commemorative war statues and patriotic groups that were to decorate cities, towns and cemeteries, have not thus far materialized. The unsettled conditions of the country, they contend, which are holding up building, are accountable for the present "doldrums."

COINCIDENCE IN DATES.

The dates of Monday and Tuesday, the 19th and 20th of January, when placed side by side, give us the date of the present year, 1920. The last time such a sequence gave the date of the year was over a hundred years ago, namely in 1819. In what year will it occur again? Not before 2921.

OTHER DAYS.

"I want to get back to the good old fifty-fifty days," remarked the reminiscient person.
"What do you mean by 'fifty-fifty days'?"
"The days when there was twice 50 cents' worth in every dollar."

CHANGING PLACES.

"The candidates' hats are in the ring."
"And by way of compensation, the candidates themselves are on the rack."

STORIES TOLD BY DANCES

Popular Steps Said to Have Originated From the Customs of American Indian Tribes.

"Whatever one's view concerning the propriety of the 'fox trot,' the 'lame duck' and the 'grizzly bear,' one fact about them may be of interest—animal dances are not new," says a bulletin issued by the National Geographic society from its Washington headquarters.
"These dances recall the steps long practiced by the American Indians and also by some primitive peoples of the present day."
"The red men engaged in the buffalo, deer, bear and eagle dances with true poetry of motion and religious fervor. Modern ballroom artistry frequently is crude as compared with the dances which long existed among these earlier Americans."
"Ethnologists say the so-called animal dances originated in the stories which tribal braves told around their fires to illustrate their adventures and the actions of their prey during the hunt."
"Travelers in the South seas found the primitive peoples of the Society Islands engaging in pastimes which they believe had a similar origin."

TYPICAL SCENERY OF FRANCE

Description of Landscape, as Henry James Saw It, Has Been Held to Be Perfect.

It was a perfectly rural scene, and the still summer day gave it a charm for which its meager elements but half accounted. Longmore thought he had never seen anything so characteristically French; all the French novels seemed to have described it, all the French landscapists to have painted it. The fields and trees were of a cool metallic green. . . . The clear light had a sort of mild grayness; the sunbeams were of silver rather than gold. A great red-roofed, high-stacked farmhouse, with whitewashed walls and a straggling yard, surveyed the highroad on one side, from behind a transparent curtain of poplars. A narrow stream, half choked with emerald rushes and edged with gray aspens, occupied the opposite quarter. The meadows rolled and sloped away gently to the low horizon, which was barely concealed by the continuous line of clipped and marshaled trees.—From "Madame De Mauve," by Henry James.

MINISTRY OF HUMOR.

P. McMahon Glynn, former minister for home and territories, will be much missed in the Australian house of representatives, which dearly loves its joke. Recently Mr. Glynn was giving evidence before the Northern Territory Royal commission. Noticing that the former minister was standing, and not seeing that the court orderly had omitted to place a chair in the witness box, Mr. Justice Ewing said courteously: "Take a chair, Mr. Glynn." Looking at the empty witness box, the former minister replied: "I have not got one, your honor. I lost it at the last election!"

WOOD SUBSTITUTE.

The wood substitute of an English patent consists of sawdust and burnt magnesite mixed with magnesium chloride solution and reinforced with wood embedded in the material or molded into the surface. The exterior may be covered with wood or metal. The material is adapted for a variety of uses, but is suggested especially for such purposes as furniture, fittings and doors.

A BARGAIN.

It was evidently another case of the family trying to find a house to rent or buy that caused a small child in a picture show to pass the following remark as one of the homes of the "400" flashed on the screen: "Gee, daddy, if you could get that for $300 you'd get a bargain, wouldn't you?"

QUALIFIED.

"Can you get somebody well fitted to fix up my advertising for these cabs?"
"Sure; I'll get you a good hack writer."

FOR A BIG REINDEER HERD.

A Canadian company has obtained a concession of more than 75,000 acres which it is proposed to make use of for grazing ground for a great herd of reindeer.

GAVE IT GOOD IRISH NAME

Hibernicizing of Famous French River One of the Humorous Incidents of the War.

It was the lesser, not the greater, rivers of France that linked themselves anew with history during the great war. Father Duffy of the "Fighting Sixty-ninth" liked to tease his friend, the young Frenchman, Lieutenant Rerat, by joking him on the small size of the River Ourcq, a vastly important stream that the regiment had recently crossed.
"I told him," confesses the good father, "that one of our soldiers lay badly wounded near the river; and I offered him a pull at my canteen. Raising himself on one elbow and throwing out his arm, he exclaimed, 'Give it to the Ourcq; it needs it more than I!'"
A little later perhaps he would not have spoken so disrespectfully; for the orphaned French river was frankly adopted as a good Irish stream—and Father Duffy loves everything that savors of the Emerald Isle. To be sure, the Hibernicizing of the Ourcq was merely a happy accident; but it was too good not to abide by. It was due to a soldier's easy scorn of the niceties of the French tongue. Speaking of a certain air battle—that in which young Quentin Roosevelt lost his life—he was heard earnestly telling a comrade:
"It was on the mornin' we crossed the O'Rourke river and captured Murphy's farm!"
Meurcy farm upon the Ourcq had been that day's objective—but nothing can stop the Irish!—Youth's Companion.

DISCARDED AS DANGEROUS

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

Take "Dodson's Liver Tone" Instead!

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents, which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It is harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.
