Tabulated Vote Next Week.

For lack of sufficient help we could not get the tabulated vote of the county in this issue, without delaying this paper into the first of next week.

It will appear next week.

Excerpts from some dozens of leading newspapers, so-called independent and otherwise, from various parts of the country indulge in as many opinions as to why the Republicans won and the Democrats lost on the 2nd. Each writer expressed his individual opinion. The result may have been brought about by a composite of all the causes, but not by anyone singly. When the voter conceives that he wants a change, logic and argument play a small part—he votes and the trick is turned.

Col. Wm. Jennings Bryan suggests that President Wilson get out and let the Republicans take charge, since the people have said they wanted a change in the administration. Mr. Wilson is no quitter; he is cast in a different mold from Col. Bryan. The Colonel quit when the Wilson administration came face to face with the world-war, but not so with Mr. Wilson. He put on his fighting clothes, and helped save the world for freemen. The suggestion is craven.

Should Grow Hairy Vetch More Widely for Forage.

Hairy vetch thrives in nearly all soils and climates, is probably as widely distributed as any other leguminous forage crops, and is used for nearly every purpose for which forage crops are employed. It is remarkable for its ability to grow on poor soil, to resist cold, drought, and alkali, and for its comparative immunity from insects and diseases.

Despite all these advantages, hairy vetch is not one of the major forage crops. The acreage is far below that of several others of less value. Forage specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture say that this crop could be profitably grown on a great many more farms.

Hairy vetch, with all its excellent qualities, is not without some objectionable features. Perhaps the most serious is that it will not stand upright without support. As a hay crop, therefore, it must be planted with rye or some other stiff-stalked crop. There is sometimes difficulty in getting a stand and on the other hand in exterminating it when it is once established.

The high cost of seeding has been perhaps the principal factor in preventing its general use. Specialists hold out no hope for cheap seed, but they assert that the advantages of the crop are sufficient to justify its planting even at high cost. This is particularly true, they say, in the States bordering on the Great Lakes and in most of the Atlantic Gulf coast States.

The subject of seed production in various localities is discussed in detail in Department Bulletin 876, copies of which are available to interested persons, free on application.

Wild animals know where they can find protection, says a United States Department of Agriculture circular on the fur industry. In places where there are game laws, wild creatures hasten to them at the beginning of every open hunting season.

A State of the Biggest Things.

Charlotte Observer.

Politically, North Carolina is the ranking Democratic State in the United States. That is in itself a great distinction, but it is not of political North Carolina that we will be for the moment concerned. It is of the most resourceful State in the Nation that we would talk. Within the course of a few years, if North Carolina keeps up its ticks of the recent past, it will be the first State in the Union in the amount of income taxes delivered to the Government. It would seem impossible that what is commonly, but erroneously, regarded throughout the country a "little State," could hope to develop riches at a rate that would bring it to the top of a column in which such mighty States as New York and Pennsylvania and some of the large Commonwealths west of the Mississippi figure, but the accomplishments of North Carolina during the past three years in self-development of wealth, brings such an eventuality within the scope of the easy possibilities. At about the same time, North Carolina might be expected to be due to arrive as the champion premier State in agricultural products. It is even now comfortably near the top in that column. We might safely put the situation this way: in the development of commerce, industry, manufactures, agriculture and Democratic politics, North Carolina has set the pace for the Nation. Taking account of recently gained distinctions by the State, in an off-hand way, we find that—

Charlotte is the biggest hydro-electric power distributing center in the world;

Badin, the home of the second biggest aluminum plant in the world;

Winston-Salem, the home of the biggest plug tobacco and cigarette industry in the world;

Durham the home of the biggest hosiery and smoking tobacco industry in the world;

Kannapolis, the home of the biggest towel factory in the world;

Greensboro, the home of the biggest denim mill in the world;

High point, second biggest furniture manufacturing town in the world, and Lenoir third biggest;

The mountain counties of North Carolina, the biggest mica producing section in the world;

Canton, the home of the biggest pulp mill in the world;

Around Canton forests that are sending out the biggest yields of acid woods in the world.

As indicated, these are but a few off-hand instances of the biggest things that are local to North Carolina. It is simply hitting the State in high spots, and does not include remark on the undeveloped assets that will make North Carolina known as the greatest mineral producing State in the world, and the home of the biggest water power in the world.

Who will say that a State having all these biggest things in the world and prospect for multiplication of biggest things in all that goes to make a State prosperous and a people happy, should not have a complete system of hard-surfaced roads over which its people might move about among themselves, and over which people from the outside world might come in and intermingle with them? Equipped with hard-surfaced high-ways, North Carolina would become quickly acknowledged as the biggest State in the world.

Some of the prices up on that peak are evidently snow-bound.—Columbia Record.

POULTRY CULLING PAYS WELL

In One Demonstration in Iowa County 609 Hens Out of Flock of 1,548 Were Discarded.

In poultry culling demonstrations held on the farms of the farm bureau members in Emmet county, Iowa, records kept for eleven flocks showed 909 hens were culled out of a total of 1,548 in the flocks, according to the United States department of agriculture. The average number of eggs laid a day by the entire flocks before culling was 401.5, and the average number of eggs laid a day by the 889 hens left after culling was 346.6. The average number of eggs for ten hens a day before culling was 2.6; after culling, 3.5. The average number of eggs laid a day by 368 of the culled hens which were not immediately sold was 14.4.

WASHING WILL INJURE EGGS

Gelatinous Film of Shell That Keeps Out Air and Germs is Removed—Keep Nests Clean.

Eggs should not be washed as this removes the gelatinous film of the shell that keeps out air and germs. The nests should be kept clean so that the eggs will have no chance to become soiled, as removing dirt by washing will allow molds and germs to enter the egg and hasten its spoiling.—Extension Division, North Dakota Agricultural College.

POULTRY NOTES

As grass makes up the bulk of feed for geese, it is doubtful whether it pays to raise them unless good grass range is available during the summer.

The hen that has free range on a farm in summer finds these same things and that is one reason why neglected farm flocks lay well in summer and very poorly at other times.

The results found by experiment seem to prove the contention of some Leghorn breeders that their birds are light eaters in comparison with some other breeds.

If a good lot of well-matured pullets or well-moulted early hens are on hand, and if they are healthy and

No Need to Take Chances with It. Pepto-Mangan Makes Rich, Red Blood

There's no need doing that you can take Pepto-Mangan and build up rich red blood. With red blood you are able to win in the fight against prevailing disease. Try Pepto-Mangan. It comes in tablet or liquid form. Take either kind. The tablet has the same medicinal value as the liquid. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan. Shade trees and ornamental shrubs in the United States represent a value of one billion dollars, according to the estimate of the United States Department of Agriculture. Ten million dollars damage is done annually by shade-tree insects.

A flock of 20,000 poultry, all Single-Comb White Leghorns and all standard bred, is one of the largest to be enrolled in the "Better Sires—Better Stock" Campaign conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture and cooperating agencies to improve the average quality of Domestic animals and fowls in the United States. This flock, in King County, Wash., ranks among the largest and best utility flocks in the country. The owner also reported a herd of 173 Holstein cattle and 21 Duroc-Jersey swine.

MILLIONAIRE OIL MAGNATE OUTWITTED BY LOCAL MAN.

J. C. Arnold Obtained For Trifling Sum An Asset For Which Millionaire Had Offered A Million.

J. C. Arnold, printer and linotype operator, of Huntington, W. Va., has, he says, the distinction of putting one over on the country's greatest oil magnate. In an interview Mr. Arnold tells the full details in a most interesting manner.

"About a year and a half ago," says Mr. Arnold, "I began having attacks of stomach trouble, which continued getting worse until my liver and kidneys were so affected that I was forced to quit work. I had been working night shift on an Akron paper and shifted to day work, thinking a change of hours would help me, but without avail. I was taking medicine continually, and had first one doctor and then another but kept getting worse. Every time a friend suggested a remedy I tried it, until at last some one recommended The Reese Formula R-11. By this time I had given up hopes but began taking The Reese Formula R-11. I had no confidence in it or anything else. Imagine my surprise when after taking half of the first bottle my condition began to improve. I continued taking it and before finishing the third bottle I was completely restored. I am again working and feel better than I have for many years.

"The Reese Formula R-11," continued Mr. Arnold, "cost me a dollar and a quarter a bottle and considering the fact that a millionaire oil magnate offered a million dollars for a relief from stomach trouble I think I am some financier.

But then people don't think they can get relief unless it is expensive. All I can say is that it only cost one dollar and twenty-five cents, the price of The Reese Formula R-11, to relieve stomach trouble, for my case has proven it."

The Reese Formula R-11 is sold by all druggists in Graham and vicinity and is being demonstrated at Graham Drug Co.

Anyone suffering from indigestion, nervousness, rheumatism, headache, lumbago, sour stomach, heartburn, urinary, kidney or liver troubles of any kind will do well to stop in at this store today and talk over their case with The Reese Formula Company's representative. It does not cost one penny to do this and you are under no obligation whatsoever.—Adv.
