Accumulated Interest On Outstanding Loans Is Now $1,159,500,000

Washington.-With the passing of May 15, says a correspondent, another date for paying interest on foreign obligations, the United States is still 'holding the sack," with no activity by any of her major debtors. Great Britain, toward reducing their obligations.

Accumulated interest on this government's four outstanding war loans now stands, in round numbers, as follows:

Great Britain $ 530,000,000 374,500,000 France . 210,500,000 Italy 44,500.000 Belgium

Total$1,159,500,000 Despite the fact that the American oreign debt-funding commission was named and empowered by congress weeks ago, formal notification of readiness to proceed with the work has been indicated by only two powers-Great Britain and France. France has notified this government of the personnel of her funding commission, with out indicating when she would be ready to proceed, while informal conversations already have begun between Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Geddes toward laying the foundation for the ALL FREIGHT RATES funding of the huge British obligation.
