GRAHAM, N. C., Oct. 11, 1923.

"CALLED DOWN" ON "PROSPERITY" STATEMENT.

Optimistic statements made by Senator Cameron (Rep, Ariz) regarding "a wave of prosperity" on the Pacific Coast and his assertion that the distress of farmers in the Northwest is not so great as their newspapers represent it are challenged in a letter which he has received from Otto D. Drain of Portland, Oregon.

This is the second time within a few months that Senator Cameron has been brought to book for his attempts to defend his party by denying or belittling the seriousness of agricultural conditions throughout the country. On a previous occasion he blamed farmers themselves for many of their difficulties. They were "spending too much time 'fivvering,'" Senator Cameron said.

Senators who have failed in their duty to the West can not divert the minds of the people from the vital issues which concern them by making assertions and statements which they surely must know are inconsistent with the facts," Mr. Drain wrote to Senator Cameron.

This thing, says the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, has got to stop. Electing Democrats in Republican balliwicks out on the Pacific Coast is bad enough, but to elect a Democratic first selectman in a rock-ribbed Republican town in Connecticut like Bethlehem, is a violation of all common decency. It recalls the infamous war who was observed that in the philosophy of Editor Clark of Hartford the Creator had made two mistakes. The first was in having divided the world into Democrats and Independents; the second was in failing to correct the first after reading of it in the country's oldest newspaper.

HISTORICAL CELEBRATION

A: Low's Church, 175 Years Old, Saturday and Sunday.

Next Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 13th and 14th, there will be a historical celebration at Low's Church in southern Guilford county.

This church is one hundred and seventy-five years old, and much interesting history is wrapped up in its record.

The addresses on Saturday, the 13th, will be by Supt. J. E. Robertson of Concord; Rev. H. P. Wyrick of Burlington, and Rev. B. A. Barringer of Lenoir.

On Sunday, the 14th, addresses will be delivered by Dr. J. L. Morgan of Salisbury, Dr. W. T. Whitsett of Whitsett, and Hon. J. R. Smith of Liberty.

There are special committees program, on history, and on arrangements, and the occasion promises to be a notable one.

Low's Church is easily reached, being directly on the new Gibsonville-Julian road. There are good roads from all directions. It is expected that a very large crowd will be present for the exercises.

Good dairy farmers have their cows freshen in the fall.

Every stump is a winter lodging place for the boll weevil and a source of infection for next year. Blow them out with Sodatal.

Farmers at the Mt. Airy fair called their exhibits "live-at-home" exhibits, and the fair association was good enough to offer $75 for the first prize; $37.50 for second and $18.75 for third premium on these live-at-home exhibits, reports the county agent.

Mrs. Grace Whitaker Ledbetter won the first prize offered by the Hendersonville News for the best farm story from Henderson county submitted during August. Her story was about an orchard.

COL. JACOB A. LONG.

On Saturday morning at 11 o'clock a large concourse of relatives, friends and acquaintances assembled to pay a last tribute of respect to the memory of Col. Jacob A. Long.

The funeral was conducted from the Presbyterian church by the pastor, Rev. E. N. Caldwell. He was an Elder in the church and the board of Elders acted as honorary pall bearers.

The members of Jacob A. Long Children's Chapter of the Confederacy, named in his honor, acted as flower girls.

At the cemetery the Masonic fraternity, of which he was a member, took charge and the burial was with Masonic honors.

The following is from a volume of biographical sketches of prominent North Carolinians and was written by Capt. S. A. Ashe of Raleigh:

"Jacob Alson Long of Graham, is a member of a family that has given to the State several men not only for strength and character, but for their intellectual capacity. His father was Jacob Long. His mother was Jane Stuart Stockard, daughter of Col. John Stockard, who represented Orange county in the legislature almost continuously from 1826 to 1848, and had been a soldier in the war of 1812 with rank of colonel."

"Born at the old homestead near Graham on April 6, 1846, Col. Jacob A. Long in his boyhood days had the advantage of good schools and attended the high school at Graham and the academy at Hyco, Va., but in 1864, before he had finished his course, he left his books and enlisted in Wright's Battery, a Virginia organization, and continued with the Army of Northern Virginia until Lee's surrender at Appomattox. He was a good soldier, and underwent all the hardships and vicissitudes of the fearful experience that fell to the lot of Lee's veterans toward the close of the struggle, without a murmur and with the spirit of a patriot."

"After the war had ended, he returned home and eventually studied law under William K. Ruffin, a son of Chief Justice Ruffin, who was regarded by many as the best teacher of law in the State, and whose character and intelligence left their deep impression on all the young men who had the good fortune to be his pupils. Having received his license, Col. Long began the practice of law at Graham in 1870, and possessing the confidence of his neighbors and friends, soon became one of the leading practitioners of his county. His political affiliations have been with the Democratic party, and in 1886 he received the Democratic nomination for solicitor of the Fifth district, but was defeated at the polls. Although an active partisan and a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee for many years, he has not been ambitious of office, but in 1893 he was prevailed on to serve one term in the legislature, and was recognized as one of the strong and leading men of that body. He was chairman of the Finance Committee of the house."

"He has always been an ardent Confederate and much interested in whatever concerns the welfare of the old veterans, and he now holds the rank of colonel in the United Confederate Veterans Association. A member of Northern Virginia. Colonel Long is a member of the Masonic fraternity and a Presbyterian in faith, which well accords with his personal traits of character, a faithful adherence to high ideals and fidelity to every trust. Fond of his profession, whose his reading has been disinterestedly, he has applied himself diligently to the study of his law books. His chief recreation is fishing, which has been very attractive to him ever since his boyhood."

"He adopted the law as his profession from his own personal preference, as it opened up avenues to usefulness and influence, and was in accord with his natural disposition to engage in contests of an intellectual character; indeed, one of his distinguished characteristics has been to be always ready for the fray and the last to quit it when once begun. He believes that what success he has met with in life has been largely due to his home training, although he considers that contact with the men with whom he has associated has also been very beneficial in determining his own career. The war interfered with the full completion of his educational course, and he has felt all through life the deficiencies that have arisen from the lack of a more thorough preparation than that which, because of the war, he was able to obtain."

C. I. Long at the time of his death was the oldest living member of the bar of Alamance county. He began the practice of his profession more than 50 years ago in Graham, but a few years later located at Yanceyville. Afterward he lived for a few years in Durham and Greensboro, then moved back to Graham.

In 1886 he was the Democratic nominee for Solicitor and in 1892 he was elected to a seat in the General Assembly, where he took high rank. For many years he was one of the leading lawyers of this section of the State. As an advocate before a jury he was a power—clear, eloquent and convincing. As a citizen he was public spirited and progressive, and whatever cause he espoused it was done wholeheartedly.

On Dec. 20, 1871, he was married to Miss Esta Teague in Graham and to them were born two sons and five daughters, all living and present at the funeral, with their wives and husbands, namely, J. Elmer Long, lawyer of Durham; Ralph Long, successful business man of Winston-Salem; Mesdames S. Ed. Everett, John C. Holladay and Hersey Woodard of Suffolk, Va.; R. Jess. Mebane of Greensboro and Alex. H. Graham of Hillsboro. His three living brothers, Revs. Drs. W. S. Long of Chapel Hill and D. A. Long of Louisburg, and Judge B. F. Long of Statesville were present.

Among others present from a distance were Mrs. Barnett Adams and Geo. W. Long, nephew and niece, of Statesville; Mrs. Land, Goldsboro, a niece; Judges S. B. Adams and R. C. Strudwick of Greensboro, and many friends from this and other counties who came to pay respect to his memory.

Elon Wins Against Lynchburg—Richardson the Star of the Game.

Elon College, Oct. 9.—Howard Richardson, who lives at 110 N. Broad St., Suffolk, Va., proved to be the star player for Elon College in the football game with Lynchburg College at Lynchburg on Saturday. At the critical moment he was called by Coach Corboy to go into the fray, and his trusty toe and unerring aim sent the pig skin squarely between the goal posts for the only score of the game, giving the Elon warriors a victory over the Virginians.

Richardson, a freshman and first-year man on the team, weighing only 130, but a wizard with the drop kick, has won his way to the hearts and esteem of his fellow students by his spectacular performance against the Lynchburg team on Saturday. For years Elon has been unable to turn in a win against the Lynchburg aggregation, though last year they were able to hold the score to a 6-6 tie. Battling for the full length of two quarters Saturday, without either side being able to gain a material advantage, a series of forward passes put Elon's team out in front of the goal, and Richardson was sent in to score a field goal, which he did, winning the day for his college and team-mates.

HOME DEMONSTRATION CORNER

By Miss Edna Reinhardt, County Home Demonstration Agent.

HANDSOME PRIZES AWARDED.

Splendid Work Done by Girls in the Room Beautifying Contest.

Early last spring The County Council of Home Demonstration members put on a room beautifying contest for the girls of the county. The furniture and hardware dealers of the county offered very handsome prizes to the winners, and the girls have entered the race wholeheartedly. Such good work has been done that the judges are distressed because each girl cannot receive a prize, but as one little girl said, "I've got my pretty room and that's enough for me."

Six of the twelve prize-winners did the first bit of painting or papering that had ever been done in their homes. They are so enthusiastic over the results of their labors that they say they are not going to stop until the other rooms in the homes are as pretty as theirs.

The twelve prize winners are as follows:

First and Second—Tied between Blanche Jones and Joy McBane. These prizes are $75.00 cash, given by the hardware dealers of the county, and a $50.00 dressing table, given by the White Furniture Co. of Mebane.

Third Prize—$45.00 drugget, given by Green & McClure Furniture Co. of Graham, goes to Atha Culbertson of Snow Camp.

Fourth Prize—$40.00 trunk, given by Rich & Thompson Furniture Co. of Graham, goes to Mary Beth Garrison of Stony Creek.

Fifth Prize—$25.00 cedar chest, given by Burtner Furniture Co. of Burlington, goes to Frances Anthony.

Sixth Prize—$20.00 chair, given by Cates-Lowe-Cheek Furniture Co. of Burlington, goes to Willis Lee Aldridge of Union Ridge.

Seventh Prize—$18.00 mirror, given by M. B. Smith Furniture Co. of Burlington, goes to Clara Sharpe of Belmont.

Eighth Prize—$18.00 mattress, given by Mebane Mattress Co., goes to Jewel McBane of Mann-dale.

Ninth Prize—$15.00 chair, given by Clark Furniture Co. of Burlington, goes to Jessie McBane of Spring.

Tenth Prize—$6.00 comfort, given by Home Furniture Co. of Mebane, goes to Gladys Aldridge of Union Ridge.

Eleventh Prize—$5.00 chair, given by Reliable Furniture Co. of Mebane, goes to Truth Isley of Eureka.

Twelfth Prize—$5.00 bedspring, given by Mebane Iron Bed Co. of Mebane, goes to Ellen Dixon of Hawfields.

Any neighbors or visitors who wish to inspect the work of the girls will receive a hearty welcome at all times. These rooms are well worth seeing, and these girls can prove to you that pretty rooms do not necessarily cost a lot of money. Only two of the above rooms cost over $25.00. They are an object lesson to the entire county. Visit them.

The Home Agent will spend next week at the State Fair. Clubs due to meet during the week will be in charge of your local leaders.

Certificate of Dissolution

To All to Whom These Presents May Come—Greeting:

Whereas, it appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office, that the law manufacturing company, a corporation of this State, whose principal office is situated at No. 122 Street, in the town of Haw River, county of Alamance, State of North Carolina (J. Harvey White being the agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served), has complied with the requirements of Chapter 22, Consolidated Statutes, entitled "Corporations," preliminary to the issuing of this Certificate of Dissolution:

Now, therefore, I, W. N. Everett, Secretary of State of the State of North Carolina, do hereby certify that the said corporation did, on the 8th day of Sept., 1923, file in my office a duly executed and attested consent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation, executed by all the stockholders thereof, which said consent and the record of the proceedings aforesaid are now on file in my said office as provided by law.

In testimony whereof, I have hereto set my hand and affixed my official seal at Raleigh, this 8th day of September, A. D. 1923. (Seal of State.) W. N. EVERETT, Secretary of State.

About Alamance Negro Farmers.

State Agent C. R. Hudson, after a visit, writes The Gleaner, as follows:

We have recently made a field inspection of the Negro Farm Demonstration Work being done in Alamance county. We feel that you might be interested in giving publicity to this feature of our general Extension Service, so I give you herewith a brief outline of what we found on the trip.

The first field demonstration visited was that of Mack Worth, whose corn we found making a good yield, but could make more if the stand was complete. He is doing a good thing in growing peas between the rows of corn, thus getting two crops and also adding organic matter and nitrogen for the purpose of improving the land.

The Melville School, which is cooperating with Local Agent J. W. Jeffries, is growing a plot of cotton to finish paying for its school building. This shows a cooperative spirit in that community. The land will make about a bale of cotton per acre, which, at the present prices, should bring a net return of over $100.00. The people have contributed free labor, fertilizer, etc., in growing the cotton.

We found Sandy Parish in the southern part of the county with a fine plot of well-bolled cotton, which evidently will make a full bale per acre. He is in a contest with James Ratcliffe and others who are trying to see which can have the best cotton.

Henry Katcliffe has some fine soy beans and is doing other good farming.

In the northern part of the county we found a section of good farmers who work cooperatively in many ways. They own a community bull, which is getting along in years, so they recently bought a young one from the best Jersey stock in the county. They will have a community fair of their own, in addition to sending exhibits to the Mebane Fair. They bought this season cooperatively over 100 tons of fertilizer and 100 bushels of soy beans.

We found Thad Jeffries to be a prosperous farmer, with carbide lights in his house and other home conveniences. His demonstration of the use of lime in growing soy beans shows that it pays to use lime.

We found James Jeffries with some fine pork hogs, which he had just turned into a field of corn and peas. The hogs already weigh around 200 pounds, so they will be large ones by killing time.

Andrew Jeffries is completing a splendid residence, which is a credit to the community. He has some 150 White Leghorn hens that bring him regular returns. He is the first man in that community to grow soy beans. He had two barns of tobacco in process of curing, and they were both in splendid condition.

David Haith is another prosperous farmer in the community. His demonstration corn looks as though it would make 40 to 50 bushels per acre, or at least twice as much as the average State yield. We tasted some of his watermelons and can certify that they are as good as any we have eaten this season.

Since our work started in this community two years ago it is estimated that fully two-thirds of the farmers are now growing all the corn and hay they need on their farms. They say since they have learned how to grow these crops economically they expect to quit buying them.

In addition to the above we visited several plots of members of the Boys' Corn Clubs. The boys, too, through cooperation with the Extension Service are learning to be better farmers.

New Marketing System Grows in Favor.

One hundred and seventy cotton farmers in the county have so far identified themselves with the new system of marketing cotton.

Many farmers in the southern part of the county who belong to the tobacco association are joining the cotton association also. The progressive element of our farmers are agreed that cooperative marketing of both cotton and tobacco has steadied the price and is holding the price up to a higher level than would be the case had there been no organizations.

The membership drive is meeting with good success, and already many bales have been delivered to the receiving station at Graham. W. KERR SCOTT, County Agent.
