Rosen Rye Unsited to North Carolina.

Farmers who plan to grow a crop of rye either alone or in mixtures this winter should remember that Rosen Rye is not suited to North Carolina conditions.

"This variety of rye seems to be an excellent crop for some of the northern states but it is not suited to North Carolina," says E. C. Blair, extension agronomist at State College. "Several years ago this variety was given a fair trial on the Experiment Station farm at Statesville. Its yield was five bushels per acre. The Abruzzi rye planted right beside it on the same day made 19 bushels."

Mr. Blair has stated again and again in his campaign for more clover crops in the State that the Abruzzi variety was best suited to this State and the facts developed by the Experiment Station workers seem to bear out his assertions. He feels that North Carolina merchants make a mistake in offering Rosen Rye for seed purposes because this is responsible for much of the variety being planted in the State each year. The results are always disappointing. On the other hand, the Abruzzi rye is early and makes an abundant growth for either grazing or turning under in the spring before the Rosen rye ever starts to growing.

"This year," says Mr. Blair, "a field of Rosen rye in Bladen County ripened about July 15 which was more than a month after the Abruzzi rye had been harvested. The worst features of this Rosen rye are that it is very late, it never makes satisfactory growth, it is used as an adulterant in Abruzzi rye and many growers are attracted to it because the seed are cheap."

Abruzzi rye may be higher in price but it is cheaper in the end and for best and most economical results in growing a rye crop this winter, Abruzzi rye, only should be grown.

Musical Hog Calling Not a Lost Art.

Musical and effective hog calling is not a lost art among the farm folks of North Carolina if the performance of the 52 contestants in this feature event at the State Farmers' Convention last week is a real indication.

Great volumes of sound, punctuation by appealing lower tones and convincing facial expression were used by each of the contestants. So realistic did the callers make their efforts that the 1,500 observers gathered in front of Pullen Hall began to look around apprehensively fearing that perhaps a great herd of swine would come rushing over the campus and sweep them from their feet. It was impossible for the judges to select the three prize winners at the first trial held at midday on Wednesday, July 28, so a second contest was held for the ten selected in the first occasion.

At the second contest, a greater crowd had gathered. The news had gone abroad over Raleigh that there were some real hog callers at the College and the visiting farmers were joined by a great number of town people. The final selection was announced at the evening meeting and J. C. Nichols of Durham was awarded first prize of $25 as the champion caller of the Convention. Second prize of $15 was won by J. H. Sprinkle of Route 7, Winston-Salem and third prize of $10 was awarded to H. G. Bundy of Elizabeth City.

The officials of the convention stated that this contest brought a new note of informality and fun into the convention proceedings and the farmers themselves voted that it must become an annual event. The ladies, not to be neglected in such fun, made a request that, next year, prizes be offered for successful chicken callers. The fund of $50 used as prizes for the contest was donated by the American Limestone Company of Knoxville, Tennessee.

It is easy to grow an education for the child by sowing for the farm woodlot now.

August Ends Planting For Fall Garden

The latest planting dates for many vegetables for the fall garden close by the middle of August. Frost is too near to plant later than this and the vegetables will not mature so as to be of value to the grower.

"The plants of cabbage, tomatoes and celery must be set during the first half of August to insure their maturity before killing frost occurs," says Prof. Robert Schmidt, vegetable investigator for the North Carolina College. "The first week in August is not too late to plant late Irish potatoes in eastern North Carolina. The succession plantings of snap beans should be continued all over the State and the first sowings of such crops as lettuce, spinach, turnips, mustard, Chinese cabbage and kale should be made."

Where tomato wilt is present in the garden soil, Prof. Schmidt recommends the planting of such wilt resistant varieties as the Norton or Marglobe. It is unnecessary to stake tomatoes unless the season is unusually wet. Unstaked vines will produce a larger crop though they will be a little later.

Tomatoes, Irish potatoes, celery and cucumbers should be sprayed frequently or dusted with Bordeaux mixture to check the serious diseases which affect these crops, states Prof. Schmidt. The late summer and fall is the most trying season of the year for the garden and it should not be neglected. Frequent cultivation is necessary if the season is dry and if too much rain falls, the grower will have hard work to keep crab grass and weeds from smothering the crop. Irrigation will pay in many gardens.

Bright Colors Adopted For Southern Engines

Displacing the sombre black which has been the universal garb for locomotives on American railways in recent years, the Southern Railway System has adopted a color scheme of green, gold and burnished steel for 23 heavy Pacific type passenger engines, now being received from the American Locomotive Company.

These engines which will be used to pull the Southern's crack trains have tenders, cabs, smokestacks and other projections above the boiler jackets, drivers and other wheels painted a rich dark green with gold-leaf strip-

Substitutes are generally more expensive in the end than genuine articles. Housewives have learned—they KNOW this is true where bakings are concerned.

Self rising flours are classed as substitutes for plain flour and good baking powder. The use of these special mixtures is very liable to result in false economy, failures and waste on bake day.

Remember there is a big difference, in many ways, between biscuits and other bakings made from these so-called self-rising flours and those made from good plain flour and a dependable leavener. Try the experiment—make a baking from each—convince yourself.

You will find the baking made from flour and baking powder far more attractive in appearance. It will raise higher—retain its full food value and taste better. For best results, do not fail to use Calumet, the Economy Baking Powder, and a reliable brand of plain flour.

Just think of it—the sale of Calumet is 2 1/2 times those of any other brand. It contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by the United States Food Authorities. It is pure and sure.

You save when you buy it—you save when you use it.
