Three Handsome Homes.

On S. Main street three handsome brick veneer homes are nearing completion—those of Mr. W. B. Green, Mr. Norman E. Sykes and Mr. Griffin McClure.

The home of Mr. Green was burned last spring. This was the large residence built by Dr. J. C. Simmons. The lot had a large frontage. Mr. Green located his new home a short distance from the old site and disposed of a building site to Mr. Sykes.

Mr. E. P. McClure, north of Mr. Green's place, disposed of a lot to his son, Griffin, whose new home is only a few feet from that of his father, who expects to move his residence nearer to the north boundary of his lot.

These new homes and changes have so transformed appearances along that side of the street that it does not look like the same locality.

On farther south, on the opposite side of the street and next to Mr. Walter M. Euliss, James M. Ivey has well under way a nice cottage.

Spray Tomatoes to Control Disease.

Tomatoes should be sprayed every two or three weeks with poisoned Bordeaux mixture to prevent leaf diseases and to get rid of worms, advises E. B. Morrow, extension horticulturist at State College.

The mixture may be bought ready prepared or made at home, but care should be used in home-mixing so as to get the proper solution. If as much as fifty gallons of the mixture is needed, three pounds of bluestone and six pounds of hydrated lime should be used for each fifty gallons of water. Mix the lime with enough water to form a thin paste before adding to the larger amount.

When the tank or barrel is filled, add the dissolved bluestone and one and one-half pounds of arsenate of lead to the fifty gallons. Bluestone may be dissolved by using hot water but care should be taken to use only glass, earthenware, or wooden containers for this work.

Smaller amounts of the mixture can be made by using one ounce of bluestone, two ounces of hydrated lime and one-half an ounce of arsenate of lead to each gallon of water.

Mr. Morrow states that this mixture should be applied every three weeks at least and that every part of the plant should be touched with the spray. By doing this, the worms and other insects will be destroyed and the plants protected from the leaf diseases so prevalent in the State.
